AUSTRIANS GIVE SONS, MONEY TO HELP U.S. IN WAR

Chicago Rumanians, Hungarians Serve.

[This is the last in a series of articles on win the war activities of groups of foreign birth or extraction in the Chicago area.]

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago and nearby industrial towns contain more than 150,000 residents of stock originating in Austria, Hungary, and Rumania, three countries which are now under Nazi control. The three groups are aiding various war enterprises of the United States and are active on the home front.

Their leaders report they are participating in war bond and stamp drives, in the Red Cross and USO, in salvage projects and civilian defense, and especially in the factories and mills as workers producing war materials.

Work for Nation in War.

About 35,000 Americans of Rumanian extraction live in the industrial areas. They are a Latin people, their language similar to Italian and Spanish. A leading organization is the Alliance of Rumanian-Americans for Democracy, a national society. It is composed of American citizens of Rumanian birth or antecedents. President of the Chicago branch is John Secosan, who said its chief aim is to educate members how to be most able and efficient in aiding in the support of the United States.

The Union and League of Rumanian Societies of America is another organization. It embraces fraternal and other societies. Two of the largest lodges which affiliate with the league are Speranta, of which John L. Spornick has been president for 11 years, and the Immigrants' club of which Nick Voina is president. The two presidents reported that members of all the lodges are diligent in war enterprises. Churches of the group also are active in war work. Figures by Spornick show that Rumanian organizations in Chicago and the mill cities have sold or purchased more than $200,000 in war bonds. In Chicago the amount of bonds purchased total $18,000; Indiana Harbor, $36,000; East Chicago, $28,000; Gary, $42,000; Hammond, $18,000, and Aurora, $62,000. In addition, large amounts have been bought thru pay roll deductions.

Fight Carol's Visit to United States.

One aim of the leaders has been to prevent King Carol, now in Mexico, who abdicated in 1940, from coming to America.

"American Rumanians," Spornick said, "are all out for America. They know every blow they give for America is also a blow for liberation of Rumania. Prime Minister Antonescu, who was put in by King Carol, joined with Germany against the will of the people of Rumania."

Americans of Austrian descent date back to groups that came to this country and Chicago before the Civil war. Estimates of the present number of Austrians and their descendants in Chicago vary. Census figures gave the total as 55,000, but their leaders estimate the population of their nationality in Chicago as approximately 125,000. Many Austrians were listed erroneously as Germans because they speak the German language.

Many Sons in Forces.

Most of the Austrian societies are organized under two groups—the United Austrian and the German-Hungarian societies. Headquarters of the societies are at Wicker Park hall, 2024 West North avenue. The neighborhood surrounding the intersection of 47th street and Princeton avenue is an Austrian center.

Many sons of Austrians enlisted in the armed forces prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor and hundreds more have joined the services since.

Leaders report their groups have coöperated in purchasing war bonds, Red Cross work, and donation of blood to the Red Cross blood bank. Many are block captains in civilian defense. Children of Austrians consider themselves as only Americans and hold no allegiance to the country in which their parents were born.

Many Austrians are expert tool and

ADRIFT 14 DAYS! A FLYER'S STORY

Yank in RAF Sees Two Companions Die.

[Pilot Holbrooke Mahn of Denver, Colo., a 23 year old American in the royal Canadian air force, spent 14 days in a small boat in the North sea after his bomber crashed off the Dutch coast in June. Here is his story.]

BY HOLBROOKE MAHN.

[Written for Wide World.]

On June 4 at 1:15 a. m. I took off from my airdrome in a Hampden bomber with my crew on a roving mission over the Frisian Islands off the Dutch coast.

Pilot Officer Mahn.

While flying 200 to 300 feet up, the port engine of my "kite" suddenly failed and we went into a turn which put us down into the sea.

Altho the plane sank almost immediately, I managed to escape. One gunner and the navigator also came to the surface but the other gunner never was seen again.

Lose Most of Rations.

Our tiny dinghy had been released successfully and we climbed into it to await daylight. There were some provisions in the boat, but most of our iron rations and other gear had gone down with the plane.

At daylight we bailed out our boat and tried to dry our clothing. The food was found to be oil soaked but the two quart containers of water were intact. We limited each man to one small drink every night.

We tried out some flares but they wouldn't work. The second and third days were pretty much the same as the first, but the fourth day brought the first trouble. A high wind sprang up. Heavy swells endangered our small craft and soaked us thoroly. We bailed feverishly. Sleep was well nigh impossible because the boat always was near capsizing.

For six days more we bailed constantly.

On the eighth day, the navigator who had been delirious, died.

On the 10th day the gunner began drinking seawater. I took the can he used and threw it into the sea. Just about that time it began to rain. Ripping some canvas off the dinghy I caught several tablespoons of the water. The gunner wouldn't touch it, so I drank it all.

Memory Begins to Fail.

The gunner became delirious, began suffering from the effects of the seawater, and died. Because of my weakened condition I had trouble in getting his body out of the boat.

My memory began failing the next day, but it was the 13th day when I had my first food since the crash. A seagull alighted on the edge of the dinghy. I grabbed it, cut off its head, sucked the blood from its neck, and ate most of the bird raw.

On the 14th day I heard a ship's motor throbbing near by and I managed to cry out "Ship ahoy." The creaw heard me and threw me a line."

Canadians in Britain Rehearse for 'Second Front' Invasion

WITH A CANADIAN ATTACK FORCE AT A BRITISH PORT, July 12 (AP).—The greatest raid and invasion maneuvers ever held in European waters have been carried out by a Canadian attack force, the royal navy and the royal air force as a prelude to what may be major military operations on the European coast.

For weeks a special force which included Canadian infantry and armored regiments went thru combined operations training. Masses of armored fighting vehicles were landed from several hundred vessels in support of waves of assaulting infantry.

Several times a huge armada put to sea with the Canadian force aboard and full dress rehearsals of staggering dimensions were staged with raids on a section of the English coast.

The troops carried arms, ammunition and explosives such as an attack force would need if it went into the Low Countries, Norway or France.

Yanks Take Part.

United States lieutenants and sergeants were attached to the Canadian force. It was the first time Americans had worked with the Canadians.

In the practice raids groups of assault craft and R-boats (infantry landing craft) headed for the coast protected by gunboats and naval motor launches. A couple of destroyers moved thru the misty night. The sea was dotted for miles with invasion boats silently speeding to land.

Behind were other craft, more infantry, mother ships, and larger warships which simulated a naval bombardment.

Planes Swoop Overhead.

Infantry poured down the ramps of assault boats and rushed the beach defenses. They were across the beach in less than 15 seconds. Then came the main attack. Two battalions smacked the beach defenses. There were terrific explosions as the engineers blew holes in the wire and tank traps. The Canadians clawed and cut their way thru.

Other Troops Land.

A bridgehead was soon established and other battalions landed. After several hours ashore the Canadians, who had taken their objective, were ordered to withdraw. Under carefully laid plans the tanks and troops reembarked and the fleet sailed back to its base.

Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian army in Britain, watched the landings. There were several senior United States army and naval officers among the observers. On one occasion Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the United States army forces in the European theater, visited the force.

Reds Call for Attacks.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, July 12 (AP).—The Moscow News called again today for the immediate establishment of a second front against Germany, declaring "Hitler's back is his weakest spot."

Press Demands Second Front.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 13 [Monday].—In the face of admitted Russian reverses, Monday morning's News Chronicle and the Daily Herald stress the urgent necessity for establishment of a second front.

The Chronicle states: "We must face hazards. We are committed to the adventure." The paper declares that there is no place for "platonic admiration" of Russian valor.

The Daily Herald says, "We pledged to establish that second front. When are we going to keep our promise?"

AUSSIES SPARK ADVANCE ALONG EGYPTIAN COAST

CAIRO, Egypt, July 12 (AP).—The British army of the Nile, sparked by reënforcements of Australians, had driven the axis forces 10 miles west of El Alamein today and consolidated its new hold in the Tel el Elsa sector of Egypt after capturing 2,000 Germans and Italians and destroying 18 tanks.

[The British radio, quoting from its correspondents in Africa, said a further advance was made by the British on Sunday morning and that 700 more prisoners were taken.]

Mobile columns and artillery dealt with enemy tank sorties on the central sector of the 50 mile desert front which now lies 75 miles west of the great naval base of Alexandria. German movements reported on Friday on the extreme southern sector near the torrid Qattara depression degenerated into "light enemy activity."

Motor Transport Captured.

Guns and motor transport vehicles also were captured in the successful British drive along the Mediterranean.

Australian shock troops participated in the British coastal push, many of the Aussies charging into bayonet attacks early on Friday morning before the general advance order was given.

The Australians were equipped with new anti-tank guns which they were using at shorter range than usual.

To the south and west of the Alamein line the South Africans, New Zealanders, and other British units had thrown a line across the desert.

The Fascists were not very well dug in, and the Aussies overran position after position, grabbed Italian machine gun posts at bayonet point, swung the guns around and trained them on other Italian units to the west.

Ahead of Tank Support.

In some instances the Australians were far ahead of their supporting tanks. Their predawn assault was such a surprise that their losses were comparatively light. Many Italians still were in their camp beds when captured.

Loot taken by the Aussies from the Italians included a pet donkey and trombone.

The British said large scale air battles developed as German Marshal Erwin Rommel threw in "large formations of bombers and fighters" in an attempt to block the British advance.

Axis transport, including staff cars, was raked by allied planes and five vehicles were known to have been destroyed.

Receives Air Reënforcements.

Marshal Rommel, who has sought to counter the RAF and United States air superiority, seemed to have received at least a modicum of reënforcements because the British reported increased enemy air activity over their advanced troops.

The allied air force has been hammering the tired and stalled African corps and its tenuous, tattered supply lines mercilessly for 10 days or

Calls for Blow at Japs Now to Avert Disaster

BULLETIN.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 13 (Monday)—(AP).—The allied command communique today said: "Allied and enemy air activity in all sectors was limited to reconnaissance."

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 12 (AP).—The united nations must be prepared for another Japanese offensive in the Pacific unless they themselves attack Japan soon, H. V. Evatt, minister for external affairs, said tonight in a speech.

"I am convinced that if we do not move shortly to the offensive, Japan will," he declared.

He said he did not underestimate the "perpetual menace" of Germany and that he recognized that the theaters where the Germans were concentrating were vital, but added:

"We must not be misled into a sense of false security in the Pacific. Japan's power must not again be underestimated. She is still enjoying what amounts to a new empire and the task of conquering Japan is hardly begun."

Defense Not Enough.

Evatt declared there is grave danger in thinking that it is enough only to hold the Japanese "at bay."

"The Japanese never stay still," he said, "and when they seem quiescent they are only gathering strength for another spring. It is suicidal to encourage the feeling of overconfidence and complacency.

"Until we are able to attack Japan, we must be prepared to be attacked by Japan in almost any part of the Pacific.

"Undoubtedly the position of Australia has been greatly improved in the last few months. The danger is that we will be misled by this improvement into supposing the stalemate in the Pacific is satisfactory. Oversatisfaction presages disaster."

Urges Attack On Japan.

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 12 (AP).—Emanuel Shinwell, Laborite member of parliament, today suggested intensified United States attacks on Japan as a means of relieving pressure on Russia. Speaking at a second front meeting, Shinwell said a strong American attack on Japan would release thousands of Russian troops in Siberia to fight on the soviet western front.

FIND SILENCE 'DEPRESSING'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 12.—The long lapses of silence from the war and navy departments on progress of operations in the Aleutian Islands, where the Japs have gained a foothold, have had a depressing effect on the home front, the semiofficial Army and Navy Journal said today in its current issue.

[Gov. Ernest Gruening and civilian leaders of Alaska have urged President Roosevelt to establish a unified military command in the territory, it was learned in Washington last night, on the ground that coördination between the army and navy there is unsatisfactory at present.]

The Journal also said that American submarine operations in those waters were made difficult by lack of proper charting. This fact, it said, increased the achievement of American submarine operations in torpedoing five Jap destroyers at Agattu and in Kiska harbor.

Calls Action "Heartening."

Communiques describing this action proved "heartening to the American people," the Journal said. The long lapses of silence "while doubtless necessary from a military standpoint, had a depressing effect on the home front—an effect which the positive statements in the new communiques definitely offset," the Journal commented.

The Office of War Information, under direction of Elmer Davis, is trying to persuade the war and navy departments to release more information.

The Japs landed on Attu and at Kiska, American outpost nearest Japan, almost six weeks ago but only meager information has been released.

Only One Harbor Charted.

On the charting by the United States of the waters in the Aleutians, the Journal had this to say:

"The waters there are poorly charted, it having been reported recently that the coast and geodetic survey chart of the western Aleutians indicates 11 harbors, bays, or inlets, in Agattu, yet only one, Chichagof harbor, is charted and that from a survey made by the navy in 1855.

ADMITTED NAZI GAINS THREATEN TO SPLIT ARMY

MOSCOW, July 13 (Monday)—(AP).—German troops, sweeping thru Kantemirovka and Lisichansk in their push toward the Caucasus, have rolled the Red army back 70 more miles to Boguchar in the greatest penetration yet of Russian soil, the soviets acknowledged officially today.

Only in the Voronezh sector at the upper end of the 200 mile Don front were the Russians giving ground slowly. But the Russians admitted that the Germans in their great 1942 offensive were hammering at the gates of that city, too, which is a key point on the Moscow-Rostov railway.

Threatened Red Armies.

The Kantemirovka-Lisichansk break-thru definitely threatened to split the central and southern Red armies and appeared to be the prelude to fighting for the rich Caucasus oil region itself.

The Red army was reported fighting a delaying action and taking an enormous toll of German men and machines.

But the emerging, critical fact was that the Germans fast were getting into a position to wheel southeastward down the Don valley to Stalingrad astride the important Volga river linking the Caucasus with central Russia.

Southern Anchor Holds.

Boguchar is 50 miles east of a line drawn due north of Rostov, the southern anchor of the Red line, which thus far has held the Germans pushing along the sea of Azov. Rostov, which the Germans reached last year and then had to leave, was the previous highwater mark of eastward invasion.

[The Vichy radio heard in London reported German forces had occupied Pokrovsk in an intensified drive on Rostov. Pokrovsk is less than 20 miles north of Taganrog and 40 miles northwest of Rostov. An earlier broadcast said the Nazis had occupied Boguchar and also Voroshilovgrad, 30 miles southwest of Lisichansk, in a drive toward Stalingrad.]

The crumpling of Voronezh, which the Germans had claimed they captured nearly a week ago, would release a still larger Nazi flood over the steppes of ancient Voronezh province and make the Red army's liaison still more difficult.

Waves of Men Cross Don.

News dispatches telling of the grave position of the Red army in the Voronezh area said the Germans were throwing waves of men and machines across the Don river, which is only 10 miles west of Voronezh.

The communique acknowledging the German penetration said:

"During July 12 our troops on the outskirts of Voronezh carried out fierce battles against the enemy. Our troops evacuated Kantemirovka and fought in the area of Boguchar. Our troops also carried out battles in the district of Lisichansk. Upon order of the command our troops evacuated Lisichansk in order to occupy new positions."

Claim Thousands Slain.

Thousands of German troops fell on the front yesterday, 76 Nazi tanks were destroyed, and

U. S. SETS UP FUND TO PAY EXPENSES OF FOREIGN PRESS

Swedish Group Is First to Dip Into 'Gravy.'

Washington, D. C., July 12 [by the New York News].—The working press of hot Washington has discovered that a mysterious $100,000 expense account for reporters—a big, juicy hundred grand gravy bowl—has been slapped down on the capital table by our official propaganda chiefs.

The cheering call "come and get it" has been sounded by officials. But the gravy bowl, it turns out, is reserved strictly for the aid and comfort of visiting correspondents of foreign countries whose people we wish to impress with stories of our war effort.

It's all being handled very delicately so that no feelings will be hurt by such a crude gesture as handing over a treasury check to a visiting journalist in return for a sympathetic report on America at war. But the fact remains that the government funds by indirection—at present by way of the National Press club—are paying the fares, hotel bills, meals, and "incidentals and miscellaneous expenses" run up by six visiting correspondents from Sweden. More than a dozen representatives of Latin American papers are soon to get their share of the official largesse earmarked for foreign writers.

Propaganda Maneuver.

The idea is a part of the propaganda effort thought up in the offices of Coördinator of Information William J. Donovan [before that was absorbed by the Office of War Information of Elmer Davis] and of Coördinator of Inter-American Affairs Nelson Rockefeller.

Everything was very hush-hush because there was the qualm among certain higher-ups that a charge of influencing the press of neutral nations by an advance of cold cash would be embarrassing in the light of previous denunciations of axis propaganda methods.

The correspondents from neutral Sweden were supposed to arrive here last week on the Drottningholm under diplomatic immunity. But at the last minute something leaked. The Germans protested their immunity as neutral newspaper men and they arrived ahead of schedule after a flight by air to Great Britain and thence to Lisbon.

When one of them spoke in public, Office of Facts and Figures started an investigation. The visiting Swedes were reported to have spoken in friendly terms of little Finland. And wasn't Finland, demanded OFF, fighting our ally Russia? OFF discovered the visitors were described as the "invited guests" of the National Press club.

OFF Let In on Secret.

OFF queried the National Press club and was let into the secret. The visitors were sponsored by the press club at the request of the government propaganda chiefs—who had promised to kick back, all very quietly, all expenses incurred by the National Press club and the neutral correspondents during the present junket.

OFF was doubly satisfied. Not only were the Donovan and Rockefeller outfits behind the mystery but it developed there was further assurance. The financial transactions incurred in this new venture of government bankrolling of reporters' expense accounts are being handled by the club's financial secretary, Ted Coop—ex-Associated Press star now in Byron Price's Office of Censorship.

2 FRENCH SHIPS IN DARING 11,000 MILE TRIP HOME

TOULON, France, July 12 (AP).—Two small French warcraft, the surviving French units of the battle of Courrier bay, Madagascar, arrived here today with more than 200 men after a daring 11,000 mile voyage from Madagascar.

To the welcome of whistles and the full regalia put on at short notice by the entire fleet at this French naval base, the 1,400 ton submarine Glorieux and the 2,000 ton colonial escort vessel D'Iberville steamed into port. They had come around Cape of Good Hope and thru the Strait of Gibraltar.

The brief resistance of French naval units to the British at Courrier bay cost the French an auxiliary cruiser, an escort ship, and two submarines.

DIES SEEKING TREATMENT FOR WOUND.

Cornelius Brown, Negro, 31 years old, 5625 Prairie avenue, died yesterday at Provident hospital shortly after he had arrived for treatment of a knife wound in his chest. He said he had been stabbed by an unknown Negro in front of 312 East 58th street.

"L" UNION GROUP TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE ON JULY 21

12 Cent Increase in Pay Scale Sought.

Employes of the elevated lines who are members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Elevated Railway Employés' union will hold a strike referendum on July 21 on their demands for a wage increase and longer vacation periods.

W. F. Levander.

The strike referendum was approved at a union meeting Saturday night in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium. W. F. Levander, president of the union, said that the company and the union had been unable to agree on the demands. A union contract with the company expired last May 31.

Demand 12 Cent Boost.

The elevated trainmen demand a flat increase of 12 cents an hour and a 15 day vacation period instead of the 10 day vacation which is in effect. The present wage for motormen is 86 cents an hour and ranges downward for other classes of carmen. The elevated trainmen's union has 4,500 members.

A threat of a strike of 15,000 members of the street car men's union to enforce demands for increased wages was averted last week when the union and Surface lines' officials agreed to arbitrate. The Surface lines' car men are asking a wage boost of 10 to 12 cents an hour.

Alderman Represents Union.

The street car men's union has selected Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] as its arbitration representative, and the company will select its representative today. A third arbitrator may be selected by the two.

The Office of Price Administration has filed a petition with the Illinois Commerce commission asking that street car fares be reduced from 8 cents to 7 cents, the level prior to April 20, when the commission authorized the 1 cent increase.

The commission has indicated that it will expedite the hearing for an early ruling.

AUTO STRIKES DITCH ONE KILLED.

Taylorville, Ill., July 12 (AP).—Joseph Binton Bonfield, 21 years old, of Jerseyville, Ill., was killed today when the automobile of Fred J. Clark, 29, plunged down a 30 foot embankment near Kincaid lake.

A Meeting Place

The Navy Mothers' club of Chicago yesterday opened its new family visiting quarters at 335 North Michigan avenue. The club provides a place for navy men stationed here to meet their visiting families. Mrs. Helen Joyce, president, said navy men, with distant families unable to visit them, are welcome and promised that club members would send cards to all mothers informing them their son "looked well and ate heartily." The club needs a billiard table, several davenports, a refrigerator, and radio, she said.

RIDE SHARING MADE ONE OF CONDITIONS IN GETTING NEW TIRES

Cleveland, O., July 12 (AP).—The Office of Price administration announced today machinery is being established to link the share the ride campaign with rationing tires to war workers.

Beginning Wednesday transportation advisory committees will be organized in war plants with more than 100 workers to pass on applicants' qualifications for recapped or new grade 2 tires. A worker will be required to secure a statement from the committee before a rationing board will consider his request for tires.

Kenneth L. Lapoint, tire rationing chief for Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, West Virginia, and Kentucky, said a worker wishing consideration from a tire rationing board must qualify on the following four points: Be an employé of a war industry with more than 100 workers, participate in a recognized share the ride plan, give his tires reasonable care without abuse, and limit use of his car for other than home to shop transportation to a reasonable amount.

LEGION TO BEGIN DRIVE FOR USED RECORDS FRIDAY

A nation-wide drive starting Friday to collect 37,500,000 used, old and broken phonograph records was announced by the American Legion yesterday as its newest effort to aid the armed forces.

The records collected by the legion will be sold to record manufacturing companies and the proceeds used to buy new records for camps.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 12.—Four big scrap rubber firms stand to make millions in profits out of the nation-wide scrap rubber drive which ended last Friday night, Elliott E. Simpson, counsel for the subcommittee of the house coinage, weights, and measures committee investigating the rubber situation, charged tonight.

Elliott E. Simpson.

He said four companies have been appointed "agents" for the government's Rubber Reserve corporation. The profits to these companies thru commissions and other charges "will be vast, amounting to millions upon millions of dollars, for, eventually, millions of tons of scrap rubber and finished goods will pass thru their hands," Simpson, an independent New York rubber dealer for many years, said.

Estimate Appears High.

His estimate of "millions of tons" of rubber was considered extremely high since latest official estimates on the results of the scrap campaign placed the total at about 500,000 tons. Apparently Simpson's estimate was based upon the prospective turnover in the scrap rubber market in the future.

The four so-called agents, Simpson asserted, stand to profit at the expense of millions of Americans who contributed their waste rubber and also at the expense of the country's supply of scrap rubber and finished rubber goods.

"These four agents are being granted 'commissions' of $1.50 on every ton of scrap rubber which is collected for the rubber reserve, whether or not they were instrumental in collecting the scrap," said Simpson. "On top of that they are being paid a considerable sum for sorting the scrap once it's in their warehouses. But the greatest bonanza of all will come after the scrap is sorted, after such items as crepe soles—worth $462 a ton—are separated from run-of-th-mill grades.

Granted a Monopoly.

"The four companies which have been appointed as the sole rubber reserve agents have a mortgage on the vital materials of the nation.

"The future of our country is in their hands, as they have a monopoly on America's supply of scrap rubber and finished rubber goods.

"One of these four agents has even gone further. The firm succeeded in having some of their employés removed from the company's pay roll and placed with the WPB, in nice posts in certain sections of the country, enabling them to look after the interests of their own company as far as scrap rubber was concerned," Simpson charged.

How Agents Operate.

"As authorized agents of the rubber reserve, these four firms operate in this manner: First, they are obtaining their $1.50 per ton commissions on all rubber contributed by patriotic Americans. Second, they are authorized to issue shipping instructions for all large quantities in the hands of dealers, advising the dealers they can collect $25 a ton from the rubber reserve. The agents, naturally, receive their $1.50 a ton commission on these transactions, too.

"Sorted scrap rubber is shipped directly to reclaimers, without these agents even handling it, but they still receive their $1.50 a ton commissions. Unsorted scrap and finished goods are forwarded, under shipping instructions, to warehouses owned by these agents for sorting purposes. Ordinary scrap, worth a penny or two a pound, must be separated from the more valuable scrap. Some scrap rubber is valuable, such as crepe soles from shoes at $462 per ton, according to the rubber reserve price; scrap inner tubes as high as $165 per ton at the OPA ceiling and floating rubber from $220 to $360 per ton at the market price," he said.

The War Production board's permanent program for reclaiming every bit of junk or waste items that may be useful in the war effort will be launched today.

In Chicago the salvage drive assumes a special task, the collection of tin cans. Mayor Kelly as federal coordinator of civilian defense set July 16 as Tin Can Salvage day to signal the opening of the special campaign.

Japs Control Sources.

"The principal sources of tin, one of the most vital metals in war industry, have been cut off by the war," Mayor Kelly said. "Nearly 90 per cent of our tin supply came from Malaya, now in the hands of the Japs. Of the 100,000 tons used in the United States last year, only 44 tons of tin ore were produced in this country.

"I urge all citizens in the metropolitan area to start on this day and to continue for the duration of the war to save all tin plated food and tobacco containers."

Tells How to Save Cans.

1. Wash cans thoroly and remove paper label.
2. Open cans at both ends, tucking in top and bottom.
3. Flatten cans by stepping on them. Leave enough space between the flattened sides to see thru; don't hammer the cans.
4. Keep cans separated from garbage. Place them in separate receptacle. The cans will be picked up by the regular garbage collector.

One of Several Drives.

The tin can program is but one of several in the general salvage drive which calls for the collection of iron and steel scrap, other metals, fats and greases, manila rope, and burlap bags.

Nathaniel Leverone, Illinois salvage director for the War Production board, said the drive must be continuous and thoro to provide the vital materials needed in war plants. He asked Illinois industries, shops, and homes to provide more than 100,000 tons of iron and steel scrap for Chicago area steel mills by Sept. 1.

Book Industry in France Hit by Shortage of Paper

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 12.—The book industry faces a crisis because of a paper shortage. Since the war began Frenchmen have been spending more time at home and reading more, especially serious books.

SCREEN BIDDLE'S ROLE IN BALKING GRAND JURY QUIZ

Others Join Foreman in Demand for Ouster.

San Francisco, Cal., July 12 [Special].—David E. Snodgrass' demand for the resignation of Attorney General Francis J. Biddle, and a suppressed federal grand jury investigation of an anti-trust case which brought the demand, were still veiled in mystery tonight.

But further details of the grand jurors' clash with the attorney general were coming to light. It was learned that some of the grand jurors chorused, "That's right!" when the jury foreman, Snodgrass, said, "As an American citizen, I call on Mr. Biddle to resign."

Snodgrass is dean of the Hastings law school here. He charged Biddle had obstructed the efforts of the grand jury in the investigation.

Jurors Ask Own Dismissal.

It was learned that the inquiry was into the activities of a large group of persons subject to the anti-trust law, but their identity has not been divulged because of the confidential nature of grand jury investigations.

The grand jury was dismissed Saturday at its own request by Judge Michael J. Roche of the United States district court after Wallace Howland, assistant attorney general representing Biddle, had sought in vain to have its term continued.

Snodgrass and the other members of the jury then called reporters into an adjoining room, where Snodgrass said:

"In my opinion, until such time as Mr. Biddle resigns from the office of attorney general of the United States, we cannot be sure that justice will be administered in anti-trust cases.

Charge Efforts Obstructed.

"Strike out anti-trust. Make it in all cases in the northern district of California."

Reporters said that the other jurors nodded and Snodgrass went on:

"As an American citizen, I call on Mr. Biddle to resign. We feel our efforts have been obstructed by him, and by no one else."

"That's right," came the reply from other jurors.

"I might say more," Snodgrass said, "but I don't think I could control myself."

Snodgrass made public the jury's report to Judge Roche, in which it asked its own dismissal. It said in part:

"For many weeks the time of this grand jury has been devoted to a minute investigation of an important case involving a large group of persons.

Hearings Are Completed.

"We were advised on June 24 that the hearings were concluded and that the matter had reached a point for the jury to determine whether a true bill should be voted.

"Since that time there have been certain developments which this jury regards as wholly inconsistent with the idea that any further action is to be taken in the case.

"The special assistant to the attorney general, by whom the matter was originally presented, went to Washington, and another assistant attorney general came to San Francisco, appeared before the grand jury, and made certain statements to us.

"We believe we will not be afforded an opporuntiy to vote upon a case on which we have expended weeks of labor."

The report was signed by all but two of the grand jurors. Snodgrass said that he had wired to the attorney general before the grand jury was dismissed, but did not reveal the contents of the telegram.

Howland, in his plea that the grand jury's term be extended, told Judge Roche the government wished to place on the stand witnesses who were disinterested, to testify of "government concurrence" in the anti-trust matter.

Snodgrass interrupted to say:

GIVE A THOUGHT TO PEACE AIMS, HOOVER URGES

New York, July 12 [Special]. — While "the only way out" of the war is to win it by destroying the axis aggressors, Americans must give thought now to the establishment of a lasting peace, Herbert Hoover said today in a radio address.

"We were told in the last war 'destroy the Kaiser first and discuss peace afterward'." "We went to the peace conference in 1919, and secured neither freedom, nor prosperity, nor justice, nor peace."

Hoover suggested that after victory, instead of an armistice agreement, we should make "an instant provisional peace agreement." He said there should be no armistice such as that after the last war, "for armistice periods are periods of demoralization and degeneration."

POSTWAR 'BREAK' FOR ALL 'GOOD' GERMANS ASKED

LONDON, July 12 (AP).—The archbishop of Canterbury declared today that the war settlement must give the average German the feeling that as long as Germany behaves there is open "to him as full a chance of good-humored life as to anybody else."

In a message read at a massmeeting organized by the Free German League of Culture, the archbishop said however that the "crimes of Germany must be punished."

"The decision of the allied governments to bring to justice those proved guilty of these abominations is the primary aim," he said. "The settlement must be in a political and military sense very severe."

DROWNS ON WAY TO SAFETY AFTER DINGHY CAPSIZES

Photographer's Wife Dies in Yacht Basin.

Mrs. Eleanor Arthur, 29 years old, the wife of Max Arthur, a Tribune photographer, drowned yesterday in the Grant park yacht basin when a small dinghy, in which she and her husband and three friends were rowing to Arthur's sloop, capsized.

Arthur, a member of his racing crew, Edward Haddike, and Mrs. Arthur began to swim to a boat anchored nearby in the basin. He said Mrs. Arthur was an excellent swimmer and he was sure she could make it, but when he and Haddike reached the boat, he threw out life preservers to aid her. Then he discovered she had disappeared.

Two Others Saved.

The other two passengers in the dinghy, Frank Masters, a former Tribune photographer now a sailor at Great Lakes, and Miss Darlene Trenary, had clung to the overturned dinghy and were picked up by rescuers. Coast guardsmen last night were dragging the basin for Mrs. Arthur's body. Arthur lives at 444 St. James place.

Fred Shutoh, 23, 1954 South Spaulding avenue, drowned when the boat in which was fishing on Lake Marie, near Antioch in Lake county, with Miss Lillian Knoycrywski, 19, of 2132 South St. Louis avenue, tipped over in a sudden squall.

Saved by Fishermen.

Miss Knoycrywski hung to the craft until fishermen rescued her. Shutoh's body was recovered an hour later by the Antioch rescue squad.

Nicholas William Cochowity, 19, of 953 North Parkside avenue, drowned when wind capsized the boat from which he and Miss Dorothy Nymark, 15, of 1208 North Parkside avenue, were fishing on Lake Catherine, also near Antioch. Cochowity sank, but Miss Nymark held to the boat for 15 minutes while a shore squad was organized. Cochowity's body was not recovered immediately.

FIREMAN KILLED, 4 HURT AS FIRE SWEEPS 12 DETROIT BUILDINGS

Detroit, Mich., July 12 (AP).—One fireman was killed and four were injured today when fire swept 12 business places in uptown Woodward avenue, this city's principal north-south artery. The dead fireman was Stanley Hausch, a veteran of 23 years fire fighting experience.

The injured are Capt. John Danowski, 44, whose condition is critical; Lieut. Vincent Grenwick, 45; Pipeman Clyde Jenkins, 36, and Fireman Robert McKenzie, 32.

Firemen said the blaze originated in an artist supply store and was spread quickly by a series of paint explosions to adjoining structures.

WOUNDED SAILOR GETS FIRST AID ABOARD U-BOAT

Washington, D. C., July 12.—A seaman who had been injured when a submarine sank his vessel was taken aboard the U-boat and given first aid treatment by a German physician, the navy announced today.

The ship, a small Panamanian freighter, was torpedoed in the Caribbean sea, with a loss of one life. The 24 other members of the crew, including the injured seaman, reached an island in lifeboats two days after the attack.

The sinking of another vessel, the Dominican schooner Carmen, was announced at Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic. The ship was shelled yesterday five miles off Gaspar Hernandez, on the northern coast of the Republic. One sailor was killed in the attack.

U-Boat Toll Reaches 361.

The two sinkings raised to 361 the number of vessels lost in American or adjacent waters since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press. Since then 310 have been sunk near the shores of the United States, with 1,936 known dead, 1,812 missing, and 10,060 rescued.

Survivors of the Panamanian freighter said the submarine came to the surface after torpedoing their ship and their gun crew fired one shot at the raider. The submarine then crash-dived, they said, and came to the surface again after the freighter had sunk.

They said the U-boat commander noticed the injured seaman and ordered him brought aboard the submarine, where his injuries were treated.

Nazis Claim 18 More.

BERLIN, July 12 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German U-boats have sunk 18 more merchant ships totaling 116,000 tons in the Atlantic and American coastal waters, the German radio said today.

"In addition, a 7,000 ton ship received torpedo hits and was severely damaged and three transport-sailing vessels have been sunk by naval artillery," the announcement said.

"Since July 1, therefore, German U-boats in the Atlantic, Arctic, and Mediterranean oceans have sunk 34 ships totaling 225,900 tons."

FRENCH GROUPS HERE TO FETE BASTILLE DAY

Bastille day [July 14] will be celebrated by French groups in Chicago at a picnic in Pilsen park, 3049 West 26th street, tonight and at dinners and receptions tomorrow. The fall of the Bastille prison on July 14, 1789, during the French revolution, marks the beginning of French liberty.

Proceeds of tonight's picnic, given by the Franco-American committee for Bastille day, will go to the USO, France Forever, and Free French relief. Picnic lunches may be purchased at 6 p. m. and songs and dancing will begin at 8:30 p. m. Henri C. E. David is chairman of the committee.

The French War Veterans will sponsor a dinner-dance in the Gold room of the Congress hotel tomorrow at 8 p. m. with Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin, the Rev. Zepherin Belanger, and the consul general of France, Raymond Imbault-Huart, and Mme. Imbault-Huart as guests of honor.

REPORT DISPUTES OF U. S. AGENCIES HAMPER SHIPPING

U. of C. Speakers Urge Central Authority.

How government agencies engage in rivalry for shipping space was described yesterday by University of Chicago Round Table speakers. A more centralized shipping authority and better protection of the ships available were some of the points urged.

Charles Colby, a University of Chicago geographer and recently an adviser to the war shipping administration, took part in the discussion with William H. Spencer, dean of the school of business at the university, and Leo Cherne, executive secretary of the Research Institute of America.

Urge Imports Be Cut.

Shipping demands exceed capacity by more than 100 per cent, the speakers said, and urged elimination of all nonessential imports as one way of alleviating the situation.

"During the last war," Colby said, "nearly 2 million tons of shipping space was saved by the elimination of such imports. There is opportunity for such savings today and they should be made."

Speaker Praises Dock Workers.

Altho there have been vast increases in ship production in the last year, it still lags behind ship losses, the speakers said, chiefly because of strategic aspects of the war which place the United States on the farther edge of the two major battles zones.

Prof. Colby said the job being done by dock workers loading ships in the United States is "wonderful" but indicated they "are not always given an opportunity to use their skill to best advantage."

EXPECT VERDICT THIS WEEK FOR 8 NAZI SABOTEURS

Washington, D. C., July 12 (AP).—Eight Nazi saboteurs may learn this week what penalty they must pay for landing from U-boats on Long Island and Florida beaches with cash and explosives for a campaign against American war industries.

The prosecution is expected to complete by tomorrow or Tuesday the case it has been unfolding before a military court since last Wednesday and the defense probably will take only a couple of days to present whatever evidence it may have.

Before any sentence of the court can be carried out the findings must be reviewed by President Roosevelt.

Utica, N. Y., July 12 [AP].—Four members of one family were among five young people killed early today when a train struck the automobile in which they rode, carrying it three-quarters of a mile.

CANADA O. K.'S U. S. TROOPS ON DOMINION SOIL

OTTAWA, Ont., July 12 (AP).—An order in council providing authority for the stationing of units of the United States armed forces in Canada was published today in the Canada Gazette.

The order, dated June 26, says that "with the consent of the Canadian government, the government of the United States of America has stationed and will station units of its armed forces in Canada and it is necessary, as an interim measure, to make immediate provision therefor."

Presumably stationing of United States army engineers in the northwest in connection with construction of the highway to Alaska brought the matter to a head, but under the order stationing of American units anywhere in the dominion is permissible.

First All Norse 'Mosquito' Boat Unit Ready to Fight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 12.—The first all-Norwegian motor torpedoboat flotilla, consisting of officers and men of the Norwegian navy, will soon go into operation against the enemy, Norwegian headquarters here announced tonight. They are "almost bloodthirsty in their craving for action," said a senior officer of a flotilla in which many of them serve.

JAPS LAND ON CHINESE ISLAND NEAR FOOCHOW

Open Pincer Drive on Vital Supply Port.

CHUNGKING, China, July 12 (AP).—The Japanese have occupied Futuou Island, near Foochow in Fukien province, and have started a pincers movement against Wenchow, one of the few important ports on the east China coast still in Chinese hands, the high command announced today.

Fukien is on the coast opposite the Island of Formosa, one of Japan's most important troop centers and training grounds. Foochow itself is about 150 miles west of the northern tip of Formosa.

The high command said the Japanese landed on Futuou Island last Thursday, two days after their attempt to occupy Langchi Island had been frustrated by Chinese resistance.

The Japanese landed troops at Juian, on the Chekiang coast 13 miles southwest of Wenchow across a peninsula, after more than 30 warships laid down a heavy bombardment of the city Friday night.

Chinese Lose Nearby Town.

The Chinese acknowledged that Japanese soldiers from Lishui captured Tsingtien, 22 miles northwest of Wenchow and 30 miles southeast of Lishui.

In the interior Hupeh province, Chinese dispatches said, Chinese forces swept down from the southern slopes of the Tapieh mountains and captured the towns of Hwangmei and Kwangtsi on July 1 and drove the Japanese southward into Kiangsi province.

Claim Wenchow Captured.

TOKIO, July 12 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—The Japanese have captured the Chekiang province port of Wenchow, "an important secret Chinese supply base," after a swift five day offensive eastward from Lishui, the Domei news agency reported today.

The news agency said a sudden attack also had been launched in southeastern Chahar province in coöperation with Manchukuo troops, and that a point 10 miles north of Yenking had been reached.

RAF Keeps Up Raids.

NEW DELHI, India, July 12 (AP).—The RAF continued its activity against Japanese forces moving toward India along the Chindwin river in Burma, by attacking Kalewa and hitting a steamer south of Sittaung, the British announced today. The attacks took place Thursday and Friday.

433 Lost When Repulse Was Sunk, British Report

LONDON, July 12 (AP).—The admiralty tonight announced the loss of 433 officers, sailors and marines in the sinking of the battle cruiser Repulse off the east coast of Malaya last December. Four men were listed as killed, 426 missing and three died of wounds.

RELEASE NAMES OF 297 CIVILIANS SEIZED AT WAKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 12.—The names of 297 American civilians who are interned by the Japanese at Shanghai were made public by the war department today. All of those on the list were taken at Wake Island, where they were employed principally on construction projects.

Charles G. Helander.

Included in the list are 18 from Chicagoland. Iowa with nine has the largest number and Illinois is second with four. Other states in the area and the number of their citizens interned are Michigan, three; Wisconsin, one, and Indiana, one.

Publication of names is restricted by request of the department to those who lived in the area normally served by the newspaper. Following are the names of those from Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin:

ILLINOIS.

Elliott, Elmer E.—L. P. Elliott, Peoria.

INDIANA.

Martin, Robert Glenn—Mrs. Ada Martin, Decatur.

WISCONSIN.

Delap, Wesley F.—Mrs. Mattie Delap, Rhinelander.

The next of kin have been notified in all cases, the war department said.

Yanks Overseas to Get Rations of Stick Candy

Jersey City, N. J., July 12 (AP).—American soldiers overseas will receive hard, stick candy as part of their rations. The confection will come in seven flavors, peppermint predominating. Contracts for 2,500,000 pounds of "very fine" quality candy were let last week by the Jersey City quartermaster depot, Col. Henry P. Barry, commanding officer, announced.

FOUND HANGED IN HOME.

GORILLAS GIVE UP TIRES, BUT NOT CHEERFULLY

The gorillas at Brookfield zoo gave up their tires yesterday, unwillingly. The gorillas, Suzette, Congo, and Sultan, didn't ride on the tires. They rolled them about their cage, and swung from the ones which were suspended by chains from the ceiling.

Director Edward H. Bean decreed that the tires must go to the scrap rubber heap. So they were taken from the gorillas. And the gorillas, unable to understand that they have contributed to a patriotic cause, just look woebegone.

The great ant eater, who's timid, buried his head like an ostrich in his dinner pail at the zoo yesterday and busied himself at a mixture of chopped meat, eggs, sweet potatoes, and beans, which he's learned to like better than ants.

JEWELRY STOLEN FROM CAR.

Sam Gelles, 55 North Lotus avenue, yesterday reported to police that thieves broke into his car parked in front of 5454 West Madison street and took a quantity of jewelry valued at $1,018 and $36 worth of bedspreads.

ROMMEL DRIVEN BACK AGAIN ON EGYPTIAN FRONT

Pushed to 10 Miles West of El Alamein.

Yesterday was no exception. In dogfights over the brown, rocky desert sands and over the sea between Tobruk and Matruh, the British said they shot down eight enemy planes, three of which were the great Junkers-52 troop carriers.

Perhaps Lost 600 Specialists.

The toll of the giant Junkers-52's in two days thus rose to at least 15. Each of these was capable of carrying 40 to 60 soldiers. The British said they believed the Junkers were carrying specialists to Rommel. Thus it was conceivable that 600 or more highly trained Nazi troops had been destroyed in these air actions alone.

British bombers concentrated on a mass of enemy vehicles and shipping at Matruh, leaving a large fire that burned for four hours. Small axis ships moving between Tobruk and Matruh were attacked successfully, the British said, and a daylight attack was pressed home on Bengazi where direct hits were scored on the waterfront and shipping.

Use "Superheavy" Bombs.

BERLIN, July 12 [from German broadcasts] (AP). — German airmen, using heavy and "superheavy" bombs, spread destruction among British positions and motorized units in Egypt as heavy fighting raged on in the El Alamein sector, the German communique said today. [The Italians said the British lost 12 tanks].

Stressing aerial operations in the Egyptian theater, it reported 14 British planes destroyed by German and Italian flyers yesterday. It added that British air bases were targets of particular heavy axis attacks.

Malta Downs 10 Planes.

VALETTA, Malta, July 12 (AP).—The RAF destroyed 10 axis planes during raids on the island in the last 24 hours, a communique said tonight. The total included four Italian fighters shot down in light raids today.

Continue Malta Attacks.

ROME, July 12 [from Italian broadcasts] (AP).—The Italian high command today said: "Bombing attacks against Malta were continued by Italian and German planes, which scored hits on installations at Halfar, Tavenzin, and Micabba and destroyed six enemy machines. Last night a few bombs were dropped by British planes near Caltanisetta in Sicily. No damage has been reported."

British Score New Successes in Egypt

Report U. S. Soldier Sane in Aussie Murder Trial

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 13 [Monday]—(AP).—A military court trying Pvt. Edward Joseph Leonski, 22 years old, former New York City grocery clerk, on murder charges growing out of the slaying of three Melbourne women, was told today by the prosecuting attorney that Leonski had signed a confession of guilt. The assertion was made after experts testified that in their opinion the defendant "was sane but under the influence of alcohol" at the time of the slayings. Leonski has pleaded innocent.

Egypt Speeds Moving of 14,000 in Peril of Raids

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 12 (AP).—Abdel Khalek Hassouna Bey, newly appointed military governor of Alexandria, told press correspondents today that removal of 14,000 persons in air raid danger zones is being speeded up altho the military situation in the western desert "is much more reassuring."

2 YANKS SERVE WITH AUSTRALIAN ARMY IN EGYPT

BY HARRY CROCKETT.

WITH AUSTRALIAN AND SOUTH AFRICAN TROOPS ON THE ALAMEIN FRONT, July 11 [Delayed]—(AP).—Australian and South African troops have captured more than 1,000 axis prisoners in counterattacking spurts here in the Egyptian desert, but right now one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war is being laid down by both armies. Crouching in a trench on the edge of the Mediterranean, the scene looking inland is one of great sand geysers shooting into the skies where shells have landed.

Sitting nearby is Alan Lokes, 23 years old, one of two Americans in the desert wearing an Australian uniform. Lokes, a native of Richmond, Va., told me he met a captive German who turned out to be a former bundist who had trained in New York and New Jersey bund camps before he returned to Germany—and the Nazi army.

Lokes told me that another American with the Aussies is Michael O'Ryan, 30, of Syracuse, N. Y.,

'HEADLESS' TANK CHARGES BRITISH LINES; CREW DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

A German tank charged into the British lines and even tho a direct hit by a shell knocked its turret completely off, the tank kept on coming. The gunners thought the sight was as uncanny as Washington Irving's "headless horseman."

The tank was right among the British guns before it was stopped. The gunners found the tank's crew all dead with the driver's body wedged against the controls in such a way that the tank continued on the course it was making when hit.

SALARY LOANS

FOR WOMEN WITH JOBS

No wage assignment taken—No endorsers or guarantors needed—Just a regular income

Do you need some extra cash? Would you like to pay off old bills as part of your wartime financial program? This advertisement tells about a simple plan which is helping many men and women with their present day money problems.

Suppose you need $100 for an emergency or to pay off debts. You can get the money in a quick, simple transaction. Then you may repay on a regular monthly payment plan. At the end of a definite time you are entirely in the clear. The payment plan thus becomes a personal debt paying program.

The cost of this service is reasonable. Suppose you borrow $100 and repay in six monthly instalments of $18.18 each, a total of $109.08. The cost of your loan is just $9.08. A $50 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $9.09 each, a total of $54.54, costs only $4.54.

This service has been specially designed for folks with jobs. Many people have no car, furniture or other security on which to borrow. And they hate to ask friends to sign notes. Salary loans give these people an opportunity to borrow on earning ability and willingness to repay. When you get a salary loan you merely give us your personal note. We take no wage assignment of any kind. And no endorsers are required. We make many loans on other plans. The principal requirement is a job or other source of income. Even when making car and furniture loans, we consider character and regular income far more important than the actual value of your security.

Loans for many purposes

You may use a Household loan to pay a doctor or dentist bill, insurance, instalment contracts, old store bills, car repairs, union fees, a training course, tools, moving expense, coal for winter—and for expenses of many other kinds.

You may repay your loan on almost any plan you wish. The table shows how loans may be repaid in 2 to 12 payments. The sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Look in the table now for the loan you need. See how you may repay out of monthly income.

Payments in the table include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on a loan balance of $100 or less and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is substantially below the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law. Lower operating costs permit us to give our customers the advantage of a lower rate. Compare rates and costs before you borrow anywhere; why pay more for your loan than you have to?

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. Or just phone and tell us how much you need.

HELEN HAYES shows the Navy how she saves waste kitchen fats to help stop the Japs

"I DON'T know as much about making explosives as most soldiers and sailors do about the stage.

"But lately I've learned these things: that kitchen fats make glycerine, and glycerine makes the powder charge that drives millions of shells for the United Nations.

"I'm told that a single pound of kitchen grease will make two anti-aircraft shells. So you can bet that not one drop of waste fat in my house ever goes down the drain. Instead, I send it back to my meat dealer—and on its way to the war. I'm making it a wartime habit—are you?"

Helen Hayes

"Take it to your meat dealer," says Miss Hayes, "after you've collected a pound or more. He is cooperating patriotically, and will pay you for your fats and start them on their way to the war. But help him by delivering early in the week."

How do you save it? In the kitchen of her Nyack, New York, home Helen Hayes shows some visiting sailors. Every kind of waste kitchen fat—after you've got the cooking good from it—is strained into a clean, wide-mouthed can. Bacon grease, drippings, used vegetable shortening—everything. Don't use glass or paper bags. Keep in a cool, dark place.

JULY 11, SOLVED PUZZLE OF SATURDAY.

One of the biggest battles of history was being fought on the bleak steppes of Russia, news accounts said.

Before Voronezh, the lines changed hands several times yesterday, and the whole picture was a mass of struggling and dying men, burning tanks, and exploding mine fields which the Russians have sowed so liberally in their withdrawals. The soviets said they smashed the headquarters of the 9th Nazi tank division.

The Russians said more than 500 Nazis died in yesterday's fighting around Voronezh; at least 900 in soviet delaying actions in the retreat from Kantemirovka, and 700 more fell as the Russians pulled out of Lisichansk.

In the air war, the Russians said the Red air force had destroyed 583 German planes in the week ending Saturday, while the soviet air force lost 225 planes.

Knock Out 42 Tanks.

Forty-two Nazi tanks and 290 trucks also were knocked out by soviet airmen during Saturday's fighting, a bulletin said.

A Pravda correspondent said the Germans had begun to withdraw from "an important inhabited locality" on the Voronezh front where the Russians apparently were making their best stand, but the town's name was not mentioned.

"Disregarding huge losses, the enemy is throwing in more and more reserves. . . . Our tanks are meeting enemy assaults with daring counter-attacks," the Russian communique said.

In accelerated fighting on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow, the Moscow radio told of soviet troops breaking into the outskirts of a populated place, but did not name it.

Pursue Enemy: Nazis.

BERLIN, July 12 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command reported today that pursuit of "the retreating enemy" continued on the southern sector of the eastern front with the Russians stabbing hard but unsuccessfully at the Nazi left flank.

"Local resistance everywhere was broken," said the Sunday communique, which made no mention of specific gains. It placed soviet losses yesterday at 63 tanks and 74 planes, against six missing German planes.

One Red army flank assault was aimed from the northwest of Voronezh, the high command said, in an effort to relieve pressure on that communications center on the Moscow-Caucasus railway 10 miles east of the Don river.

Another tank-paced soviet attack came from northwest of Orel and there it was conceded hard fighting developed in repeated Russian lunges but the high command said German forces, strongly supported from the air, repulsed the Russians.

On the Leningrad front the Germans said attacking Russians were hurled back with heavy losses.

Rostov, the gateway to the Caucasus, and several ports on the Caucasian coast were reported bombed by German airmen.

British Flyers Blast Faraway Targets

RAF Bombs Danzig Sub Base in 1,750 Mile Round Trip Hop

LONDON, July 12 (AP).—In an extension of the royal air force's offensive, a steady stream of RAF planes swept out across the English channel today to strike at targets in northern France.

Spitfires flying in layers at varying heights headed for Boulogne and Cape Gris Nez in the liveliest air traffic over the channel in weeks.

Boston bombers with a large fighter escort attacked an air field near Abbeville. All the British planes returned. Two Nazi planes dropped bombs at a place on the southwest coast of England.

Yesterday, striking a body blow in the battle of the Atlantic, squadron after squadron of giant, four motor British bombers roared low over Germany on a 1,750 mile daylight round trip to blast the German submarine building base at Danzig on the Baltic.

Hit a Second Base.

In this longest and most daring RAF daylight operation of the war, Britain's newest and highly secret Lancasters loosed their devastating cargoes and then made a secondary attack upon Flensburg, another Nazi submarine spawning ground, on the German-Danish border 400 miles across the Baltic from Danzig.

"The attack was made from well below the cloud base and the yards were heavily bombed," the air ministry said of the first raid upon the former free city in almost two years. The British pilots, attacking from tree top level, said their bombs hit squarely on ways in the yards.

RAF pilots had to fly for hours along heavily guarded German coastal areas, then cut inland north to Danzig itself in the bright light of the northern evening.

One of Main U-boat Centers.

The air ministry said that the Nazis, because they thought Danzig far beyond the RAF range, had "done everything possible to increase the production of U-boats there until it had become one of the main factors of the submarine campaign."

The flight has been exceeded in the war only by the United States raid from Midway Island to Wake, a round trip of approximately 2,300 miles.

In sharp contrast to the famed but smaller scale daylight raid in April by Lancaster bombers on the German submarine engine plant at Augsburg in western Germany, when seven of 12 attacking planes were shot down, the RAF lost only three planes out of the many squadrons participating in yesterday's raid.

About 60 Bombers Used.

It was indicated unofficially here that yesterday's attack cost the British less than 5 per cent of their attacking craft—which meant that at least 60 four motor bombers participated.

Part of the attacking force apparently slipped in toward Danzig from the north, as an official Swedish announcement in Stockholm said 10 British bombers had crossed the west coast of Sweden Saturday evening.

The Danzig raid capped the RAF's spring and summer bombing drive against Hitler's U-boat prowlers which are dealing punishing blows at American, British and Russian shipping.

Opens a New Era.

It opened a new era in bombing tactics, leaving no city in Germany safe by day or night from the long arm of the RAF. By flying an equal distance directly east or southeast heavy British or American bombers could reach such far away targets as Breslau, Vienna, Bratislava in Slovakia, or Trieste in Italy near the Jugo-Slav border.

Danzig, one of the bones of contention between Germany and Poland that led to the war, had been bombed only once before by RAF pilots who winged thru icy weather on the night of Nov. 10, 1940.

Flyers on the Danzig raid reported severe icing conditions. Near Denmark the planes ran into a cloud with a base as low as 800 feet and the top at 15,000 feet.

"Not every navigator was able to find the way and some Lancasters had to turn for home before they could find Danzig," the air ministry said. "A formidable force, and certainly one big enough to do heavy damage, got there."

FRANCE GIVES JAPS 15,000 SQ. MI. OF INDO-CHINA

VICHY, France, July 12 (AP).—The Laval government handed over 15,000 square miles of Indo-China to the Japanese puppet state of Thailand [Siam] without protest yesterday, but cried out vigorously today against the British occupation of the 375 square mile island of Mayotte, northwest of Madagascar.

The treaty ended a brief war in November, 1940.

U. S. WAR WORKER TOTAL IS PLACED AT 12½ MILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 12.—Increased employment of women and others not engaged in war work will be necessary in the next few months because war plants are drying up the available supply of labor, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission, reported tonight.

He said approximately 12½ million persons were in direct war employment, including war plants and other services associated with war production, on July 1 and estimated 5 million more would be so employed in six months.

It was estimated 9 million persons were employed in war industries April 1 and 6 million 900,000 Jan. 1.

Labor Source Surveyed.

"We counted on obtaining, for the armed forces and for industry, between 7 million and 8 million persons from peacetime industry during this calendar year, in addition to 1 million 400,000 of the employable unemployed, and 2 million or more from housewives, young people, older workers, and others not in the labor market," McNutt said.

"Obviously, the employment of 5 million 600,000 by war industry in six months, plus the number taken by the armed forces, has absorbed most of the workers who were immediately available.

Quick Action Urged.

"We must move more quickly now to utilize our reserves—our women, Negroes, older workers, disemployed white collar workers, and aliens who are or can be qualified for war jobs."

McNutt said that later this week he will announce the commission's program for coöperative action in war industry centers to conserve man power in crucial jobs thru agreements by industry managements, labor unions, and government agencies.

GOLF BAG STOLEN.

Donald Moller, 4332½ North Hermitage avenue, reported to police yesterday that thieves broke into his parked car in front of his home and stole his golf bag, worth $35, and eight new golf balls.

URGES AUSTRALIA GIVE FULL FACTS ON LEND-LEASE

Paper Says U.S. Expected to Aid After War.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, July 12.—America is expected to continue world-wide distribution of food, raw materials, and machinery on a lend-lease basis after the war, the Sydney Morning Herald said yesterday. In an editorial, the paper demanded that the commonwealth government reveal the details of any understandings it has with the United States under the lend-lease plan.

The Herald, which is considered one of Australia's most influential newspapers, said that the lend-lease act is not a temporary measure but is designed to dovetail with the Atlantic charter's goal of "equal access to trade and raw materials" in rebuilding the world after the war.

"It is true that the lend-lease expedient was devised under the pressure of dire emergency, but the necessity of some continuance of its essential service in the distribution of supplies will remain when the war is past," the Herald said.

Cites Atlantic Charter.

"Industries will have to be set up afresh, hungry peoples fed, and massive movements of raw materials, industrial equipment, and food maintained if the world is to be rebuilt."

The Atlantic charter, it added, has pledged "the fullest collaboration" in the distribution of raw materials.

Under the present arrangement "obstacles such as lack of dollar funds or ordinary commercial restrictions have been swept away and goods are being dispatched as soon as they can be shipped." This must go on after the war, it said.

Expresses Thanks for Aid.

In Washington, D. C., according to the Herald, steps toward this end are already being taken. "Lend-lease is being molded into something practical for postwar purposes."

The Herald expressed gratitude for American aid and said that Australia must be prepared "to make our proper reciprocal concessions. The commonwealth could certainly not refuse at this stage any reasonable request for future trade facilities."

Asserting that many knotty problems will arise in the restoration of normal world trade, the paper said that "not the least of these will be our own initial lack of dollars."

In requesting the government to give the people all the news on lend-lease, the Herald said:

"The commonwealth government, which is traditionally opposed to secret negotiations, should give the lead by disclosing the fullest possible details of its undertakings under lend-lease. A frank disclosure later of our foreign exchange resources would serve to satisfy the American business world that as buyers we lacked not the willingness but the means."

LOCKARD IS MADE LIEUTENANT IN RADIO CEREMONY

Fort Monmouth, N. J., July 12 (AP).—Joseph Lockard, the 20 year old soldier who gave the first warning that the Japanese were approaching Pearl Harbor last Dec. 7, completed his transition from private to commissioned officer today when he received the gold bar of a second lieutenant in the signal corps.

Brig. Gen. George L. Van Deusen, post commandant, presented Lockard with his diploma from the officers' candidate school. At Lockard's side was his bride. His father, employed in an aircraft factory, was unable to attend.

HEAR NAZIS WILL SLAY ALL MALE KIN OF FUGITIVES

New York, July 12 (AP).—German occupation authorities in Paris have announced they will execute all male relatives of any "wanted man" who fails to surrender himself within 10 days, the British Broadcasting company reported tonight.

The broadcast, heard by CBS, said, "The Nazi police in Paris have announced new terrorist measures in an effort to put down sabotage and attacks on the German army of occupation. In the future, if a wanted man does not surrender within 10 days, his near male relatives, including brothers-in-law and cousins over 18 years old are to be shot. Women relatives are to be sent to forced labor and children are to be sent to so-called 'approved homes.'"

"We find few Austrians who are not citizens of the United States," said Dr. Jack Kobalter, who is past president of the Austrian section of the Century of Progress in 1933 and 1934. "All are Americans in the fullest sense, peace loving people, and good fighters in war. Many gold stars of boys who died in the Philippines or on other fronts can be seen in the windows of Austrian-American parents in Chicago. Many nurses and doctors of Austrian descent are serving in the forces."

Residents of Hungarian descent in the Chicago area are estimated to number between 30,000 and 40,000. They live in Burnside, Pullman, East Chicago, South Chicago, and in the vicinity of North avenue west of Ogden avenue. There are 54 Hungarian societies and organizations in the city and suburbs.

Give Ambulance to Red Cross.

Funds are being raised by a south side Hungarian federation of churches and lodges to purchase an ambulance for the Red Cross to be presented Aug. 30. A group on the north side will give the Red Cross an ambulance in September.

Hungarians are conducting a war bond drive of their own over a radio station. The programs were started by Frank J. Kovach and they direct attention to the purchase of bonds, work and donations for the Red Cross and participation in civilian defense projects.

Grow Victory Gardens.

Mrs. John Sinko, Oak Park, is head of the group's war bond drive in which more than $100,000 in bonds and stamps have been sold.

Enlistments in the armed forces of Austrians and their descendants have been comparatively large. Hungarian women in the city have taken particular interest in growing Victory gardens and Mrs. Loncy Dienes, a leader in women's work in the Burnside area, reported that "99 per cent of the Hungarian housewives are growing Victory gardens."

DON'T CALL WASHINGTON- unless you must!

• With the war effort of 27 United Nations centered upon it, Washington is probably the busiest city in the world. It is fast outgrowing its physical limits — and its telephone facilities.

Since Pearl Harbor, Long Distance telephone traffic in and out of Washington has jumped 48½%. Calls of vital importance sometimes get caught in the crush.

New construction would normally take care of the increased load. But copper, rubber and aluminum are even more critically needed for the fighting fronts.

So we must ask you to cut down on every possible Washington call — so that Army, Navy and Government can have clear "talk-tracks" to get America's biggest job done. We know we can count on your co-operation.

These suggestions, offered especially for Washington, also apply to other busy cities across the country.

1. As far as possible, avoid all Long Distance calls not directly related to the war effort.
2. If you must make a Long Distance call, place it in the off-peak hours —

NAZIS AFRAID, SAYS WILLKIE AT NEW LIDICE

Illinois Town Named After Czech Village.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Stern Park Gardens, an unincorporated federal housing project of about 100 homes near Joliet, was renamed Lidice yesterday in commemoration of the tiny Czecho-Slovakian village the Nazis depopulated and leveled as partial revenge for the assassination of their hangman, Reinhard Heydrich. Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican Presidential nominee, and Col. Vladimir Hurban, Czech minister, were the principal speakers at ceremonies late in the afternoon attended by many thousands.

Wendell L. Willkie.

Willkie said that the Nazi conquerors of Czecho-Slovakia perpetrated the Lidice horror because they were afraid—"afraid because the free spirit in men has refused to be conquered."

"Hangman Killed, Lidice Lives."

"Because a hangman was killed, Lidice lives," Willkie continued. "Because the lanterns of Lidice have been blacked out, a flame has been lit which never can be extinguished. Each of the wounds of these 200 men and 56 women [the population of the destroyed Lidice] is a mouth that cries out that other free men and free women must not suffer a like fate.

"Everywhere, but particularly in our own country, the wave of stubborn, stern resolve arises. Lidice lives. She lives again, in this little village in Illinois.

"I look about me here, and I can see in the distance the black smoke of steel factories, swarming with American workers of all bloods and races. No contrast could be greater than the peaceful Lidice the Nazis thought they had destroyed, and this Illinois country, alive with factories in which the arms of victory are being forged. But I tell you that the two are related. For while such deeds as Lidice are done in another country, we cannot rest until we are sure that they will never be done in our own."

Arrives From New York.

Willkie arrived by train early yesterday from New York. During an interview before going to Lidice he said he had not made up his mind to what degree he would participate in the congressional elections in November, but he said: "If I lived in Illinois, I would not vote for Congressman at Large Stephen A. Day."

Day was a noninterventionist before the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Asked what his position was toward Sen. Wayland Brooks, another leading noninterventionist, Willkie declined to comment, adding that he had not made campaign plans yet.

The 1940 nominee made it plain, however, that he would take part in the campaign, in some manner or other, on the side of those who favor a world order following the war.

Apparently aiming at senators and representatives who were not interventionists before the attack on Pearl Harbor, Willkie said: "If you had a lawyer who had lost 8 or 10 cases for you, you, without reflecting upon him, would get a new lawyer.

"I am a Republican. I expect to remain a Republican. Everything I do is for the purpose of bringing my party to realize what faces us when the war is over. I'm not going to support any one whose views I don't believe."

Asked his opinion of the United States war effort, Willkie repeated an earlier stand for a single commander of armed forces, a post he has said should go to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Four Camel Caravans...
complete road shows for men in uniform

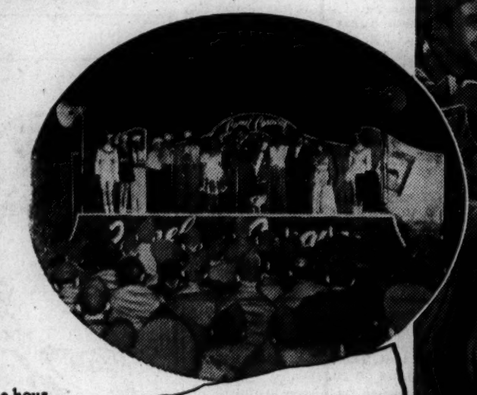
750 performances to 1,000,000 and more soldiers, sailors, marines, and coast guardsmen in camps and stations from Plattsburg to Pensacola to Panama as this goes to press

JULY 31, 1941! That's when the Camel Caravans hit the road. And they've been at it ever since: four performances a day in some camps to audiences of 15,000 to 20,000.

Yes, it seems you can't find a military scene anywhere without Camels in the picture... cigarette or show. Or both. And both seem to have won top rating with the men in all the services. According to applause and letters of appreciation from morale officers, the shows are a "smash hit!" And according to sales records, the cigarette is a "smash hit," too. The top-ranking favorite in P.X.'s and Canteens.

★ ★ ★

STEADY NERVES...that's the order of the hour. Whether you man a gun or a machine... whether you sit a jouncing jeep or knit a sweater... you'll appreciate Camels more than ever these days. They have the mildness that counts!



ARMY CAMPS write:
"...Express to you thanks of this garrison for the splendid entertainment by the Camel Caravan..."The production was excellent"..."Very happy experience to find a 'soldier' show that did not 'play down' to its audience"..."Our Army personnel is appreciative of high-class entertainment."
Thank you, Gentlemen, it was a pleasure—and a privilege!

SURE, free cigarettes, as well as a free show, are part of the fun when one of those 4 big Camel Caravans rolls into camp. Camel's famous full, rich flavor, coolness, and extra mildness also "take a bow."

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THE JAPS AT KISKA.

The Japanese have broadcast the boast that they have succeeded in reënforcing their position in the Aleutian Islands off Alaska.

Perhaps they are telling the truth and perhaps not but at any rate it is now clear that when they took Kiska they obtained control of an island and a harbor of large strategic value. The anchorage itself is big enough to accommodate a navy. The island lies along the short route from the United States to Japan. With Kiska in enemy possession, the Japanese are on the flank of any expedition we may send across the Pacific and, in addition, the enemy has an advanced position to use against us.

In the battle of the Coral sea the Japanese were thrown back from Australia to suffer the first serious setback in their career of conquest. In the battle of Midway an attack aimed at Hawaii was likewise repelled. But now the Japanese, who were defeated in these thrusts southward and eastward, appear to be concentrating their efforts in the north. At Kiska they are half way across the Pacific and in that sense are about as far along as they would have been if they had taken Midway.

They must be driven out not only to prevent them from continually menacing our west coast but more especially to prevent them from interfering with our operations against them. The longer they are permitted to remain in the Aleutians, the stronger they will become. With time they can fortify and reënforce their bases until the cost of recapturing our islands may prove to be very high.

After seven months of war it ought to be clear that when the Japanese get a foothold they are difficult to dislodge. What they did in Malaya, Java, Sumatra, and the Philippines shows that they will not be content merely to sit in Kiska and wait for us to attack. As rapidly as possible they will move to the next good base to the east and in turn fortify that for service as a base for further advances. The way to stop that process of gradual approach to our shores is to drive them out now, before their foothold is secure.

MR. DIES' APOLOGY.

Congressman Dies has made a handsome apology to Mr. David Vaughan of the Board of Economic Warfare. Mr. Dies, in a letter to Vice President Wallace, had listed the gentleman as a sponsor of the American League for Peace and Democracy, a fellow-traveler outfit. Mr. Vaughan properly resented the accusation and brought suit for libel. Mr. Dies explained that the error had arisen because of an unfortunate confusion of Mr. Vaughan with a David Vaughn whose name appeared on the letterhead of the organization in question.

Those who have devoted themselves to smearing the Dies committee have repeatedly accused the chairman and his colleagues of misstating facts and drawing false inferences regarding individuals and organizations charged with Communist or Fascist leanings. It is noteworthy that Mr. Vaughan is one of a very few who have successfully challenged the charges made against them. The inference appears justified that few mistakes were made. The others took no action, it can be assumed, because they knew the committee could prove its case.

Mr. Vaughan felt that to be listed as a sponsor of a fellow-traveler organization was a reflection upon his good sense or his patriotism. In this, of course, he was right. A man who has been falsely catalogued by Mr. Dies or his committee as an enemy of the republic or the dupe of enemies of the republic ought to resent the charge and see that it is expunged from the record. It is highly significant that Mr. Vaughan is almost alone in having done so.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

When a corrupt civil service commission condones corruption among police officers, as it did in acquitting the four members of the police morals squad who carefully looked the other way whenever they saw the gambling they were charged with suppressing, the degradation of the police department as a whole becomes inevitable. The effect has not been long in appearing.

In less than 10 days policemen have been guilty of outrageous abuse of two citizens. Citizen Lantz, a family man never arrested in his life, was locked up for three days without word to his family as a suspected sex psychopath because he tried to help a lost child find her family. He died a week after his release from the cell. Citizen Loome, trying to find a taxicab when his pregnant wife became ill on a bus, was treated to abusive language and carted off in a patrol wagon when he courteously invoked the assistance of a policeman.

Both of these citizens were acquitted in court, but the police officers who were responsible have shown no repentance and their superiors have expressed no interest in safeguarding other citizens from a repetition of this kind of mistreatment. Policemen, or at least some policemen, are rapidly falling into the habit of pushing around the citizens who pay their salaries. When a policeman knows that other police officers guilty of offenses far more serious than any he may contemplate can count on protection rather than punishment from the civil service commissioners, there is no deterrent to keep him from unbridled abuse of his authority. And that is why we are hearing of outrages upon citizens.

No correction can be expected from the present members of the civil service commission. They are shameless. The president of the commission is the Hon. Joseph P. Geary, pater familias of the 47 Hungry Gearys, who batten on the public treasury to the tune of some $80,000 a year. A chair on the commission is reserved for William P. Ronan, but he recognizes that his appointment was a political favor and never presumes to intrude when the dirt is being swept under the carpet. Both of these gentlemen are Democrats. The Republican representation specified by law is vested in the Hon. Wendell E. Green, who lately has undergone a religious conversion and will run for Municipal court judge as a Democrat.

Commissioner Green conducted the trial of the morals squad singlehanded and displayed the talents that enable him to fit in with the political hacks who now maintain a Democratic monopoly in the Municipal court. If Mr. Green is elevated to the bench, and the drafting and crooked policemen he now turns loose come before him as witnesses, the courtroom ought to look like the cave of the Forty Thieves before Ali Baba let in a little air.

THE INHERITANCE AND THE HEIR.

The announcement of Barbara Hutton's latest marriage is the type of event that inevitably stimulates legislation to prevent the inheritance of enormous fortunes. Such events emphasize the fact that rarely does the inheritor have the capacity to manage such a fortune. Instead the fortune frequently ruins the inheritor, who all too commonly goes thru a course of profligacy and progressive polygamy.

It is often said that the accumulation of wealth is the unfailing index of success and social prestige in America. Perhaps this is true, tho we doubt it; but at the same time Americans have been more contemptuous than most nations of the mere possession of wealth, particularly of inherited wealth. There is nothing contradictory in the two attitudes. They parallel closely the feeling of a people of republican habits toward inherited titles. Inherited titles and inherited wealth are equally suspect because both titles and wealth tend to outlive the qualities that won them.

As republicans, we often overlook the conditions that made the original feudal baron an extremely useful citizen. He gave order to the community that he ruled. His protection made it possible for other members of the community to exercise the fundamental freedom to own and enjoy property. The peasant who had to yield half his loaf to the baron did not begrudge it so long as he could see that without the baron's protection he would lose the whole loaf. It was only after the maintenance of order was taken over by others, while the heirs of the baron continued to exact their toll thru presumption and not strength, that the peasants looked those soft people over and in France set up the guillotine.

American admiration for men of wealth might have been improved by a little more discrimination in the bestowing. Gratitude is due Andrew Carnegie, for example, not for the libraries with which he salved his conscience, and certainly not for his potty peace foundation, but principally because he gave this nation some of the world's best steel mills. It is immaterial what becomes of Miss Hutton's money, but it is a matter of great importance to the nation that the agency by which that fortune was accumulated—a system of distributing goods that lowered living costs for millions of people and made jobs for thousands—shall not be destroyed in the process of separating the inheritance from the heir.

Concern over the profligate misuse of fortunes is not likely to outlast the next few generations, since most of the fortunes will be gone by that time. Estate and inheritance taxes already take three-quarters of the larger ones. In our national indignation at the heirs we are permitting ourselves to endanger the benefits that the founders of the fortunes conferred on the country. The real fortunes are not money in the bank, but shares in business. We have yet to work out a satisfactory system for depriving the heir of an inheritance which only does him and society harm, without at the same time destroying the business that supplies his income and serves the whole community in earning it.

What is needed is a plan by which the man of wealth can make adequate provision for his heirs while assuring the continuance of his business thru a transfer of the control to the men he has trained to carry it on.

Editorials of the Day

[Wall Street Journal.]

For some time now we have been cogitating the social desirability of razors and razor blades, and the announcement that their production is to be continued until July 31 has influenced us to commit ourselves to print at this particular time.

Being a fierce partisan of individualism, we think that it would be well not to eliminate razors. If we, like some gentlemen in Washington, were proponents of regimentation it is the last thing we would do.

It's all right to laugh at the hirsute adornments of our grandfathers and even our fathers, but we are convinced that it was an influence for individuality. A man with mutton chops proclaimed his difference from a man with a walrus mustache and both of them were different than a man with a fringe of hair that grew from his neck. You couldn't take men like that and get them to agree on anything, much less all act alike.

Now it's different. The furthest departure from a clean shaven face is a few wisps of hair on the upper lip, at best a pallid and weak revolt against sameness. The totalitarians had better keep 'em shaving.

HAGUE MACHINE GETS A JUDGESHIP.
[Des Moines Register.]

Sen. Herring says that immediately after he had cast the only Democratic vote against the confirmation of Thomas F. Meaney's appointment to the federal District court bench, he was approached by New Jersey's Sen. Smathers, who sponsored Meaney. Smathers asked the name of Herring's opponent in the fall election "so that campaign contributions could be sent to him."

Meaney is a product of the political machine of Boss Frank Hague of New Jersey. He was bitterly opposed by Gov. Edison of that state. The fight against him was led by Sen. Norris of Nebraska, a stanch supporter of Roosevelt ordinarily.

"To confirm Meaney would be to put Hague on the federal bench [Sen. Norris told the senate]. It is well known that Meaney is Hague's tool. Nobody denies, not even Sen. Smathers, that Meaney is Hague's candidate, and everybody all over the country knows what the Hague machine is."

Any campaign funds which the Smathers-Hague alliance sends into this area had better come heavily camouflaged.

ALLEGORICAL, SORT OF.
[Portland Evening Express.]

The neighbors, over the back fence which separated their war gardens, were discussing all the pests—the blights, beetles, slugs, bugs, and borers—which arise to bedevil the agriculturist at every turn.

"Funny," observed one. "When I was a boy we didn't seem to be bothered by all these things. There were potato bugs, of course. We'd always had them. But we never had to fight any such things as Mexican bean beetles, European corn borers, and so forth. It's funny."

"Well, why do you suppose it is?" the other war gardener wondered. "These new pests didn't just spring up out of the earth. Where'd we get 'em all?"

"Why, I guess they were imported, most of them, from foreign countries," said the first speaker. And his wife, looking up briefly from her hands and knees bout with the witch-grass, observed tartly:

"Hmph! That's where we seem to get most of our big troubles—imported from abroad!"

Two mere male sodbusters nodded, agreed there was undeniably something in what the lady said.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THE SPIRIT OF PEACOCK ALLEY.

When the Congress hotel becomes a beehive of fledgling army aviators, we hope that its Oldest Inhabitant is commissioned to keep his favorite chair in the lobby warm and to instruct the rookies in the traditions of the place. We can imagine him saying:

"Soldiers, tread lightly, for this corridor is hallowed ground. Its name was Peacock Alley, and it was the favorite parading place of the most beautiful women in the world, all looking like paintings by Boldini and wearing pearl dog collars. . . . But that was many a year ago, my lads, before cafés were mongrelized into night spots.

• • •

"This would have been exactly the place for you student flyers, for I understand it is a playful custom, after your first solo flight, for your comrades to dunk you into a pond or any available tank. We used to have a fountain here that would have served admirably for this purpose. Moreover, on New Year's eve, or after the Thanksgiving day football game, self-immersion in that fountain was popular among our best dressed dudes. The pool's regular occuparts, however, were alligators, specially trained not to bite the dudes."

• • •

"You must excuse the recent alterations to the Pompeian room," Old Inhab. might continue, "because we didn't know that you boys were coming. This room, formerly larger, used to be the finest in the two Americas. The style was the antique Roman in its bacchic mood, and here you could put vine leaves in your hair and feel like a drunken emperor. The fellow who wrote 'Home, Sweet Home,' was thinking about the Pompeian room when he spoke of roaming 'mid pleasures and palaces."

• • •

Old Inhab.'s next lecture would probably be on the theme, "Wild opera singers I have met, and how they trapped pigeons on their window-sills for home cooking purposes."

SO THINKS THE SPHINX.

My nine-and-forty-centuried silence smiles
These regions of the immemorial Nile's
Gracious and million-times-replenished ground.

So smiled I when the Assyrians came and went:
Proud Sargon and Sennacherib, in the sun
Fierce-charioted, assured, preëminent—

Came Alexander charging across these sands
To claim my children—came, in power-proud lust,
Octavian, wie'ding legioned Rome's commands
Three hundred long years after the Greek was dust—

And next, Napoleon, striding his grenadiers
In serried glitter beneath my shadow thrown . . .
At one and all I smiled, while the swift years
Up-piled them round my paws of passive stone.

Dynasties pass as moths in my vast night.
While empires rise and fall and rise, I sit Serene, and watch their momentary might
Dissolve amid the chaos they commit.

And now—and now—with mirth but multiplied
Has history's judgment-page gone undescried?

ANTIDOTES FOR THE ITCH.

CURIOUS and bizarre are the interpretations placed upon the vagaries of the world's most notable figures. The characteristic pose of Napoleon, with his right hand thrust within his waistcoat, has been explained on the ground that he was a victim of stomach trouble and that pressure on the upper abdomen was employed to bring relief.

The chances are that the gesture was merely a mannerism. When holding court or sitting for a portrait, he was convinced that he had to do something with his hands. Thus, the one in front was concealed while the other was held behind him. But possibly the "Little Corporal" had scabies [the itch]. This infection was rife during his time and the lack of what we consider good sanitation may have permitted the disorder to persist.

The malady may be contracted thru handshaking and thru the medium of towels, bedding, or toilet articles used in common. The cause is the itch mite [Sarcoptes scabiei]. All members of this family are very small—scarcely visible to the naked eye. They are whitish in shade and somewhat oval in shape. They have a fashion of burrowing beneath the cuticle where they hatch their young. It takes only four weeks to produce a new generation. The excretions and secretions are responsible for the intense irritation.

But where do these varmints attack? The web of tender, thin skin between the fingers is a favorite site, altho any part of the body is subject to invasion. Scratching adds fuel to an existing fire. It brings on oozing and bleeding, whereupon numerous pus producing bacteria start to grow.

Sulfur has been the remedy par excellence for ages and an ointment containing this element has relieved many a sufferer. But we must recall that the drug in itself may be annoying to a few. Thus, while strong preparations may be used with adults, children will require lighter mixtures.

The usual procedure is to oblige the patient to take a warm bath, using a mild soap. Several minutes are employed in generous sudsing. The cuticle is then dried thoroly before the salve is applied. If the infection is general, a thin covering only will be called for.

The concoction is reapplied for two or three succeeding nights until the fourth day, when it is removed by a bath. Thereafter, only clean garments should be used. This includes underwear, bedding, towels, etc. On the sixth or seventh day, if new batches of parasites have been hatched, the same ritual is followed. How long treatment will need to be continued cannot be determined. It should be clear, however, that as long as the mites persist they must be destroyed.

Danish ointment is popular but, unless diluted, may be quite too powerful for youngsters. An ointment of pyrethrum is found to be effective when allowed to remain in contact with the skin for six or seven days.

If we will wash our hands many times daily we will have little occasion to become acquainted with the burrowing tendencies of this "scabby critter."

NERVOUSNESS.

M. B. writes: I may be perfectly composed, but the minute I am called upon to sign my name to anything I begin to shake like an aspen leaf. What is wrong with me?

REPLY.

Probably nothing but self-consciousness or embarrassment. In certain nervous conditions, however, the symptom is observed in striking fashion. The phenomenon is called "intention tremor."

BABY WON'T SLEEP.

Mrs. J. M. writes: My six week old infant averages only 7 or 8 hours sleep out of 24. What should be done?

REPLY.

Your babe should slumber 20 hours a day. Hunger leads to fretfulness. Make certain that the feedings are properly balanced and adequate.

STORY OF A BOY AND A FLAG.

Evanston, Ill., July 9.—Fifteen years ago the boy moved into the house two doors from us. That same summer his dad bought him and his little brother a beautiful big American flag. He taught the boys how the flag should be raised in the morning and lowered at sundown. During the 15 years that have passed the flag has been raised and lowered many times and the boy has grown to a man 21 years old.

Yesterday I happened to look thru the window just as the boy was walking across the lawn of his back yard. He raised the flag, simply and naturally, just as he had been doing it all his life. It made a very beautiful picture—doubly beautiful, I thought, because on July 11th he would enter the service of his country. I said to myself, "God bless him and all the other fine boys who are going forth from our good American homes so that that flag may continue to fly above us forever."

MRS. WM. G. SKILLEN.

A CBOAT ON KING PETER.

Chicago, July 8.—The statement of Mr. Palandech in answer to your editorial, "Black George's Heir," is only partly true, as he omitted a few very important facts.

After the death of King Peter I. his son, Alexander I., ascended the throne of the newly created kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes, and later became the dictator of Jugo-Slavia. His rule was marked with the killings of the Croatian deputies in the Belgrade parliament, an event that shocked the whole civilized world, by the brutal murder and imprisonment of hundreds of the most prominent Croatians, and the torturing and flogging of 40,000 Croatian peasants.

Alexander was killed at Marseille, not by a Croatian "Ustasha," but by a Macedonian revolutionist by the name of Vladimir Georgieff Chernozemski, who was fighting for the liberation of his homeland from the brutal Serbian rule. He was condemned to death at Sofia at the time when the Bulgarian government was forming an eternal friendship pact with the Serbian government.

The Serbians may have their king if they want to, but the Croatians are not at all enthusiastic about King Peter. They had plenty of dictatorship and tyranny during the last 20 years. The Croatians want a free and independent Croatia after the pattern of the United States, and would not oppose a federation of the nations of the Balkan peninsula which would include the Serbs, Croats, Slovenes, Bulgarians, and the rest of the Balkan peoples.

THE COMMONERS CAN FIGHT.

Chicago, July 9.—It is just another silly Tribune idea that Ralph Ingersoll, brave editor of PM, who puts up such a heroic battle to get his country into the war, should be called in the draft.

After all, there are plenty of commoners in the middle west to fight the war. As any one in Washington can tell you, what the country needs is more Ralph Ingersolls to fight the middle westerners.

A. M. HENNESSEY.

Chicago, July 8.—I am very glad indeed to see the news summary on the front page again. This is more important to me than almost anything else you could or have put in its place.

LONG TIME READER.

MARION, KY., IS MAD.

Marion, Ky., July 6.—Marcia Winn, in her story in the July 1 issue about Crittenden county, Kentucky, missed her mark. The citizens of this "poor, dusty, little town" are "fightin' mad," but not altogether about the war; part of the wrath was stirred up by the article. Miss Winn made it appear that poverty and ignorance are predominant in the lives of the people in the community, and we resent it.

As to the streets of the town having been built by WPA, many of the citizens who built streets to the tune of many thousands of dollars know definitely that a few of the streets were not built by WPA. Perhaps Miss Winn failed to learn that this "poverty stricken little town" is in the midst of the largest fluorspar district in the United States. Perhaps she failed to learn that fluorspar is one of the most vital minerals in the production of war materials. Perhaps she failed to learn that many thousands of dollars are invested in these mines located in this "pauper county." Perhaps she failed to learn that all miners are not "poor." She failed to mention anything about the spar industry, except that "there are about 600 miners and all poor."

Miss Winn evidently got her geography mixed. She must have thought that she was in a mountain county where feuds were once the order of the day, instead of in a peace loving community where feuds are unknown.

The citizens are awake to the war situation sufficiently to appreciate the sacrifices made by the boys who have gone to fight our battles. What if the parents of Tommie Collins and Wilbur Hunt are illiterate? Their sons have done much more than many of us have done, and should be honored rather than have their parents held up to ridicule. Yes, we are fightin' mad about the story written by Miss Winn because it is overdrawn.

LEAFFA WILBORN.

JUST ANOTHER SERBIAN.

Chicago, July 9.—In reply to John R. Palandech's letter: In the United States we believe that all men are created equal, including kings, therefore they do not inherit thrones or the right to rule. To real Americans young Peter is just another Serbian. As to the Serbian people, we have every sympathy for them and their cause, fighting for freedom, but I wonder if it ever occurred to Mr. Palandech that our great American hero, George Washington, stayed with the people in their hour of distress instead of grabbing a large fortune and running to safety, leaving the people to fight, die, and starve as young King Peter has done.

PLAIN AMERICAN.

LET THE TENANT FURNISH.

Chicago, July 8.—Will some one please tell me whose idea it was for landlords to supply refrigerators, stoves, ironing boards, linoleum, radiator cabinets, and shades to tenants? Why should an owner of an unfurnished apartment have to furnish a kitchen any more than he would have to furnish a bedroom or dining room? Now that there is to be a ceiling on rents, why not put a ceiling on what a landlord must furnish a tenant? Let the owner supply the apartment, plus heat and hot water. Let the tenant supply all equipment and do his own decorating. With nothing in an apartment but the bare walls, a certain standard of rent could be established for each size apartment in each neighborhood. If an owner knew he would not have to throw out perfectly good stoves and linoleum in order to appease the whim of some tenant, I am sure apartments would be much cheaper and every one would be happy.

K. M. M.

THE WOOL SITUATION.

Chicago, July 10.—Hal Foust's article on the mythical shortage in sugar, wool, and paper was interesting, for I have just returned from a vacation on a farm 100 miles south of here. Seeing a pile of wool, I chided the farmer about hoarding and waiting for the price to go up. His reply was, "The man who always bought my wool is not allowed to buy any more until the government gives him permission. Find me a buyer and I'll gladly sell."

Test Your Horse Sense By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 25.

1. If you were riding in the crummy of a railroad train, you would be in the Caboose Express car Box car Parlor Car.
2. The mezzanine floor would be nearest to which of these? 2d 3d 10th Top floor.
3. If your method of locomotion was a "hay burner," your average speed would probably be how many miles per hour? 6 25 36 90.
4. Which one of these precious jewels can normally be found in a large machine shop? Ruby Opal Pearl Diamond.
5. Capt. Kidd should bring to mind the nickname of a professional baseball team in Chicago Boston Cincinnati Pittsburgh.
6. After 12 years in grammar and high school, many students still are deficient in their knowledge of their native tongue, namely, the English language. Every intelligent person should know at least one language with a good degree of proficiency. To help encourage better understanding of English, I shall allot one point credit for each correct judgment below in matching the words in the left hand column with the descriptive terms applying to them. Save these tests for scrapbook use with your children.

WOMEN'S POKER GAME IN PARK ENDS WITH RIOT

Two Versions of Scrap Told by Principals.

A penny ante poker game led last night to a fight between an elderly civilian and a park policeman in Eugene Field park, Foster and Lawndale avenues, and brought five police squads to the scene in response to a riot call.

Principals in the case were Israel Lasky, 59 years old, 1200 Pratt boulevard, a building contractor, and Policeman Raymond Eddy. Lasky is temporarily crippled as the result of a recent leg fracture and walks with a cane.

Accounts of the fight varied. According to Lasky his wife, Leah, 54, and several women were playing poker for pennies, when Policeman Eddy came up, confiscated the cards and coins, and placed Mrs. Lasky under arrest.

Apologized to Policeman.

"I told the policeman I was sorry, I didn't think the card game was unlawful, and asked him to let my wife go," Lasky said. "He told me I also was under arrest and when I started to walk away he grabbed and pushed me. I couldn't stand very well with my crippled leg and somehow my cane struck him on the arm. Then he knocked me down."

Mrs. Lasky charged that Policeman Eddy seized her, inflicting black and blue marks, when she protested. The policeman said his story was best told by Lasky's cane. It was broken in two, he said, by the force of Lasky's blow. His arm also was discolored.

Asserts He Was Caned.

"I made the arrest because gambling in the park is unlawful," Eddy said. "Lasky became abusive and I arrested him. He walked away and I stopped him. Then he hit me with his cane, and I struck him with my billy." The policeman asserted Lasky also was playing cards, which Lasky denied.

Eddy booked Lasky on charges of resisting arrest, assault and battery, and gambling. He charged Mrs. Lasky with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. The Laskys will appear in Women's court today.

Eddy has been assigned to Eugene Field park for about a year.

MUSIC DIRECTORS WILL MEET, PLAN FESTIVAL CHORUS

Directors of choral groups will meet at a dinner tonight at 800 Tower court, to plan for the Chicago Festival chorus which will sing at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE show Saturday night, Aug. 15, in Soldiers' field.

Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director of the festival, who also is president of the Chicago Conservatory of Music and director of the Apollo club, the Sunday Evening club, and the Marshall Field chorus, will be the principal speaker tonight. He will be introduced by Henry Weber, the festival's general musical director.

The choristers again will sing Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," accompanied by the festival orchestra of 100 men. This number has been the link which has held together all 12 festival programs.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. M. T. writes: "We are an old couple. I am 78 and my wife is 75 and we are receiving the old age pension. Would we be eligible to receive allotments from our youngest son in service? My oldest son and his family have been on relief because of a prolonged illness. One of his sons will go into the army soon, and if he should send allotments to his parents and brothers and sisters, would they still get relief?"

ANSWER: All forms of public assistance are administered on the basis of need. If, as in the case of elderly parents receiving a state old age pension, a son in service should make allotments to them under the Allotment and Allowance act, whatever is received from this son would be deducted from the amount the parents receive as an old age pension. The same is true of a soldier's or sailor's dependents who are on relief. Whatever amount of money is received in allotments from a man in service, would be deducted from the amount received by his dependents as relief. Social security, however, is entirely different. Receipt of money from this source would not be reduced or discontinued if the recipient receives allotments from a soldier or sailor, but money from social security might disqualify the person under the Allotment and Allowance act.

It should be remembered by persons intending to apply for, or who will receive allotments from some one in service, that all class B dependents will be required to submit affidavits, and if they falsely claim dependency, they will be liable to fines up to $5,000, and imprisonment up to two years or both.

AIR CORPS TAKES 3 BIG HOTELS IN ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N. J., July 12 [Special].—Col. Robert P. Glassburn, commanding officer of the army air forces technical training center in Atlantic City, today announced that the army has taken over the Chalfonte-Haddon hall. Ritz-Carlton and Claridge hotels. Army acquisition of the Claridge was announced last week by its management.

The Chalfonte-Haddon hall, actually two hotels under one management, cost $10,000,000. The two structures are separated at the boardwalk by North Carolina avenue, but use the same heating and power plant. The Chalfonte, which dates back to 1868, is 10 stories high. Its present building was completed in 1904. The Haddon Hall is 24 stories high, and was opened in 1929.

The 20 story Ritz-Carlton also on the boardwalk, was valued at $6,000,000 on completion in 1921.

The Claridge was opened Dec. 20, 1930. It is 29 stories high, including an 80 foot tower, and cost $4,500,000.

10 VICTIMS PICK POLKA GANG IN POLICE SHOWUP

Victims of 10 holdups identified the Polka Dot Handkerchief gang at the police showup yesterday as the gunmen who robbed them. The robbers have been identified in 25 robberies, in which police say they took $2,500 in cash and jewelry. The Polka Dot Handkerchief robbers, so-called because of the dotted handkerchiefs they wore for masks, are Leo Piscopo, 21 years old, and Nick Gianos, 20. Charlene O'Neil, 23, who rode with the robbers on their forays, burst into tears when Sergt. John Boland ordered her into the showup line. She was not identified by any of the victims. One member of the gang, Eugene Guzy, was killed in a gun battle in which he killed Detective Walter Storm last Monday night.

CAPITAL BUREAU APPROVES AUTO VACATION TRIPS

Limited use of an automobile for a vacation trip is not unpatriotic, according to a statement sent from the American Automobile association and received yesterday by the Chicago Motor club. The statement from Washington, D. C., says such a trip is not inconsistent with the government's conservation program, either.

The statement, issued by the Office of Defense Transportation, says vacations are recognized as important to the health, welfare and efficiency of the public in the all-out war effort.

Vacationists are urged, however, to have a definite objective and avoid roaming about from place to place, and to select a place reasonably near their homes. The statement also urged moderate speeds.

CHICAGOANS JAM BEACH AREAS AS MERCURY HITS 92

Other Thousands Attend Patriotic Rallies.

Sweltering Chicagoans by the thousands went to beaches, parks, and forest preserves yesterday seeking relief from temperatures that zoomed 21 degrees in five hours and reached 92 degrees by 12:45 p. m. The peak, however, did not approach the record of 97.2 degrees set July 12, 1930.

An estimated 350,000 persons jammed the North avenue, Montrose avenue, and Oak street beaches. At the Rocky Ledge and Rainbow beaches at 76th and 79th streets, a crowd of 60,000, the largest this year, was reported by Willard C. Barry, south side beach director. The coast guard reported no drowning at beaches, altho 12 persons in distress were rescued.

While thousands sought relief outdoors, other thousands attended patriotic rallies.

Several hundred Americans of Polish extraction attended a ceremony in Humboldt park, during which the Polish Medical society's woman's auxiliary presented $500 to the United States treasury department to be used toward the purchase of an army "jeep." The check was presented by Mrs. T. S. Pierzynski, president of the auxiliary, to Lieut. Col. Taylor Belcher, executive officer of the 6th corps area quartermaster office, in front of a statue of Thaddeus Kosciusko, a Pole who fought in the Revolutionary war.

In Douglas park more than 3,000 persons participated in a ceremony honoring parents of men in service. During the rally, sponsored by the North Lawndale community office of civilian defense, mothers and fathers of almost 1,500 families received either war stamp corsages or certificates of honor issued by Mayor Kelly, OCD director.

Mrs. B. B. Shapiro, local OCD assistant executive chairman, presented the awards. Music was provided by a WPA band directed by Alfred De Grazia. The program was organized by Arthur Schimmel, local OCD commander.

Three thousand other persons, including units of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and groups in costume of other nations, marched in a parade sponsored by the Wrightwood-Fullerton-North avenue community OCD. The parade, on Kedzie avenue, disbanded at a reviewing stand at Palmer square and Kedzie avenue.

AUTO ACCIDENT FATAL TO GIRL, 16; THREE ARE HURT

Miss Virginia Martin, 16 years old, 1351 Elmdale avenue, was killed yesterday when a car in which she and five other Chicagoans were riding went out of control and turned over on a Wisconsin county trunk road a few feet north of the Illinois-Wisconsin line. Three of the others in the car were critically injured.

Mrs. Patricia Redlick, 22, Kankakee, died in a collision of a car driven by her husband, William, 24, with an automobile operated by John Bristle of Melvin, Ford county. The accident occurred on U. S. highway 54 near Melvin.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 385 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 299 were killed in Chicago, where 10,805 were injured.

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by O. E. Hackman, 2326 Reynolds street, Fort Wayne, Ind.]

THE QUESTION.

Have you had any unusual experience with a back seat driver?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Chief Lone West, lecturer, Forest Trailer park, Park Ridge—Driving in Chicago was a new experience for me, so I accepted all the advice from the back seat. After they sent me thru a red light, the officer forgave me, but told the Chicago back seat drivers they should know better.

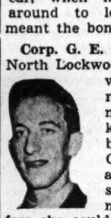
Ted R. Buckler, building superintendent, New Lenox—My guests were in a big hurry to get to the party and they said if I'd follow their instructions we would take a short cut thru the park. We ended up in a testing lane where they permitted no retreats. We were an hour and a half late and my car passed the tests.

Arthur N. Henke, guard, 2820 Lyndale avenue—My wife and mother are the two best back seat drivers any one could ask for. When we were meeting a moving van, one of them thought I was using more than my half of the road. She screamed and grabbed the wheel. It would have frightened me less if we had hit the van.

Henry Vandenbergh, messenger, 6813 Hobart avenue—My back seat driver friend sounded so very capable I thought I'd let him take over while I slipped off my coat. He had no sooner taken the wheel than we crashed into a parked car. That put both of us in our places.

William Ludwig, auditor, 3438 Grenshaw street—The back seat driver and I were passengers. When she screamed and told her father to look at all the smoke, he thought she meant his car was on fire. He swerved into another car, when he turned around to look. She meant the bonfire in the distance.

Corp. G. E. Grabo, technician, 5305 North Lockwood avenue—Every time we have anything that resembles a close call my mother lets me know about it by grabbing the door handle. Once the door opened as a result and I swerved off the road in my effort to close it before she could fall out.



Somebody Can Rescue Al from 14 Days of Misery

Twenty dollars is a lot of money to Fireman Third Class Al Daniels, 17 years old, of the navy, but his identification papers are more important. Unless he finds his black wallet, which he lost while strolling with his girl friend Saturday night near the Waveland fieldhouse in Lincoln park, he will lose his liberties for 14 days. He will be restricted from leaving Navy pier for 14 days while the navy reidentifies him. Daniels is studying aviation metalsmithing. Chicago park police pledged him full coöperation in helping him recover the wallet.

OBITUARIES

Royden K. Pretty.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow at 6959 Clark street for Royden K. Pretty, bank executive, who died late Saturday night of a heart attack. A requiem mass will be celebrated at 9 a. m. in St. Jerome's church, 1709 Lunt avenue. Mr. Pretty was 62 years old and lived at 1527 Farwell avenue. He had been 19 years with the Northern Trust company, and was a second vice president at the time of his death. For 2? years before he was associated with the Great Northern railroad. He was a director of the Executives club and a member of the Traffic club, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Union League and the Kildeer Country club. He leaves his widow and one daughter.

William Watts Fullagar.

William Watts Fullagar, 57 years old, assistant manager of the Crane company's Chicago branch, died in his home, 2320 Isabella avenue, Evanston, Saturday. Funeral services will be held today in the chapel at 5708 Madison street. Interment will be at Graceland cemetery. Mr. Fullagar is survived by his widow, Grace, and a son.

Emma Mae Wolf.

Miss Emma Mae Wolf, who has sold school supplies to Hyde Park students for 35 years at 1401 East 55th street, died yesterday in Woodlawn hospital. Miss Wolf was 73 years old.

Johns Hopkins Gets Fund for Study of Paralysis

New York, July 12 (AP).—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has made a five year $300,000 grant to Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., for a study of infantile paralysis and related viruses, Basil O'Connor, foundation president, announced today.

ROBBER, 18, SHOT TO DEATH WHILE FLEEING POLICE

Named by Companions in Holdup Slaying.

A young burglar accused of the holdup slaying of Casper Lehuta in his tavern at 4429 Montrose avenue Saturday was shot and killed early yesterday when he tried to escape from police in the Shakespeare avenue station.

He was William McKonsky, 18 years old, of 2236 Dickens avenue. Despite his youth, he had a four year record of crime. Altho his crimes were serious he had been paroled from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles after he had escaped from the institution. He later had been placed on probation by the United States district court.

Two Companions Confess.

McKonsky was shot by Detective Philip Hels, a pistol champion. Shortly after the shooting, two avowed confederates of McKonsky confessed that they had taken part in the holdup in which Lehuta was killed, and said McKonsky had taken part in the killing.

The confederates also said they had plotted with McKonsky to hold up the Greyhound bus station at 170 North State street, according to Capt. Eugene Barry. The captain said the robbery was planned for yesterday morning, but was prevented by the gang's arrest.

Lehuta was shot to death by two robbers. Witnesses said they fired four times after Lehuta resisted the holdup with a shotgun, and that they escaped in a car driven by an accomplice.

Found Hiding in Closet.

Informed that McKonsky was one of the killers, the police went to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert McKonsky, before dawn yesterday. The police said they were informed that the suspect was not at home. Pushing their way in, they found him hiding in a clothes closet.

Police were taking McKonsky thru the rear door of the station when he broke away and ran. Hels called on him to halt and then fired twice into the air to warn him. McKonsky sped on. Hels dropped him with a bullet thru his head.

At the moment McKonsky was being taken in the rear door, other police were walking thru the front door with Eugene Linkowski, 19, of 2138 Dickens avenue. Within a few minutes, Linkowski and Chester Talarski, 19, of 1520 Chestnut street, had signed confessions of their part in the tavern killing and their plans for robbing the bus station.

Fatal Shot .32 Caliber.

The police said Linkowski told them that he and McKonsky entered the tavern, leaving Talarski outside in the car. Linkowski said that he and McKonsky fired, according to the police, Linkowski with a .22 caliber revolver and McKonsky with one of .32 caliber. The police report says Lehuta was killed with a .32 caliber bullet.

The trail of the gang was picked up in a curious way after long hours of investigation by Capt. Barry, Lieut. James O'Brien, Hels, and Detectives John Stachowski and Peter Storm, a brother of Detective Walter Storm, who was killed in a recent tavern holdup.

An Elmhurst boy, 16 years old, notified the police that Linkowski had tried to buy a gun from him, and told him of the tavern killing. The police then rounded up the gang.

Criminal at 14.

McKonsky began his career of crime when he was 14. He was sent to the training school for burglary in 1938. His parole was the first of three occasions upon which he won leniency.

Early in 1940 a charge of automobile theft was reduced to petty larceny, and he was sentenced to 8 months in the Bridewell.

Two months later he was in Federal court, accused of stealing from interstate shipments for a woman Fagin. He was sentenced to 3 years in prison, but he obtained probation, and he served only the Bridewell term.

Armed with bows and arrows, Chicago sportsmen took part in an all-day Robinhood archery tournament sponsored by the Chicago park district in Jackson park yesterday. Featured events included a "clout shoot" and a "Jersey round" for men and intermediate boys shooting from 80, 60, 50, and 40 yards, using 36 arrows per round. Women and intermediate girls also took part in this round from 60, 50, 40, and 30 yards.

CHILDREN FIND BODY OF SLAIN BABY IN RIVER

Discovery by two children of the body of a small baby, obviously slain, in the Des Plaines river west of Waukegan yesterday gave Lake county authorities a gruesome mystery.

The baby, a boy from 6 to 8 months old, was seen floating in the river about 400 feet south of the bridge on route 120. It was about 18 feet from shore. Sheriff's deputies recovered the body.

Tied to the body under the right arm and over the left shoulder was a thin rope about 8 feet long. On the other end of the rope was a bundle of newspapers inclosing several bricks. Police said the body had been in the water three weeks or more.

The youngsters who first saw it and whose parents called police to the scene are Dolores Volonte, 740 Broadway, North Chicago, and Clifford Ferris, who lives on route 120 west of the river. They are about 10 years old.

2 Flyers from Janesville Training School Killed

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Teresa Wright.

Teresa Wright was all set to go on to New York for the opening of "The Pride of the Yankees" [in which I'm told she gives a great performance] when lo, and behold, she was needed at home to take care of her husband's two children by a former wife—and she just a bride. . . . Mervyn Leroy, now that he's finisned "Random Harvest," would like to take the missus and have two weeks' rest at Arrowhead, but she's loaded up with war work and can't go along. . . . Sam Goldwyn wanted to take his 16 year old son, Sammy, along to New York for the opening of "The Pride of the Yankees," but Frances put her foot down and said, "Sammy's got a job, and I think it would be unjust to take him out of it for a pleasure trip. It might interfere with his chance for promotion." . . . Bob Hope had a two days' holiday, drove up to Del Monte for a golf match, and drove 70 miles home during a dim-out.

Could Be.

Because Ann Sothern has told her friends, who are army and navy bound, they could store their furniture in her basement, she now has all the fixin's, and can give private theatricals down there, and enough men's clothes to dress up the girls if they feel so inclined. . . . Which reminds me, now that Bob Sterling is in the air force, the story of their alleged romance can be told. Naturally, when Ann and Roger Pryor were divorced, she was lonely. A newspaper woman can go anywhere alone, but not a motion picture star. She's got to have an escort—handsome one preferred. Ann's mother and Sterling's mother have been lifelong friends. Sterling's sister is Ann's secretary. Bob didn't have a girl, and what was more natural that these two should make it a duet. And how they laughed at all the romantic stories written about them, when it was only friendship. But the laugh will be on me if that friendship turns to love!

One Thing Leads to Another.

The other day, feeling pretty proud of himself while skeet shooting, George Murphy stepped back to rest his gun, and there, coiled to strike, was a huge snake that had been watching the whole performance. On the way home after that experience, he had a flat tire at a busy intersection. When a car drew up alongside of him, the driver said, "Hi, neighbor, want a lift?" it was Margaret Sullavan. . . . I'd like to say, "Hi Sullavan, where've you been hiding? Why don't you come back to the screen? We need you."

Hats Off to Harry.

A letter from Cliff Parkinson pays tribute to one of our producers, and I'm passing it on: "You know the saying, 'The Show Must Go On,' but this man had the decency to do something no other producer I know has ever done. He stopped production out of homage to an extra who died by accident—not a star, Miss Hopper. We were on location when a wagon that Charles Murphy was driving overturned. The producer rushed Charlie to Bakersfield hospital, where he died.

"Shooting was called off for the rest of the day, and a thousand dollars collected on the spot for Charlie's widow. Later, when the funeral was held, work was stopped again out of respect for Charlie. The producer's name is Harry Sherman."

We Can't Spare Her.

Charlotte Greenwood is wanted by women's clubs on a lecture tour, but can't get away. "Besides," says Charlotte, "what would I talk about except what makes tall girls tall, and short girls short?" . . . Lionel Barrymore, amateur musician, has written a semiclassical piece for Rise Stevens, which she may sing in the Hollywood bowl.

It's a Date.

Republic's Fay McKenzie got a letter from a hill-billy soldier, enclosing a packet of seed corn. Said he was due for a leave in three months, and if she'd plant the corn, he'd come out here on his leave and eat "roastin' ears" with her! . . . Howard Lang, whose "Good Night, Ladies" is breaking Chicago records, is casting for a new show to open here, then Broadway. It's called "The Sun Field"—a baseball story. He's trying to get Joan Crawford and other top names. Now, is he throwing the bull or the ball? . . . Dolores Hope and Mary Healy organized a first aid course at the Lakeside Golf club—for golf widows. . . . When Fred MacMurray and Grant Withers did a fight in "No Time for Love," Fred accidentally knocked Grant out. After he came to, with Fred bending over him, looking very concerned, Grant opened his eye and said, "You know, Fred, I've always wanted an autographed picture of you in this position!"

Family Reunion.

Myron McCormick's wife, Martha Hodge, is en route here to join him. She and her mother stopped off in Texas to celebrate with brother, William Hodge Jr., who was graduated from Yale in law and went into a Houston law office to get his first year's training. Now he's going in the army, but comes back to Texas as a full fledged lawyer when the war ends. . . . George Putnam, after being paid for his interest in "Stand By to Die," would like to back out of the whole thing. It's too late now, George—picture starts Aug. 1. . . . Victor Moore has a special reason for hoping Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army" has a long run. His soldier son, Bobby, is in it, and Victor, like any other proud papa, wants to see the show—but can't leave here till he finishes in "Star Spangled Rhythm."

Good Morning!

Well, Friday was my penitentiary day.

I spent part of the morning in jail with Humphrey Bogart, and the afternoon in San Quentin with a lot of other guys.

Humphrey plays a big shot onetime racketeer who lives to be sor-r-r-y. Three times Berne's served time and been released and he makes up his mind that there'll be no fourth conviction because that would mean jail for life. . . . But—times are hard and jobs are scarce and he agrees to be the brains of a holdup. . . . His sweetheart, now married to a criminal mouthpiece for reasons the film will reveal, persuades Duke to take no part in the stickup. . . . Her husband, learning of what had gone on before marriage between Lorna and Duke, double crosses the latter while appearing to defend him. . . . Jail again. . . . Escape—with Lorna and—the expected ending preceded by a whale of an automobile chase. . . .

Mr. Bogart is excellent in the type of rôle he usually plays. . . . Miss Manning—from the stage—is charming as the loyal Lorna. . . . Splendid in support are Stanley Ridges, Chick Chandler, Richard Travis, and Joseph King. . . . The film is fast moving and well directed.

"MEN OF SAN QUENTIN."
Released thru Producers Releasing Corp.
Directed by William Beaudine.
Presented at the Oriental.
Featuring J. Anthony Hughes, Eleanore Stewart, Dick Curtis, Jeffrey Sayre, Charles Middleton, George Breakston.

This documentary film was photographed, so I'm told, almost entirely within the walls of San Quentin.

It tells the story of old and new. . . . And so, thru the medium of a fictional story you are shown the great improvements that, during the years have taken place in the institution where men, once treated worse than beasts, are now accorded humane consideration. . . .

The film is interesting and well acted, and while much of it is far from pleasant seeing, it gives the observer a "lift." . . . Encouraging to be reminded that, even in this dark age, man is not always against his brother man.

See you soon.

Hunting Dog Wall Panel

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This hunting dog depicted in a filet crocheted wall panel is equally as artful as any oil painting. The subject is beautifully designed and the instructions include easy-to-follow directions and graph. White mercerized filet cotton may be used on a living room wall, but tan ecru is ideal for a man's den.

For instructions in crocheting the filet crocheted wall hanging of a hunting dog, No. 509, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Weddings Announced

Miss Margot Brent Wrenn and Ensign Adolph Jack Weiss, son of Mrs. Adolph Weiss of the Churchill hotel, were married on July 4 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wrenn of Ravinia. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Christoph Keller of the Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. Ensign Weiss has taken his bride to Little Rock, Ark.

Miss Maude Nuella Laughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Laughlin of Chatham, Ont., and Lieut. Nelson Lee Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. Lambert of Dixon, Ill., were married on June 2 in the post chapel at the Midland Army Flying school in Texas. Lieut. Lambert, whose great-grandfather was Capt. John Reese, aide to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, attended Illinois Wesleyan and the University of Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward John Boyce of North Paulina street announce the marriage of their daughter, Betty, to Ensign James H. Harms, U. S. naval reserve air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harms of Chatham, Ill. The wedding took place on July 2 in Howes Memorial chapel on the Northwestern university campus. Ensign Harms, who recently completed his training in Miami, Fla., has taken his bride to the west coast.

Mrs. Ambrose Madison Richardson of Blackstone avenue announces the marriage of her daughter, Louise, to Lieut. Franklin Woodson Peters of Salem, Va. The wedding took place on June 6 in St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Miss Ann Burnham, a second lieutenant in the army nursing corps, and Lieut. Ray D. Klepper Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Klepper of Elmhurst, were married on July 3 in the station hospital chapel at Camp Polk, La. The bride, who received her nursing degree from the city hospital in Mobile, Ala., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Burnham of Pensacola, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hadesman of South Clyde avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Rita, to S. David Kay, son of Mrs. Anna Kay of Philadelphia, Pa. The wedding and reception took place on June 7 at the Windermere East hotel. The bride attended Florida State university, and Mr. Kay studied at New York university. They will live in Cleveland, O.

Miss Jeanne Marie Dunne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Dunne of Beverly Hills, and Ralph F. Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Walter of South Maplewood avenue, were married on June 13 in St. Barnabas' church, with a wedding breakfast following at the Windermere East hotel. Mr. Walter, who is with the U. S. army, has taken his bride to his southern post.

Mrs. Burton has more time for Civilian Defense Work because her automatic electric range does the cooking

Calling on every family in the block is a full afternoon's job. But that's no problem, I can do it easily and have dinner ready on time, too, with the help of my automatic electric range.

Let's see, we'll have oven-fried chicken, potatoes and peas, spiced apricots and fruit cobbler. I can prepare the food this morning, slip it into the oven, set the automatic controls and forget it.

My dinner's in the oven and I'm on my way. All I have to do is set the temperature dial at 350° and the timer dials so that they'll start the cooking at 4:30 and turn it off at 6 o'clock.

Twenty calls so far, but I have a lot more to go. Let's see . . . it's just 4:30. Back home, the automatic timer has just turned on the oven, and my dinner is starting to cook. I don't even have to think about it.

Dinner right on time! I'm glad I've learned to take full advantage of my automatic electric range. It gives me the afternoon to work for Uncle Sam while it cooks a delicious, nourishing meal for my family.

Here's the recipe for the meal that cooked itself!

Oven-Fried Chicken — New Potatoes and Peas — Spiced Apricots — Fruit Cobbler — 350° — 1½ hours

Have 3 to 4 lb. chicken cut for frying. Roll in seasoned flour. Arrange in oblong pan and pour ½ cup of melted butter over chicken. Sprinkle with paprika.

New potatoes and peas

14 small new potatoes; 2 cups fresh or frozen peas; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 tablespoons butter; ½ cup cold water

Spiced apricots

½ lb. dried apricots; ½ cup white corn syrup; ½ teaspoon cinnamon; 5 whole cloves; ¾ cup water

Place all ingredients in saucepan, and cover.

Fruit cobbler

4 cups diced rhubarb; ¼ cup granulated sugar; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 2 tablespoons cornstarch; ¾ cup corn syrup

1 cup flour; 2 tablespoons shortening; 2 tablespoons butter; ½ teaspoon baking powder; ½ cup water; ½ teaspoon salt

Samuel W. Off and Pittsburgh Girl Engaged

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD OFF of Chicago and Winnetka spent the week-end in Pittsburgh, Pa., where Mr. and Mrs. J. Crossan Hays entertained at tea on Saturday afternoon to announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Dalzell, to the Offs' son, Samuel Willock Off. The party was given at Mr. and Mrs. Hays' country home.

Miss Hays, a graduate of Chatham hall, made her debut in Pittsburgh. Mr. Off has been in business in that city since he was graduated from Williams college in 1938. He prepared for college at Andover.

The Off family is well represented in three branches of the service, for Samuel Off is in defense work; Clifford Off Jr. is in training for the navy at Columbia university, and Robert W. Off is an air cadet. He is stationed at an army air field in the south.

Belding-Rietheimer Marriage Announced.

Another announcement of romantic interest is one made yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. William Rietheimer of Woodstock, formerly of Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Rietheimer announced the marriage on Dec. 27 of their daughter, Nancee Rogers, to Hiram Hurlburt Belding III., son of Mr. and Mrs. Belding Jr. of Glencoe.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Belding were married in a civil ceremony in Crown Point, Ind. A religious ceremony was held yesterday afternoon in St. Elizabeth's church in Glencoe and was followed by a reception for the families at the Belding home. Young Mr. and Mrs. Belding are living at 5016 North Sheridan road. He is studying at the Northwestern university medical school and will start his internship at the Henry Ford hospital in Detroit, Mich., next April.

No bride-to-be ever was more widely feted than Dana Stone when his friends learned that he had enlisted in the navy and was about to leave. Mr. and Mrs. John Sheppard Stone's son is reporting for duty today, and as Coxswain Stone will receive five weeks' training before receiving his orders.

Yesterday there was a gala picnic on the beach at the Ayres Boals' Winnetka residence, with the young people of the family as hosts. The Boals' youngest son, Thomas Boal, is in the coast guard. Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Davis, who came here from Connecticut, shared honors at the picnic. Mrs. James P. Braun Jr. entertained at cocktails and supper on Saturday night. The Alfred C. Wests, the Fielding Marshalls, Miss Frieda Foltz, and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Willis are others who gave farewell parties for Mr. Stone.

Ensign John E. Turner is leaving tomorrow for Dartmouth college for his indoctrination period in the navy. As soon as his orders are more certain, Mrs. Turner will join her husband, who is the son of Mrs. Tracy Turner and the late Mr. Turner.

Lilias Reid and Fiance to Be Feted This Week.

Almost every day this week there'll be a party for Miss Lilias Reid, who arrived on Saturday from Boston, Mass., and for her fiancé, Kenneth Wilson Cobb. Because Mr. Cobb won't be able to leave his defense job long enough to go east this summer to be married, he and the young easterner will have their wedding in Winnetka. The ceremony will take place at 8 o'clock on Saturday in the chapel of Christ church, and wedding guests will have only to walk across the village green to the reception in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Candler Cobb Jr.

Tomorrow Miss Patricia Fisher will give a luncheon and handkerchief shower in her home in Wilmette, and Mrs. Cobb has planned a kitchen shower for Wednesday night. Miss Virginia Coolidge, one of the bridesmaids, will be hostess at a beach party on Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Perrett F. Gault and the George Snyders are to give the bridal dinner on Friday night at the Westmoreland Country club. Miss Reid arrived just in time for a supper party given Saturday night by Mr. Cobb's sister, Mrs. Russell Gessel, and Mr. Gessel. Her mother, Mrs. Robert Adams Reid, and her aunt, Miss Lilias Reid, are expected from the east on Thursday.

The Eugene McDonalds, who heretofore have spent the summers aboard their yacht, Mizpah, will become members of the Chicago colony at Ephraim, Wis., this summer. They have taken the charming house of Col. and Mrs. W. W. Yaschenko for the season. By so doing, the McDonalds will be neighbors of the Frederick Stocks, whose summer home adjoins the Yaschenko property.

Mrs. Montgomery Orr's Parents to Visit Her.

Visitors in the Montgomery Orrs' home in Wayne until the end of July will be Mrs. Orr's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Daingerfield of Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Orr and her little daughter, Bonnie, recently enjoyed a few days' visit in Dixon, Ill., with Mr. Orr, who is working in a war plant there. Young Michael remained in Wayne with his grandparents.

Mrs. Leon Mandel has returned to Washington, D. C., after closing their house here. Maj. and Mrs. Mandel have taken a house in Massachusetts avenue in Washington.

The directors of the Yale club of Chicago have voted to omit their annual field day because, according to a letter to local alumni, they feel that "a field day is not in keeping with the spirit of the times nor in fitting respect to Yale men in the service of our country."

At a tea yesterday in their home in West Newton, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hosley announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Farnam Hosley, to John Edward Uhlemann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Uhlemann of Winnetka.

Miss Hosley was graduated this year from Wheaton college in Norton, Mass., and her fiancé was a member of this year's graduating class at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At present he is working in Milwaukee.

Members of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations will gather in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House at 12:30 o'clock today to elect new officers and to hear Philip Willard Ireland speak on "The Near and Middle East—What Next?" Among those at the speakers' table with President Richard Bentley and the speaker, who is assistant professor of political science at the University of Chicago, will be Mrs. Ireland and her father, Dr. Charles A. Webster, Mrs. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Kestnbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Catledge, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lichtenstein, and Clifton M. Utley.

$450,000 Needed in USO Money-Raising Campaign

About $450,000 to go was the word yesterday to all workers in the United Service Organizations fund drive in the Chicago area, who begin the final three weeks of the campaign today. The goal is $1,749,432, while the amount received to yesterday, according to Holman D. Pettibone, general chairman, was $1,244,668. Most of the balance needed to put the drive over the top, Pettibone said, will come from employé groups and smaller companies. More than 1,200 organizations, in which pledge cards were distributed, have not returned them.

Talent.

Residents of the Edgewater Beach apartments point with pride to one of the tea room waitresses, whom they know as Lucille. In her spare time Lucille does exquisite pen and ink sketches, and one of them, which she calls "Brooklyn Street Scene," has taken numerous prizes. The young artist says ruefully that blue ribbons give personal satisfaction, but they don't elp a budget. Her customers, however, are sure that her talent will soon be more substantially rewarded.

Bald Eagle.

The symbol of America
Has vision that is keen;
His eye is on a future that
No man has ever seen.
He builds his nest upon the heights
And here his eaglets fly—
His pinions spread from crag to peak
While winnowing the sky.
The eagle has transcendent views
In flight that heeds no bars;
His strength and courage hold his course
On parallel of stars.

College Traditions.

In the mail:

"You recently wrote of college traditions. We're just a little college that very few people have heard of, but we, too, have our noble traditions. The name is Blackburn college at Carlinville, Ill., where the students do all work except teach. It's a pioneer in the self-help program. . . . As listed in 'Looking Forward,' a guide for freshmen, here are some of our traditions:

"'Wednesday night is guest night and dinner is served by candlelight.

"'Boys must call out "Man on deck" when it is necessary to enter residence corridors of girls' dormitories.

"Your recent item concerning canine patriotism prompts me to write you about the black cocker spaniel, Rochester, belonging to my niece. A piece of candy placed before him with the announcement, 'Hitler made that,' is received with complete indifference. But change the announcement to 'MacArthur made it,' and, accompanied with much tail-wagging, the candy is gone in one gulp."

Ravinia Hears Sunny Concert for the Juniors

Young people's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, George Szell conducting. Presented at Ravinia Park, Sunday afternoon, July 12, 1942. The program:

Overture to "Fra Diavolo".....Auber
Furiant and Polka, from "The Bartered Bride".....Smetana
Perpetual Motion.....Weber
[Orchestrated by George Szell.]
[First time in Chicago.]
Four Slavonic Dances [Opus 46, Nos. 1 and 3; Opus 72, Nos. 2 and 7].....Dvorak
Waltz, "On the Beautiful Blue Danube".....Strauss

BY CECIL SMITH.

It was a memorable week-end at Ravinia. After the titanic splendors of Saturday evening, described in yesterday's paper, the Sunday afternoon concert for young people might easily have seemed anti-climactic. But it did not, for George Szell had assembled a program of the sunniest kind, which the orchestra played with infectious lilt and enthusiasm. The young people—many of whom were very young, indeed—and their elders listened with equal attention to the music and to Mr. Szell's affable if slightly elephantine comments.

In his concerts this last week Mr. Szell has strengthened his hold upon the regard of the Ravinia audience. As a baton technician he is scarcely surpassed by any conductor in the American concert field, and if he is not altogether supreme as a musician, he is at least well educated, intelligent, sensitive, and devoted to the cause of music more than to his own boxoffice advancement.

Mozart's matchless E-flat Symphony was played with excellent instrumental balance, and with thoroly just and proper tempo. It was an appealingly straightforward performance, honestly conceived and effectively presented. It fell short of real distinction only because Mr. Szell seemed unable to command the kind of inflection which clarifies many of the important dynamic and structural relationships of the music.

In both first and second movements, for instance, the climax of the development was poorly pointed up, and the transition back to the original thematic material was treated in an unperceiving and somewhat commonplace manner. But in the main the interpretation was satisfying, and it was good to have this masterpiece retrieved from neglect here in Chicago.

Mr. Szell was at the peak of his excellence in the Slavonic Dances of Dvorak, some of the most beautiful dance music ever written by any composer in any period. He gave the rhythmic patterns a distinctively national twist and succeeded fully in evoking both the melancholy expressiveness and the dashing verve of the music.

His own transcription of Weber's "Perpetual Motion" for piano, played for the first time here in its orchestral version, proved to be a brilliant tour de force. The piano figurations of the original are turned into truly idiomatic orchestral music, full of color and dash, and mounting to a splashing climax at the end. It is the sort of piece which gives a rousing touch to any concert of light music, and should be retained in the repertory.

On Tuesday evening Artur Schnabel returns to play Mozart's C major piano concerto with Mr. Szell and the orchestra.

Money Raising Drives Merged in Many Cities

The mushrooming of money raising campaigns in connection with the war has prompted many American communities to establish joint "war chests" and investigative clearing houses to protect the public from confusion and rackets, the American Public Welfare association reported yesterday after a survey.

"War chests have been set up in many cities to receive all money collected for various purposes—local, national, foreign war relief funds, Red Cross, USO, and to prorate distribution of the money according to needs and purposes," the association said.

In many communities war appeals boards have been established to certify each drive after determining that its cause was worthy, that the funds were handled efficiently, and that they were spent properly.

"Approximately 75 communities have established review boards to pass on worthiness of appeals for funds and approximately 60 are considering this step," the report said. "Most of the boards are sponsored by local governments, but many are set up by civilian defense councils.

"In either case, governmental and defense officials coöperate closely to assure as much protection as possible to contributors to the various funds."

Flint, Mich., and Sheboygan, Wis., maintain "war chests" which are raised and distributed by one organization. In Flint, the report said, the war chest holds a general drive in the fall on behalf of local, national, and international appeals. The Sheboygan county defense council formed a war chest group to raise a single fund thru one annual campaign for war and relief.

War appeals boards are organized in Evanston, Springfield, and Geneseo, Ill.; Battle Creek and Flint, Mich.; Akron, O.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Sheboygan and Washburn, Wis.

Grant Park Crowd Disregards Rain for Exceptional Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Virtually nothing short of Gabriel's trumpet can stop a Grant park concert, and last night's showers and high winds did not cut out a single bar of the music. The players simply huddled farther into the band shell, the harpist moved from an exposed lower deck to a protected upper one, and the pianist closed the cover of his instrument.

A large part of the audience chose to remain, for by the time the first rain came the exceptional quality of the program had been established. Josephine Antoine, soprano of the Chicago and Metropolitan operas, had demonstrated what it means to change from a mere singer into an authentic artist, and Conductor Percy Faith had put his orchestra thru one of those tricky radio arrangements that so many people seem to like. More of both of these delights was promised for the second, or water logged half of the program.

Miss Antoine, who had already been heard in the Mozart "Alleluia," the "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto" and Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me," came back to do the "Una voce poco fa" from "The Barber of Seville," "The Last Rose of Summer," and "Lo, here the gentle lark."

In the lyrical songs Miss Antoine displayed the warm overtones of which her voice is capable. Her delivery was simple and moving. She had obviously studied the music carefully and mastered not only its technical but also its psychological problems. The Dvorak, especially, represented an approach to the absolute ideal of singing—a perfectly mastered content set forth directly and completely.

Her handling of the coloratura airs was blithe and fluent. There was the musical equivalent of a smile in almost every bar of the aria from "The Barber."

The Chicago bass, Hans Alten, made a good impression on the Grant park throng Saturday night when he sang excerpts from "Don Carlos" and "Eugen Onegin" with the Woman's Symphony orchestra under Nicolai Malko's direction. The voice was well focussed and was refreshingly light and flexible. It was used with quiet intelligence.

The purely instrumental part of the program included such staples as the Schubert "Unfinished" symphony and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnol" as well as two or three less familiar pieces. Among the latter were Stein's modest and competent Chassidic dances.

Mr. Malko's performances were clear and pleasing, altho his preoccupation with small details of phrasing and tone quality sometimes caused him to miss what might plausibly be called the central meaning of a piece. An example of this came in the Johann Strauss "Emperor" waltz. The piece's rhythmic excitement and warm, sentimental glow were sacrificed to delicate tone colorings and an exquisitely managed ritardando. These effects, while beautiful enough in themselves, seemed to strike a discordant note in a work of this kind.

Boys and Girls, Write to Sally for Party Bid

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Come on, you Sox fans!

July 23 is the date, Comiskey park is the place—and all the bright little boys and girls who've been watching the party news in this column know the rest, don't you?

Yep, it's a baseball party, and one week from next Thursday 100 boys and girls will have an opportunity to come with me to see the Chicago White Sox play the Boston Red Sox. If you'd like to be in that group, get busy and don't let anything distract you until you see if you can win an invitation.

I know all you White Sox fans are anxious to see your particular favorites, so just sit right down and tell me all about it. I want to take as my guests the youngsters who'll best enjoy the party. I can't judge that unless you tell me, and the best way to do that is to write a letter. Tell me anything you think will help to prove that you really do want an invitation to this party, and don't forget to include your full name, your address, and age in your letter or out it goes! All mail must be on my desk by next Thursday morning at the latest. I'll read every single one of them and choose the boys and girls I think are the most genuinely eager to come.

Please don't ask for invitations for your little brother or sister in your letter, because each child must win his or her own invitation—no one else can do it for you. Be sure to write your address carefully, because if you don't your invitation might go astray. Address your letters to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Garden Club of Illinois to Hold Meeting Today

The Garden Club of Illinois will hold its monthly meeting today at the Lake Shore Country club, with the North Shore Garden club as hostess. A 10:30 o'clock directors' meeting will be followed by luncheon, to which the president and two members of each garden club thruout the state are invited. Mrs. Mahlon Ogden Bradley of Highland Park will judge and criticize flower arrangements on the afternoon program.

Brass Hats Still Shine in Wartime Gayety of Capital

Washington, D. C., July 12 [Special].—High officers of the army and navy are continuing to take a leading part in the social activities of wartime Washington, it is indicated by the society columns of the capital's newspapers.

Instead of acting as a deterrent to social activities, the war has lent additional pageantry to swank parties. Men charged with high responsibility in the conduct of the war find time for cocktail parties, luncheons, formal dinners, and out of town week-ends, the social news reveals.

Following are a few recent and typical samples of the items Washington society editors are writing these days:

Adm. Ernest King, chief of naval operations and commander in chief of the fleet, and Mrs. King will entertain at a dinner party Tuesday at their quarters on Observatory hill.

Vice Adm. John E. Towers, head of navy aeronautics, and Rear Adm. William Blandy were among guests at a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mallally.

Rear Adm. and Mrs. Herbert Seymour Howard returned to Washington from Rumson, N. J., where they were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Lobdell.

Rear Adm. George H. Rock and Postmaster General Frank Walker shared honors at the luncheon given by H. Donn Kreesy and Howard V. Engh at the Sleepy Hollow country club.

Romance Gone with the War, Girl Reports

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"He asked me twice to marry him," the girl writes, "but that was before he left for the service, and I wasn't sure then that I loved him so I gave him no answer.

"Now, in response to pleas in my letters, he writes that he has changed completely. Everything seems changed since he's in the service. Even the world has changed, he says, so that it isn't surprising he would, too. He says he can't tell what has come over him, but anyway, he wants to be released by me from any hold I may think I have on him. I never used that word "hold," nor would I do anything to hurt or embarrass him. I am just wondering if you can explain how a fellow could change like that and not even want to write to his old girl?

We think your young man is being pretty honest with you. He's trying to explain in words a common enough occurrence these days. The world is changed. The world of a boy who probably had little contact with people beyond his own immediate surroundings now is part of a vast melting pot. It's no reflection on you, young woman, that a change has occurred.

We would urge you to give him that release he asks for, and do it without drama. Give it to him without words. Just stop troubling him with letters until he gets himself in hand.

It may just happen that the young man will turn about face and begin dreaming of you again if you're clever in your handling of the situation now.

INSTALMENT XIX.

CHECKING ACCOUNTS.

The noonday sun beat down, heightening the colors of the flowers in the garden, painting the leaves and lawns a brighter green, bringing out the gold in Elaine's blonde hair, the ebony gloss in Juliet's.

Elaine lolled in the blue lawn chair. Juliet had never seen her more beautiful, more ethereal looking. When she looked like this it was hard to believe her story of her background. Maybe that tale of the slattern mother, the drunken father, the dirty brothers and sisters, and the drab home was just the creation of the London girl's imagination.

She surely looked every inch an aristocrat and a titled lady. Juliet hoped that, when all this terrible mystery had cleared away, Elaine would find the happiness she craved.

Her light blue eyes narrowed slightly as she put her hand up to her face to keep the sun out of her eyes and to see Morelos better.

"Want us to go?" Philip inquired.

Juliet flopped into an orange lawn chair beside Elaine. Philip, smiling quizzically, stood beside her. Morelos strolled back and forth before the group.

"Lady Lynn," he said suddenly, "did you kill Lord Festone?"

Her eyes opened wide in spite of the sun.

"Did I—good heavens, no! I loved him. I expected to marry him. What makes you ask that so often, Mr. Morelos?"

"Bueno!" he exclaimed. "I have to get that out of the way first, Señora. Now you know, don't you, that we are considering arresting your husband on a charge of murder?

"In Mexico we have three investigations in a murder case—the first by the police. If they find evidence of guilt, the suspected one is arrested. Then the district attorney considers what testimony has been taken and obtains more of his own, if he can. If he thinks the evidence is insufficient, he frees the fellow. If not—he turns the prisoner and the evidence over to a trial judge. The trial judge considers everything—then makes a decision—whether to send the man to prison for 10 or 20 years, or let him go free."

"If my husband is guilty, I want him punished. I wish I'd never married him." The angelic look had vanished from Elaine's face.

"Now! Now! Don't upset yourself, Lady Lynn," Morelos advised.

"You shouldn't talk that way, Elaine," Philip protested. "I am very fond of Sir James. He's done many kind things for me. I don't think he's guilty."

"Every man to his own opinion," Elaine replied. "You do, don't you, Juliet?"

"Juliet is not going to answer," Philip said peevishly. "She's said too much and done too much already. Do you know, Elaine, that the police consider her a material witness?"

"Heavens, no—why?"

"But you don't care if I get sent off to prison, do you, Philip?"

"Philip, I don't like your attitude. Why don't you leave?"

"Very well. I will. Good-by, Julie."

Angrily, he walked across the garden. Juliet tried to rise to follow him, but Elaine held tightly to her hand.

Morelos, silent thruout the interchange, said impatiently:

"Now, let's get on. Lady Lynn, did you ever give money to Lord Festone?"

Elaine looked around the patio—at the trees, flowers, plants, shrubbery, lawn, flagstone paths—as tho she were trying to remember something.

Morelos repeated the question.

"No—no, I don't believe I ever did. O, I might have signed a check at the club occasionally—but—no, I can't remember ever giving him any money."

She stretched her long, shapely bare legs out on the blue lawn lounge and stared at them. Morelos put his hand into his vest pocket.

"Then, Lady Lynn, may I ask you to account for these regular sums which you have been drawing from the Mexican bank?"

He handed her a bank statement.

"Hummm. Five hundred dollars a month. That's not much, Mr. Morelos. It takes a lot of money to run an establishment like this."

"It does. But I happen to know that Sir James pays all the bills—not some of them—all of them," Morelos said with surety.

"Well, I buy clothes and—"

"Sir James pays those bills, too."

"O, stop it!" Elaine said crossly.

"My husband doesn't care what amount of money I draw monthly. He has plenty of American money here even if other people don't, I don't see why the Cuernavaca police department has to worry."

"Because five hundred American dollars a month is so much money in Mexico—when the ratio is six to one," Morelos explained.

He put his hand in his brown vest pocket again and pulled out another statement.

"Now, Lady Lynn, this is a statement from Lord Festone's bank. It shows that he deposited three hundred dollars a month—on the day after you made your withdrawals. Do you make anything of that?"

Elaine's mouth was an angry slit.

"No, Mr. Morelos, I don't. I knew nothing about Lord Festone's business. I know that when his remittances were held up he painted a lot and he sold a lot. I never asked him when, nor where, nor how much he was paid."

The investigator was unperturbed by her answer.

She eyed him anxiously, then said in gentler tone:

"No, Mr. Morelos, I never gave Harold any money—but even if I did—why would you care?"

Morelos shrugged his shoulders.

"My dear Lady Lynn, don't you realize that that would supply a motive. A man learns that his wife is giving another man money—"

"But, Mr. Morelos," Juliet interrupted, "You don't think that Sir James would know if his wife gave money to Harold?"

"He opened a joint checking account for her and he's a business man as well as a baronet. He'd have a hard time proving that he didn't know how much his wife was drawing."

"Well, if I'd known that's what you wanted, I'd have written some checks to Lord Festone for you," Elaine laughed unpleasantly. "Is there anything else?"

"Thank you, Lady Lynn. That's all for the moment."

"No sense trying to keep anything from the police, is there, Julie?" Elaine said, yawning, and she rose and stretched. "C'mon, let's go in."

The girls started in together.

"Wonder what Philip's up to?" Elaine demanded of Juliet. "You know he doesn't like James any better than I do. He's not trying to save him."

She emphasized the him.

"O, I'm sure he is. He's told me time and again how much he liked Sir James," Juliet answered seriously.

"Julie, you're a dear, sweet girl and I love you—but sometimes I think you're awfully stupid in the way you place your trust in men," Elaine said patronizingly.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Berry jams are just about the best jams there are. They're so good that you'll want to put up as many as ingenuity and your canning allotment of sugar allows.

Berry preserves are also pretty mouth watering, but your sugar goes a lot farther in making jams than it does in making preserves. No berry jam needs more than ¾ cup sugar per cup of prepared fruit. By prepared fruit is meant fruit that has been cooked or crushed until juicy. Don't measure the fruit just as it comes from the box. It will be much bulkier and you'll be using more sugar than necessary.

Almost any berry jam can be made with part honey or corn sirup. You'll get best results if you use 2 pounds of sugar with each pound of honey or corn sirup but, in a pinch, sirup or honey may be substituted for half the sugar required in the recipe. Jams made with honey or sirup don't, as a rule, keep quite as well as jams made with sugar alone. There is more likelihood of fermentation, for one thing. Some authorities recommend processing jams containing honey or sirup for 15 minutes in a hot water bath.

Here's a recipe for making berry jams with part honey or sirup. It may be used for raspberries, blackberries, loganberries, and red or black currants in combinations or separately. Blueberries are lacking in pectin and make a better jam when combined in equal parts with raspberries or currants. You can use this recipe for such a combination.

BERRY JAMS WITH PART HONEY OR SIRUP.

[All berries except strawberries.]

Wash and crush berries slightly to start juices flowing. Cook until soft in their own juices. Press fruit thru sieve to remove seeds, if desired. For each quart of fruit add 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup honey or corn sirup. Boil rapidly until thickened, about 20 minutes. *Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal at once. Process 15 minutes in boiling water bath. Have water completely covering jars and count time from moment water begins to boil again.

Unless you're very fond of jam and put up extra large quantities, I think you'll prefer the simpler old fashioned jam. Remember to measure fruit carefully, as I suggested, and use just ¾ cup sugar per cup of prepared fruit. At that rate, a pound and a half of sugar will make four pints of jam.

BLACKBERRY OR RASPBERRY JAM.

Wash berries and crush until juicy, measure, and add ¾ cup sugar for each cup of berries. Bring to a boil and cook rapidly until thickened, about 15 minutes. Pour into clean hot jars and seal. Blackberries may be pressed thru a sieve to remove seeds before measuring.

If you've a good sunny spot, you might try a batch of sunbaked gooseberry jam. It's made entirely with honey, and those plump gooseberries now on market make wonderful jam.

SUNBAKED GOOSEBERRY JAM.

Wash and stem nearly ripe gooseberries and crush thoroly. Measure ¾ cup strained honey for each cup of crushed fruit, and heat carefully to simmering. Simmer for five minutes, then pour over the crushed berries arranged in shallow trays. Cover with panes of glass and let stand outdoors in the sun for several days, until thickened. Take indoors at night. Pack in clean hot jars and seal.

Blueberry and Apple Jam.

1 pint fresh blueberries
1 pint diced tart apples
3 cups sugar
Juice of 1 lemon
Grated rind of ½ lemon

Combine blueberries and apples and heat until juicy. Add sugar, lemon juice, and rind, and cook until thickened and clear. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal immediately.

Today's Prize Recipe

Baked Stuffed Eggplant.

[Serves six.]

1 medium eggplant
Salt and pepper
½ medium onion, chopped fine
½ green pepper, chopped fine
2 tablespoons cream
½ cup bread or cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon butter

Cut off top of eggplant and remove inside pulp with spoon, leaving shell from ¼ to ½ inch thick. Scallop tbp of shell to make attractive, if desired. Add ¾ cup water and ½ teaspoon salt to removed eggplant pulp, which has been diced. Cook until soft. Drain if necessary, then add salt and pepper to taste, and onion, green pepper, cream, and bread crumbs. Pile lightly into shell and garnish top with more crumbs. Dot with butter and set in a moderately hot [375 degrees] oven. Bake 30 minutes, or until shell is tender.

Frocks for Busy Women

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

For your busy daytime hours, and those informal "dates" for dinner, these two dresses are ideal. One is a two-piecer consisting of softly styled shirtwaist and full skirt, and the other is a smartly draped blouse and skirt combine with ruching for trimming.

Style No. 3057 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20, and 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 35 inch material for blouse with long sleeves; 2⅝ yards for skirt.

Style No. 3532 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20, and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35 inch material, 3¾ yards of plaiting.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred)—wrap it carefully, for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly.

White Collar GIRL

Girls in Uniform.

It may not be news that a pretty girl looks pretty in uniform, but when the uniform was designed by a man—and the man a vice president of a company which shelters [in the Merchandise Mart alone] approximately 29,000 persons—then it is news.

The attractive French blue uniforms worn by the 40 girl registrars at the Mart are complete vindication of masculine taste. No longer can dowdy, overdressed women blame the male sex. "Look," we can say, "at the Mart girls in their trim, long-sleeved crêpe blouses and serge suits, with the rows of silver buttons on the double-breasted jacket—look at the well tailored shoulders . . . that's what men like!"

They are a busy group these days registering and directing buyers in town for the market. And, they are a carefully chosen group. Some are college girls . . . some came up the hard way with less education, but all must have three qualifications: [1] a good memory; [2] infinite capacity for hard work; [3] a sense of humor. They are trained how to walk, how to use their voices, how to meet the public, how to give equal consideration to an average 2,000 inquiries a day.

On the main floor you'll find an interesting pair: Rosemary and Juliet. Each has an amazing memory and propensity for hard work. Rosemary has been a dancer; she has been on the stage; she is a singer, a pianist; she designs her own clothes. Juliet was trained to be a professional singer; she has been a pianist, a private secretary.

They make many friends—these two. Soldiers write from overseas; buyers send postal cards and souvenirs. Once the girls received a huge lemon from Texas. And once they received a little tin can—empty—labelled "Florida Climate."

About Shorthand.

Gleaned from the Shorthand Registry: The New York public library has 8,500 volumes on shorthand. . . . Three monuments have been erected in America to shorthand reporters, one a tablet in memory of Thomas Lloyd, who reported the proceedings of the House of Representatives of the First Congress . . . but no monuments to women reporters.

Apropos of Hair-do's.

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as Miss D.,
Miss D., who may in summer wear,
A nest of robins in her hair.
The Office Boy.

Comment.

"As one of the girls, just between us, my vote goes for no bows or flowers worn in the office. I've had a lot of business experience but still don't like to see the girls outdoing one another in the size and gayety of bows and flowers careening on top of their curls," writes one reader. Another: "If the bow is of a small type or the flower is just a single bud, why not let the girls wear them? To sum it up: If the girl is within the age and weight limit and doesn't look conspicuous, it's O. K."

Green Is Color First in Favor for Swim Suit

BY REA SEEGER.

All you sea sirens consider green for a swim suit or for your seagoing ensembles if you crave something different.

There are all kinds of bright green knitted and elasticized one piece finds with a fake skirt panel in front and back over fitted shorts. There are stunning white and green combinations with vertical band panels, the green streak down the front and the back, and the snow white at the sides and in the bodice tops and straps. Dark green, seaweed green, emerald green, and light green provide a plentiful color range from which to select the most flattering for your particular personality.

Smooth dressmaker suits, the kind with definite skirts even tho they are exceedingly brief as to length, also come in many shades of green from moss to lime and chartreuse. With these sleek streamlined green suits, the accessory color contrast is easy to work—white, pink or gay yellow in swim footgear, in caps, sun hats, beach robes, and even the sun tanning equipment such as pads, pillows, and bags. Also the striped, dotted, and checked colored accessories come in blending, harmonizing, and contrasting effects spotlighting this green.

Sharkskin, satin, and cotton lastex, gabardine and twill textures in both cotton and the synthetic materials are the favorite materials, with the snug fitting knitted fabrics extremely popular for the one piece suits. The green shades are guaranteed color fast, no matter how many times they go out to sea, greens that are becoming to blondes, brunets, and coppertops, a shade for every day in your vacation if you wish.

Thru the Looking Glass

It isn't often nowadays that we're asked for the name of a "wrinkle remover," but lately two or three women have made just that request. We can only tell them, usually to their great regret, that there is no such thing.

We used to have preparations that claimed to be wrinkle removers. They weren't, of course. Once a full fledged wrinkle has established itself on face or forehead you're pretty much stuck with it. Certainly nothing you apply externally is going to erase it. And surgery is, in our opinion, much too extreme and expensive a measure.

Occasionally, if a woman is extremely gaunt, building up weight will fill out face and neck so that lines seem less deep. And, in almost all cases, wrinkles can be prevented.

The most fertile field for wrinkles is in thin, dry skin. You'll notice, if your skin is even moderately parched, that its surface is inclined to be a little webbed. This webbing, seen most often around the eyes and in the skin of the neck, will develop into rather more definite lines. And, unless you stay their progress, those lines will develop into wrinkles. It's at this belated stage that most women get frantic.

The thing to do, tho, is to go into action at the very first stage of the game. Generous oiling is imperative to keep the little lines from sprouting, and intelligent massage that "exercises" the muscle structure to a certain extent is just as necessary. These regular preventive measures give you a far better chance of retaining the youthful contour and skin texture than any frantic measures after the drooping wrinkles have actually settled in. Women in War Work

—By India Moffett—

The United States is failing to make use of its "great secret weapon, woman power," said Dr. Minnie L. Maffett of Dallas, Tex., in her opening address last night to the directors of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, now holding its annual meeting in Denver, Colo.

Dr. Minnie L. Maffett.

"For 23 years the federation has been training women for economic leadership and community and political understanding," she said. "Here we are, 76,000 highly trained women equipped to serve in planning the contribution of American women to the war effort. What are we doing? What more can we do?"

Dr. Maffett, federation president and a widely known surgeon, gave figures to prove that few women are included in higher policy making and administrative posts in business, labor, and government.

"War is forcing many firms to take on more women workers—messengers, research workers, even bank tellers—but the portals of the council rooms are still closed," she said. "The federation's protest against this situation is in no way an attack on the administration in Washington," she said, adding "we are all for it, we pray for its success, and we are aware that under any other administration and any other political party the situation as regards women would be the same."

Dr. Maffett announced that the federation has urged the creation of a women's advisory committee to the man power board, to advise on plans and policies affecting the mobilization of women.

"We wrote Mr. McNutt [Paul McNutt, chairman of the man power board] that we believe such an advisory committee of women who are experts in personnel and production problems could help sift and reflect the best thinking of women themselves," she told the federation's directors.

Dr. Maffett mentioned the use of women by the English and Russian governments in the planning and direction of the war. She referred especially to women surgeons and doctors who are serving in those armed forces and mentioned one American woman, Dr. Barbara Stimson, who was recruited for service in England.

"Only half of the hospitals in this country take women as internes," she said, "but those that were sufficiently far-sighted to take on women internes in the past are now profiting by their wise and fair policy."

The speaker said there are more than 7,700 women physicians, 4,000 women lawyers, 131 women engineers, and about 423,000 women managers, owners and executives, all of whom are eager to help in the war effort. She asserted that there is not one woman among the 146 high ranking officials of the War Production board; none among the 12 top ranking officials of the Lend-Lease administration; none in the National War Labor board; none in the Office of Defense Transportation; none in the Office of Scientific Research and Development; none in the Office of the Coördinator of Inter-American Affairs; none in the Office of Defense, Health and Welfare, and none on the Board of Economic Welfare. The Office of Price administration and the War Manpower commission each has one woman member.

The enthusiastic response of Chicago women has prompted the Illinois Institute of Technology to expand its summer war training program for women, John I. Yellott, chairman of defense training for the institute, announced Saturday. Two new sections, totaling 50 women, will begin class and laboratory work in industrial drafting next Monday. Only 20 new applicants can be accepted, however, for there are 30 women qualified for the training who were not able to take the courses that started several weeks ago. The new courses will run for 10 weeks, ending on Sept. 26.

Mr. Yellott also announced that requirements for admission to the junior inspector trainee program — which pays women $120 a month while they are studying—have been lowered by the United States civil service so as to admit virtually all women who are high school graduates. Until now one year of physics and one-half year of trigonometry were required, but now high school graduates with training in mathematics and physics or chemistry are eligible. Information concerning these courses may be obtained from the manager of the 7th United States Civil Service district in the new postoffice building, Chicago, or from the secretary of the civil service examining board at any first or second class postoffice in the Chicago ordnance district.

Thanks to the Midway USO, the University of Chicago and generous citizens, the sailors enrolled in the naval training school at the University will have their own clubhouse, announces Mrs. Jacob Viner, Hyde Park chairman of the Midway USO. The university has given the entire first floor of the building at 975 East 60th street for the clubrooms, which will be furnished thru donations. Mrs. J. J. Pegues, chairman of the committee on decorations, says that easy chairs, lamps, rugs, and a piano will be welcome.

An important feature of the club will be an information desk, which will be a clearing house for those who wish to give parties for sailors on the Midway campus, or invite them to Sunday dinner, etc. Volunteer workers from the Hyde Park and Woodlawn communities will staff the clubhouse under the direction of Mrs. C. Kingman Perkins.

The woman's division of the Chicago Urban league will sponsor a forum discussion on "Housing Problems in Negro Communities" Thursday at a luncheon at Adelarde's restaurant. T. T. McClosky, director of the Chicago Planning Commission, will make the principal address on "How Chicago Plans to Maintain Better Housing and Neighborhood Values." F. T. Lane, director of the league's civic department, and members of his staff, will discuss what the league proposes to do during the coming year to relieve bad housing conditions.

Environment Vital to the Child's Good

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Before beginning this article, I want to "spike" the guns of those who may not look below the surface of it, by saying, "I am not recommending wrapping our children in cotton wool. I am not saying that they must be sheltered from reality. I am not saying that every act should be made easy, every wheel oiled." What this article is saying is that a child's environment must be, to a great degree, favorable to his individual needs if he is to thrive as a person, physically, mentally, and emotionally.

Our aim should be to fit our surroundings, as much as possible, to our tastes and disposition. People, for instance, who love the country should try to move there, instead of living in the city and hating it. The person who is bored by country life, instead of fretting against it, should make an effort to change to a city home. And so with the less tangible part of his environment. Of course, what we can't change, we have to make the best of.

The cry of modern scientific thought is no longer, "Make the child adapt himself to his environment." It is, instead, just the opposite "adapt the environment as far as possible to the child." In this way comes the fullest development for him. You are giving him, figuratively speaking, the kind of soil, the kind of air that he needs for thriving growth.

Sometimes you will find you are doing this extremely well when your children are little, but failing when they're older. Sometimes the reverse is true. Look over your child's setting with an appraising eye, and see where it fails, and what you can do about it.

Spirituals Vie with Jive at Negro Music Festival and Rally

Negro spirituals rang from the columns of Soldiers' field yesterday as the third annual American Negro Music Festival and Patriotic rally was presented. Proceeds from the festival will be given to service men's centers in Chicago.

Alternately basking in sunshine and dodging raindrops, the audience heard music ranging from opera to jive. Selections by the Navy Pier band and a drill by two companies of Negro seamen in training at Great Lakes brought the crowd to its feet.

"The Old Flag Never Touched the Ground," a stirring spiritual sung by the massed chorus under the direction of J. Wesley Jones, struck a keynote of patriotism carried out thru the rest of the program. The entire program was under the direction of W. Louis Davis.

Mayor Kelly welcomed the audience and Norman B. Collins of the treasury department read a poem, "Where Is the Place Called Shangri-La?" John B. Kennedy, news commentator, was master of ceremonies. Among the artists taking part were Robert Keith McFerrin, baritone; Eddie South, violinist; Canada Lee, actor; Muriel Rahn, soprano; Frankie Fambro, soprano; William Franklin, baritone; Napoleon Reed, tenor; Thelma Waide Brown, soprano; Marl Young and his orchestra, and the Spirit of America chorus directed by Luschaa Allen.

Dear Diary BY BECKY

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	2 spades	3 hearts
Double	Pass	3 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	4 hearts
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

At the tables at which the four heart contracts were not only reached but also fulfilled, the play proceeded as follows:

West opened the spade king. Dummy's ace won and the heart king promptly was laid down. [The expert declarers realized that with extreme heart length marked in the West hand there could be no advantage in leading up to the king and that it would prove difficult and expensive for South to enter his own hand for that purpose.] West won with the heart ace and continued spades. Now came the crucial point of the hand. Those declarers who ruffed soon found themselves in a bad position, with West eventually gaining control of the trump suit. The successful declarers properly refused to ruff the second spade, choosing instead to discard a diamond.

Now it was West who found himself tied hand and foot. Another spade lead could be controled with dummy's trump, hence there was no way to shorten declarer's trump holding. For want of a better play, most of the Wests shifted to the singleton club and East's jack was captured en route by the queen. Now the jack of hearts was laid down. West won and shifted back to spades, but now declarer could well afford to ruff in his own hand, since he still had three high trumps with which to pick up West's trumps. The rest of the play, of course, was automatic.

By refusing to let West shorten them twice, these declarers held their losses to two heart tricks and one spade, thus fulfilling their doubled contracts. Of course if West had refused to win the first heart offered him, well, that would be another story.

BOARD PUZZLED BY PROVISIONS OF PAROLE LAW

May Meet with Judges to Set Up Rules.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Parole problems created by the Green-Rennick law are arising every day, Milton H. Summers, member of the parole board, said yesterday. It may be advisable, he added, to call a meeting of judges prosecutors and parole officials to get the best results from the parole reform law.

The board on Saturday rejected a recommendation by Judge William V. Brothers of Chicago that a convict serve a maximum of 3 years and decreed the prisoner should serve 14 years. Judge Brothers said the board had acted properly and on its own responsibility.

130 Cases Protested.

Summers, who is superintendent of parole supervision as well as one of the voting members of the parole board, said the board had no idea of shirking its responsibility in 130 cases in which State's Attorney Courtney has asked that recommendations by the trial judges be set aside and heavier penalties imposed. On the other hand, he said, the board may decide to show more leniency than the judge showed, regardless of the prosecutor's suggestion.

"We have asked the advice of Attorney General Barrett on several phases of the new law," Summers said.

"For instance, here's one problem. Suppose a judge, in anger or otherwise, should impose such a sentence as 20 to 30 years on a young offender. Would we have a right to consider that prisoner's case before he served the minimum set by the judge? The attorney general says we could set aside the 20 year minimum any time after the convict has served 11 months.

Power Is Questioned.

"Suppose a judge makes the sentence 3 to 4 years and we parole the convict after 3 years and he violates his parole before the end of the term. What then? Would we have a right to increase the maximum after the convict was returned to prison, or would he be freed automatically when the 4 years were up?

"If we set aside the judge's minimum and put a convict on parole and he violates, can we then increase the judge's maximum? While no rules have been laid down I understand the attorney general's position to be that we have the right to reject a judge's recommendation once —either as to minimum or maximum, but not as to both."

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said the Chicago criminal court judges are proceeding on the theory that the convicts may earn good behavior time off the minimums they set. Summers said the attorney general has a contrary opinion—that if the judge fixes the minimum at 5 years the convict must serve at least 5 calendar years before he can be considered for parole.

Up To Prosecutor.

None of the Cook county judges whose recommendations have been protested by State's Attorney Courtney cared to voice any objections to the proceedure by the prosecutor. Chief Justice Robert J. Dunne appeared to express the view of all of them when he said the prosecutor had a right to make his recommendation and it is up to the state board to decide.

Under the new law the judge's recommendations are binding unless set aside by a vote of 4 of the 5 members and with the concurrence of T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety.

Coast Guardsman, Pal Suffer Shotgun Wounds

Two men, one a coast guardsman home from Boston on leave, were injured slightly yesterday by shotgun pellets fired by John Saniat, 28 years old, 2708 West 25th street, after an argument on his back porch. Saniat said John Siemaszak, 1439 South Talman avenue, the coast guardsman, and a companion, Vincent Kens, 3118 West 25th street, came to his place early in the morning and made threats. He fired a shot to scare them, he said. Siemaszak in Bridewell hospital said he didn't remember a thing about it.

CAPTURE THUGS WHO BEAT JUDGE, POLICE ARE TOLD

Cahn Praises Detection of Officer's Killers.

Compliments were handed to the police department yesterday by Bertram J. Cahn of the crime commission for the capture of the murderers of Policeman Walter Storm of the Austin station. At the same time he urged them to continue the good work and run down the men who attacked Judge David F. Matchett of the Appellate court.

"Police are always eager to catch any one who kills a member of the department," Cahn said. "They should be just as enterprising and willing to run down the thugs who assaulted the judge."

Beaten by Five Thugs.

Judge Matchett, who is 75 years old, and who has been assigned to the review court for the last 25 years, said he hadn't heard of any police activity in his case since a week ago Saturday. He was beaten June 26 near 61st street and Greenwood avenue by five men who jumped on him without warning or explanation.

"The Woodlawn police don't seem to have done anything on the case," Judge Matchett said yesterday. He declined to say whether a private agency had been asked to hunt for the attackers. He has not been asked to look at any suspects recently, he said, and had heard nothing from Capt. Ray Crane who is in command of the Woodlawn district.

Crane Not at Station.

Capt. Crane was not at the station yesterday afternoon. A policeman who answered the telephone said Lieut. Fred Kelly was in charge but he was out in the district. Desk Sergt. Felix Golden was next in line.

Sergt. Golden said the police of that district have been making a special endeavor to learn who assaulted Judge Matchett. He said detectives of the Woodlawn neighborhood had canvassed all likely places for suspects and he was of the opinion that Judge Matchett had viewed at least 15 suspects since the attack.

Offers Aid to Police.

"I'm ready to go to the station any time I'm called," Judge Matchett said. "I still can't even guess why I was assaulted. I'd be very glad to be of help to the police in this case but they haven't asked for help."

Judge Matchett has recovered and has volunteered to sit in the criminal court for a week during the summer.

CONGRESS PURGE DRIVE LAUNCHED AT FOND DU LAC

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 12 (AP).—A new political organization, to seek election of candidates who will support the foreign policy and war program of President Roosevelt, was formed here today.

The group, to be known as the Wisconsin Committee for United Political Action, indorsed no candidates for state office, but specifically set out to bring about the defeat of Wisconsin representatives in congress who had noninterventionist voting records.

Daniel W. Hoan, former Socialist mayor of Milwaukee, was proposed as a candidate against Lewis B. Thill, Republican congressman from Milwaukee, but declined to enter the race.

The organization was patterned after the Union for Democratic action. About 250 persons, mainly Democrats and Progressives, attended the conference.

BIG 9 COACHES PICK SMITH, WESTFALL AS ALL-STARS

LEADERS' VOTE IS UNANIMOUS FOR TWO BACKS

Voting Is Heavy

FIRST returns in the nation-wide poll which opened yesterday will be published in tomorrow's editions of THE TRIBUNE. The Contest department of THE TRIBUNE and several centers thruout the middle west reported heavy voting on the first day of balloting.

BY ARCH WARD.

Western conference coaches performed their first football act of the 1942 season yesterday. The nine gridiron leaders joined the early voters by casting ballots in the nation-wide poll to elect the starting College All-American team to meet the Chicago Bears, National Football league champions, in the ninth All-Star game in Soldiers' field on Aug. 28.

The lineups chosen by the coaches arrived in the contest department of THE TRIBUNE a few hours after the opening of the poll. Approximately 200 newspapers and radio stations in 38 states and the District of Columbia are associated with THE TRIBUNE in gathering ballots from the country's football fans. The poll will continue until midnight, July 26, when the 11 players with the largest number of votes will be named to start against the Bears.

Unanimous for Smith, Westfall.

Participating in the balloting were H. O. [Fritz] Crisler, Michigan; Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern; Dr. Edward Anderson, Iowa; Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin; Bo McMillin, Indiana; Paul Brown, Ohio State; Dr. George Hauser, Minnesota; Ray Eliot, Illinois, and Elmer Burnham, Purdue. Their selections were not confined to midwestern heroes. Outstanding performers during the 1941 season from the Pacific coast, east and south as well as the middle west, won the coaches' recognition.

However, two ball carriers who terrorized Western conference lines last fall—Bruce Smith, Minnesota half back, and Bob Westfall, Michigan full back—were unanimous choices. Smith, who was named the player of the year following conclusion of the Gophers' 1941 schedule, last week enlisted as an apprentice seaman at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Westfall is spending the summer months at the University of Michigan's geology camp in Wyoming while awaiting a call from the army air corps.

Five Pick Albert.

Frankie Albert, star quarter back on Clark Shaughnessy's Stanford elevens in 1940 and 1941, was selected on five ballots. Another Pacific coast favorite was Bob Reinhard, California's big tackle. Eastern vote getters included John Rokisky, Duquesne end, and Endicott [Chub] Peabody, Harvard guard. Southerners supported by the coaches are Bill Dudley, Virginia half back, who led the nation's individual scorers; Steve Lach, Duke half back; Mal Kutner, Texas end; Ernest Blandin, Tulane tackle; Jack Crain, Texas half back, and Holt Rast, Alabama end.

Vincent Banonis of the University of Detroit, who never made a bad pass in his three years of varsity competition; Bob Ingalls of Michigan, and Darold Jenkins of Missouri were among the choices for the center position. Other linemen and back field performers named included Steve Juzwik, Notre Dame half back; Alf Bauman, Northwestern tackle; Urban Odson, Minnesota tackle; Bernie Crimmins, Notre Dame guard; James Daniell, Ohio State tackle; Tom Melton, Purdue guard; Bob

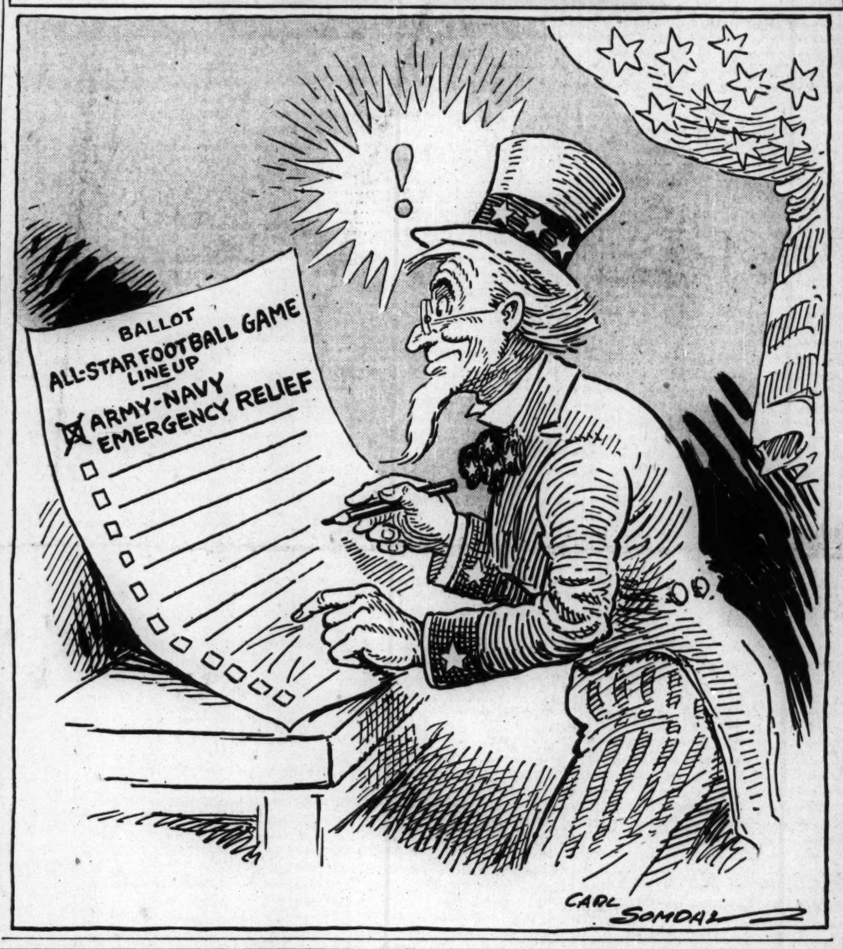
A SURE WINNER



WHITE SOX DIVIDE WITH A'S ON 3 HIT 11-1 JOB BY WADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 12.—Jake Wade, latest of the White Sox bargain basement finds, held the Athletics to three singles in the second game of today's double header, and thereby took some of the sting out of the 14th defeat suffered earlier by another White Sox lefty, Edgar [Losing Pitcher] Smith.

After Smith had blown a 2 to 1 10th inning lead and lost, 3 to 2, with only one Philadelphian retired in the 10th, Wade, an American league castoff, came out for his first start for the Sox. Before he pitched a ball to the A's, his teammates had presented him with a five run lead, which Jake protected jealously even tho his margin mounted during the parade of four enemy pitchers. The final score was 11 to 1.

Walks Cost Jake a Shutout.

Lou Blair singled and Pete Suder walked off the former Tiger southpaw in the second, but were stranded in their tracks. Wade walked Suder and Crash Davis to start the fifth, which cost the one run against his record. After Hal Wagner fanned, Bill Swift singled to center, scoring Suder. Then Mike Kreevich hit into a double play. Davis got two bases on Wade's wild throw of his grounder with two away in the seventh, but Dick Fowler, fourth Philadelphia pitcher, flied out. Kreevich walked with one away in the eighth, but nothing developed. Dee Miles opened the ninth with a single and Blair walked, but Jake escaped further complications when Suder lined into a double play.

The Sox knocked out Luman Harris in the five run first inning and Jack Knott finally retired them. Newman Shirley was assaulted for two runs in the fifth, the rally getting under way on Joe Kuhel's triple. The Sox made four more off Fowler in the sixth on two hits, two walks, and an error.

Smith's Tale of Woe.

Smith's setback was another artistic exposition on how to lose—or how not to win. Edgar was behind, 1 to 0, when the Sox tied the score in the ninth. He blanked the A's in their half of the inning, then carried home a 10th inning run for a 2 to 1 advantage. Smitty fanned Davis, first enemy batter in the 10th. Then Kreevich walked on a pitch the Sox insisted was a strike. A moment later Elmer Valo tripled to center, Myril Hoag playing the ball badly. This gave the A's a 2 to 2 tie, and then Dick Siebert bounced a single out of Smith's reach to end the ball game.

Kreevich also was involved in the A's one run production off Smith in

BY ARCH WARD.

APPRENTICE SEAMAN BRUCE SMITH, one of a long line of great backs produced at the University of Minnesota, who enlisted at Great Lakes last week, is a modest chap when his own feats are recalled, but he will talk for hours about the football prowess of his brother, Ensign George Smith, also stationed at Great Lakes. . . . They were teammates on the Faribault, Minn., High school eleven, Bruce playing half and George full back. . . . George, who was graduated from Minnesota in 1939, played with the Gophers for two years, but was forced to give up the game by an elbow injury. . . . Tire and gasoline rationing hold no terrors for Coach Al Humphreys of the Bucknell football team. . . . He's been riding a bicycle for years and years. . . . Jimmy Smith, Billy Conn's pugnacious father-in-law, claims the report that he once swapped punches with John McGraw is erroneous. . . . "I never did so much as argue with Muggsy," Jimmy told an eastern sports writer, "and my name does not deserve to be bracketed with that of such a fine character as McGraw; I wish you'd forget the whole thing." . . . Hugh Mulcahy, the former Phil pitcher, who is studying for an army commission at Miami Beach, Fla., is quartered at the Barclay Plaza hotel and drills in the shadow of the Boulevard hotel, where he stayed with the Phils in 1940. . . . Sudden thought: Both the Phils and the Braves changed their names this season, but the fans still know where to find them in the National league standings. . . . The chest protector worn by Billy Sullivan Jr. of the Dodgers was designed by Billy Sr. . . . You south side fans remember him. . . .

Bruce Smith.

Jimmy Smith.

George Selkirk of the Yankees is convinced that the batting slumps of such stars as Joe DiMaggio, Joe Kuhel, Billy Herman, and Hank Leiber are the result of a deadened ball. . . . George operated on several spheres and claims he found that less yarn and that of poorer quality is being used this year. . . . Which is a sound argument, until you remember that other hitters—Joe Gordon and Bobby Doerr, for example—are hitting as well as the better known stars did last year. . . . Earl Averill, the former major league outfield star, recently won the Washington state trapshooting championship with 96 hits out of a possible 100. . . . Johnny Pesky, the "rookie of the year" at this writing, was valedictorian of his high school class in Portland, Ore. . . . John, a gifted speaker, has made 40 luncheon appearances in and around Boston this summer. . . . Andy High, Cardinal scout, is camping on the trail of Ace Phillips, Mobile second baseman.

Our Discontent.

When the mercury is rising
And we seem to melt away,
We hanker for the icy winds
That came with winter's day.
When the nights are hot and sticky
And we toss and feebly groan,
We swear that we will grateful be
When summer time has flown.

But when winter comes a-knocking
So surely at our door,
We long again for summer's heat
To thaw each freezing pore.
We think again of sunny beach
That built the healthy man
And skies of blue and rippling waves
That joyful eyes would scan.

And so we in our discontent
Would plan the seasons, too,
And fit them each to suit our needs.
I've done this, haven't you?
How true it is that futile are
Our wishes and our dreams.
The happiest man of all is he
Who bides with Nature's schemes!

LON GOES OUT IN 4TH INNING; BEATEN, 6 TO 2

Bithorn Wins, 8 to 3; 6 Hits for Merullo.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The largest Chicago baseball crowd of the season, 40,225—38,725 paid and 1,500 service men—had a wonderful time in Mr. Wrigley's verdant park yesterday even tho the New York Giants rudely jolted the feature billing, Lon Warneke's homecoming, with a five run blast in the third inning of the first game and went on to win, 6 to 2.

The first game was interesting even after Lon went to the bathhouse, because of a handsome job of relief pitching by Johnny Schmitz, but it took the second game to make the capacity crowd forget Warneke's sorrow. The Cubs won that one, 8 to 3, by sheer slashing, with Lou Novikoff knocking out Bill Lohrman, New York ace, with his fourth homer immediately after Phil Cavarretta, another north side pet, had busted a triple.

Merullo Gets Six Hits.

Most of the Chicago boys did things to please, but the big star of the day, and the one who received thunderous applause on numerous occasions, was Lenny Merullo, Cub shortstop. After warming up with three singles in four times at bat in the first game, Len had a perfect string in the second game with two singles, a double and a walk. Added to this Merullo pulled some unbelievable plays afield to lead the Cubs' defense, which was errorless in both contests.

Hi Bithorn went all the way in the second game to account for his fourth victory of the season. It was the Puerto Rican's second successful experience against the New Yorkers. Hi had no trouble until after the Cubs had given him a comfortable lead. Successive doubles by Babe Young and Babe Barna in the fourth gave the New Yorkers their first run and they added the other two when Hi got a bit wild in the seventh. The losers made nine hits in losing the second game, the same number the Cubs negotiated off Hal Schumacher while losing the first game.

It Just Wasn't Lon's Day.

Warneke actually was not knocked out in the devastating third, thanks to the generosity of Manager Jim Wilson, who perhaps would have acted more hastily under ordinary circumstances.

When Lon walked Mickey Witek at the start of the fourth, however, he was replaced by Lefty Schmitz. In five innings thereafter Schmitz faced 15 batsmen, the minimum. At the start of the ninth, Harry Danning got the only hit off Schmitz, a double to left center. Harry went to third on Dick Bartell's sacrifice and scored on Witek's fly to Bill Nicholson.

It looked like a great day for Warneke when Bill Werber, Willard Marshall, and Mel Ott proved easy fly ball victims in the first inning. The New York second was equally encouraging. Johnny Mize fouled to Stan Hack and Barna singled to center. There was much enthusiasm when Danning and Bartell struck out.

Cubs Give Warneke a Lead.

It still was Warneke day when the Cubs scored a run and did some fancy base running in the second. Jim Foxx opened with a single to center. Bill Nicholson popped to Bartell, then Foxx stole second base and stayed there while Bartell was throwing out Lou Stringer. Merullo knocked a single to center, scoring Foxx. Lenny stole second, then third, as Schumacher threw a fourth wide one to Clyde McCullough, but Warneke bounced out to Witek.

Then came the sad, sad third. Witek opened with a single to center

Entries for Annual Tribune Swim Meet Close Tonight

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Today is your last chance to enter the Chicagoland 100 yard free style swimming races. Entries for the four sectional meets which qualify contestants for the title races close at midnight.

The individual entry blank is printed for the final time this morning. Team entries, as usual, may be made by the coach or manager of the squad and he should furnish the age and home address of each swimmer as well as the other information which is requested in the individual blank. Letters postmarked before midnight will be accepted by the clerks of the meet, who now are tabulating the entry list for each of the qualifying tournaments.

Each contestant will receive a post card of acceptance. These will be mailed not later than Thursday and Friday, the date depending on the qualifying meets. Two will be held Saturday afternoon and the others on Sunday afternoon. The schedule of qualifying meets follows:

SATURDAY.

Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill.
Sherman park, 52d street and Racine avenue.

SUNDAY.

Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues.
California park, 3901 North California avenue.

Approximately 120 boys and girls will receive gold qualifying medals this week in the qualifying 100 yard races. These contestants in 10 classes —five for boys and five for girls—will meet for the Chicagoland championships July 26 in the California park pool. All qualifying races will start at 2 o'clock and the clerks will accept registration at the pool starting an hour earlier. The postcard, which is mailed this week, will admit the bearer to the pool without charge.

Entries for Sherman Park.

A majority of the swimmers are entered in the meets at Whealan pool and California park next Sunday. This probably is due to the higher rate of employment this summer of the middle class swimmers. In yesterday's mail, however, Sherman park received a number of entries, including that of Thayer Hatch, who will come from St. Joseph, Mich., to try for a position in the Chicagoland finals July 26.

Lieut. Jim McMillen and his assistants, who have charge of athletics for the sailors stationed at Navy pier, will file a list of swimmers today for the qualifying trials. The better swimmers were being listed last week and they will compete in the qualifying 100 yard races in California park.

All amateur swimmers are eligible to enter the Chicagoland races. There is no geographical restriction, nor is there an entry fee.

[ENTRY BLANK ON NEXT PAGE.]

PAT ABBOTT WINS WESTERN GOLF CROWN, 7 AND 6

Spokane, Wash., July 12 (AP).—Soldier Pat Abbott, a one time Hollywood small part actor now in the army, won the Western Amateur Golf championship today with a 7 and 6 victory over Bruce McCormick, Los Angeles fireman.

Abbott, one of the country's topnotchers since he won the national public links crown in 1936, had things his own way from the time he won the third hole this morning by dropping a 28 foot putt for a birdie 2.

Cards Show 21 Birdies.

The army man, stationed at Lowry field, Denver, played championship golf thruout the tournament. When he wrapped up the title on the 30th hole he had played 118 holes of golf in six days 10 under par. His cards showed 21 birdies and 10 bogies.

Abbott took possession of the huge silver trophy for a year and pocketed a $100 war bond for his efforts. The championship was not much more pleasing than word received from his commanding officer in Denver extending his leave by a day in order for him to play National Amateur Champion Corp. Marvin [Bud] Ward tomorrow in an exhibition match, the proceeds going to the army relief fund.

Replay of Last Year's Amateur.

The Ward-Abbott match will amount to a replay of last year's National Amateur in Omaha. Ward defeated Abbott 5 and 3 in the finals. Ward, medalist in the Western, in which he was seeking his third successive title, was eliminated Friday.

PETERSEN GETS TEST TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Blunt's Opponent Has Won Last Six Fights.

Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor heavyweight, will encounter one of the most important tests of his two year career when he faces Eddie Blunt, giant Corona, Long Island, fighter, in an eight round bout tonight in Marigold outdoor arena, Broadway and Grace street. Petersen, who will be making his 23d ring appearance, has a record of 17 victories and one draw as against four defeats. He was won his last six bouts, five by knockouts.

Blunt returns to this city for the first time since being knocked out by Lem Franklin in the Coliseum nearly two years ago. Eddie's showing against Franklin was disappointing, but he more than redeemed himself in a subsequent encounter by upsetting Buddy Baer in Oakland, Cal. Because of this achievement Blunt has encountered considerable trouble obtaining bouts, so much so that he has had only two battles since.

Last February while serving as a sparmate for Franklin for the latter's match with Bob Pastor, Blunt was offered $150 for a four round supporting contest on the card. Ed refused, not because of the small purse involved but because of the matchmaker's attempt to reduce him to the rank of a preliminary performer. Blunt will weigh about 218 pounds at the Illinois athletic commission this afternoon. Petersen probably will tip the beam at 207. Other matches:

Hezzie Williams, Chicago, vs. Leroy Lawson, Detroit [5], 175.

Ignacio Martinez will meet Bert Rubi in a mat headliner this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. . . . William R. Rand, Chicago promoter, who has an option on Booker Beckwith's services, has given the Gary 175 pound boxer permission to face Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati in a 10 round event in Pittsburgh July 27. . . . Ramey McKnight, Milwaukee welterweight, was forced to forego an offer to appear on tonight's Marigold fight program because of the illness of his wife, to whom he gave a blood transfusion after she became a mother last week. . . . Ruben Shank, Denver, Colo., welterweight, has postponed a contest, scheduled against Vinnie Vines in Newark this evening, to July 27.

Spartas Beat Vikings, 2-1, in Soccer Final

BY OFFSIDE.

Sparta Ogden Dairy won the championship of the International Soccer league by defeating the Vikings, 2 to 1, in the Lane Tech stadium yesterday. The game was a playoff of an earlier contest which ended in a fight, Yesterday's match closed the league soccer season in Chicago.

Fred Janzic scored the first goal for Sparta after 38 minutes and a couple of minutes later, Mons Sebbi of the Vikings, trying to clear a corner kick, headed the ball into the net which he was trying to defend. That gave the Spartas a 2 to 0 lead.

The Vikings opened up with a hard driving offense in the second period scoring after 30 minutes, when Harold Anderson sent over a high pass which Tura Hallquist booted into the net. Jimmy McDermott and Jimmy Wolf, whose contracts had expired, played with the Spartas thru special permission from the National association, while Sven Olson and Tura Hallquist of the Linneas were with the Vikings.

In a preliminary game, the Slovaks beat the Chicago Sport club, 4 to 1, to take third place in the major league standing. Pete Matevich scored three of the winner's goals.

MEADOWBROOK POLO TEAM TOPS PARK RIDGE, 5-4

Meadowbrook Polo club of Milwaukee won a 5 to 4 decision yesterday over Park Ridge on the Park Ridge field, River road and Devon avenue. Park Ridge rallied in the final chukker for two goals.

Bill Schmidt, with three goals, and George Meyer, with two, accounted for Meadowbrook's total. Billy Mayer and Len Bernard of Park Ridge each scored two goals.

The Milwaukee foursome counted three times before the opening period was half ended, Schmidt scoring twice and Meyer once. Meyer and Schmidt again drove the ball between the uprights in the fifth chukker.

Bernard got Park Ridge in the scoring column in the first period, Mayer added another goal in the third, and each of these players made a point in the final period.

Segura Routs Hecht in New Jersey Tennis Final

Orange, N. J., July 12 (AP).—Francisco Segura of Ecuador blazed thru Ladislav Hecht, former Czecho-Slovakian Davis cup star, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0, today to win the New Jersey state men's tennis championship. The love set rout of the Brooklyn, N. Y., player took only 45 minutes and sent tennis veterans looking thru the records to find the last time a finalist had been crushed without winning a game in a major tourney.

Men Bowlers Win

A four man team of Budweisers, ABC champions, defeated a four girl team of Logan Square Buicks, Women's International Bowling Congress champions, in an exhibition at the Lawrence bowl yesterday, but had to come from behind to do it. Nina Van Camp fired a 214 to Bill Hargadon's 181 and Tess Morris shot 194 to Joe Wilman's 150 to lead the Logan Squares to a 715 to 703 triumph in the opening game. The Budweisers took the next two, winning the match 2,155 to 2,063, but the Logan Squares salvaged the individual high series, Miss Van Camp's 589, which included games of 212 and 163 as well as the 214, being high for the day.

The occasion was the presentation of world championship medals and the team trophy to the Logan Squares.

HARRY NYE SAILS GALE TO VICTORY IN STAR SERIES

Takes Event for Seventh Straight Year.

Harry Nye Jr. of the Chicago Yacht club yesterday won the Southern Lake Michigan Star class elimination series with his 22 foot sloop Gale, taking the morning and afternoon races sailed off Chicago harbor under auspices of the Columbia Yacht club.

Winning score for the three race series was 34 for Gale; Shrew, 30; Loch Lomond, 23, and Cherokee, 22. Nye, who has won the elimination title every year since 1936, thus will represent the four Star-boat yacht clubs in the city at the world Star class championships here the last week of August. Nye was second in the international regatta last year at Los Angeles.

Commodore John T. Pirie II. won the second race of the Wilmette Star class fleet's elimination series. Flying the Sheridan Shore Yacht club flag, he sailed his flagship Gemini to first place yesterday morning over a 10 mile course. Glider was second, and Dolphin, winner of the first event Saturday, third. The standing at the end of the second race was Gemini, 15 points; Dolphin, 14, and Glider, 13. The third and final race, scheduled for yesterday afternoon, was called off because of strong winds. It will be sailed next Sunday morning.

Mrs. Jean Bates sailed the yawl Patsy to first place yesterday in the Jackson Park Yacht club's annual lady skippers' race in the Universal division. Patsy covered the 4½ mile course in a corrected time of 37 minutes 15 seconds.

Faraday Benedict, sailing the 55 foot cruising yawl Southern Cross, won in the A and B classes with a corrected time of 33 minutes. Audax, sailed by Mrs. William Whalen, finished last in the class after the jib sheet parted during the race. The cruising cutter Avalon, sailed by Mrs. Douglas Palm, won in the C and D classes, with a corrected time of 39:20.

Fleet Capt. P. H. Danly's 56 foot cruising-racing yawl Trident won the Columbia-Chicago Yacht clubs' interclub race off Chicago harbor yesterday. Trident's elapsed time for the 8 mile course was 2:41:17, corrected 2:57:33.

HERZOGS, GARDEN CITY WINNERS IN BBYO SOFTBALL

Garden City defeated the Spartans, 4 to 3, and the Herzogs won over the Jensen Youngies, 7 to 0, in semi-final games of the senior division of the B'nai B'rith Youth organization softball tournament in Grant park yesterday.

Kraus took first place in the Lodge division by winning two games yesterday, the first from Cardoza, the former leader, 9 to 3, and the second from South Side, 8 to 5. Scores of other games:

Garfield Park, 6; Ramah, 1. Edgewater, 5; South Side, 4. Ramah, 6; Salomon, 5. Edgewater, 8; Garfield Park, 1.

MIDWEST PUBLIC LINKS GOLF MEET UNDERWAY TODAY

Public links golfers, heretofore neglected in the competitive scheme of 1942 golf in the Chicago district, will move into the picture this week with today's opening of the 15th annual Midwest tournament, conducted by the Lincoln Park Golf club over the Waveland avenue course. Fred Hawkins of Chain o' Lakes, winner of the 1941 championship, is now engaged in defense work and will not defend his title.

A number of other stars, however, are expected to take part in the 18 hole qualifying round today, in which the low 32 scorers will enter match play in the championship bracket. At least two other flights will be set up for man to man competition, so that each entrant is assured of at least two days of play. The club is inviting every amateur in the district to compete. Entry fee is $1, plus the usual 25 cents a round greens fee.

Former Champions Play.

Harry Wils Sr. of Elmhurst, 1940 winner, will play again, as will Sandy Rissman of Bryn Mawr, runner-up to Wils and Hawkins the last two years. The Lincoln Park club's hopes will rest on Joe Pardi and Rudy Bowman.

Following the qualifying round today, 18 hole matches will be played tomorrow thru Friday, with Saturday's championship round scheduled for 36 holes.

Sweeney Heads Club.

Frank Sweeney is president of the club; Seymour Winn, secretary; Porter B. Smith, chairman of the sports and pastimes committee, and Manford Haskell, treasurer.

Dodgers' 26th Player Draws Pirate Protest

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 12 [Special].—The Pirates said tonight they would file a protest because the Dodgers had 26 men in uniform on the field today. They referred to Max Macon, southpaw pitcher purchased from Montreal, who joined the Dodgers today. No other Dodger has been released to make room for him. Secretary John McDonald of Brooklyn said Macon was under a Montreal contract and Manager Leo Durocher merely wanted to look him over for a few days.

The Pirates recalled the case of the Chicago Cubs, who were fined $500 last year for having 26 players on their roster. In that instance the extra player was Charley Gilbert, who at the time was in a Philadelphia hospital. That protest was filed by the Dodgers after they had sent Gilbert, Johnny Hudson, and cash to the Cubs for Bill Herman.

Chicagoland Golf Scores

THE combination of Kenneth Keith, a pro at Cary, Ill., and William Rees, Glen Flora amateur, carded a best ball score of 30—34—64 to win the second annual Pro-Amateur tournament at the Glen Flora club in Waukegan yesterday. John Revolta, Evanston pro who teamed with C. J. Viking of the home club last year to win the first meet, had as his partner yesterday George Morris Jr. of the host club, and they finished second with a 34—32—66. Revolta had the best score of the day with a 36—33—69. Other leaders follow:

Jock Hutchinson Sr., Glen View, and George Heintz, Glen Flora, 33—34—67; Eddie Williams, Bryn Mawr, and J. B. Crowley, Glen Flora, 33—34—67; Robert Stupple, Skokie, and Harold Pillifant, Glen Flora, 33—34—67; George Smith, Onwentsia, and C. L. Whyte Jr., Glen Flora, 34—33—67; Eddie Gayer, Twin Orchard, and Dr. W. D. Kinch, Glen Flora, 36—32—68; John Gibson, Westmoreland, and W. K. Sandmeyer, Glen Flora, 35—33—68; Harry Adams, Medinah, and Elvyn Wightman, Glen Flora, 38—31—69; Sam Bernardi, Old Elm, and Dr. L. E. Hill, Glen Flora, 36—33—69; W. C. Gordon, Tam o' Shanter, and Carl Mellen, Glen Flora, 35—34—69; Bill Melhorn, Melhorn Driving Range, and A. H. Anderson, Glen Flora, 35—34—69; Alec Cunningham, North Shore, and Charles Whyte, Glen Flora, 36—33—69.

BROWNS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM RED SOX

Win First Game, 1 to 0; Capture 2d, 10 to 6.

Boston, Mass., July 12 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox lost their first double header in two months today when the St. Louis Browns shut them out, 1 to 0, in the first game behind Denny Galehouse's six-hit pitching, and then came from behind to take the second contest, 10 to 6, with a six-run rally in the ninth inning.

As Galehouse beat Dick Newsome in the opener, the only run came in the sixth when Don Gutteridge doubled, Bobby Doerr lost Harlond Clift's pop fly in the sun, George McQuinn walked, filling the bases, and Gutteridge scored on Wally Judnich's ground-out.

Chet Laabs drove in five runs in the Browns' second victory, two in the first inning when St. Louis jumped into a four-run lead and three more in the ninth with his 12th homer of the season. Scores:

INDIANS WIN PAIR.

Washington, D. C., July 12 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians trounced Washington twice today, winning the first game by a 10th inning uprising and taking the second behind Jim Bagby's steady eight hit hurling. The scores were 9 to 7 and 5 to 0.

Ken Keltner's single, his fourth hit of the game, Jeff Heath's long triple, and Les Fleming's double produced two runs in the 10th to give Cleveland the first game. Buck Newsom yielded only three hits in the seven innings he worked in the second game, one of them a home run over the right field fence by Heath in the fourth. Les Fleming hit a homer off Bill Zuber in the ninth, scoring Heath in front of him. Score:

Cubs and Giants to Play Service Contests Today

Both the Giants and the Cubs will vie with service teams this afternoon. The New Yorkers will play in Great Lakes and the Cubs will journey to Chanute field to play the soldiers stationed there. Milton Goemer former St. Paul pitcher, will face the Chicagoans. The teams will be back in Wrigley field tomorrow to wind up their third Chicago series of the season. It probably will be Claude Passeau vs. Bob Carpenter tomorrow.

General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs announced yesterday that Eddie Hanyzewski, rookie pitcher from South Bend, had been sent to the Milwaukee Brewers on option. Eddie, who has won one and lost none for the Cubs, will pitch against Kansas City, American association leader, tomorrow night.

The Giants battered the Arkansas thin man for five runs in the third inning and went on to win, 6 to 2. The Cubs took the second game, 8 to 3.

and scored on Schumacher's line double to the left field corner. Werber singled to left, Schumacher stopping at third. When Hack cut off the throw toward the plate he barely missed getting Werber sneaking to second. Marshall bounced to Foxx and it went for a hit when Warneke failed to cover first. Schumacher scored on the Marshall single, Werber stopping at third. Ott singled to right, Werber scoring and Marshall taking third. Manager Wilson conferred with Warneke in the center of the diamond and Lon asked to continue. Mize flied to Cavarretta and Marshall scored. Warneke threw out Barna, but Danning singled to center scoring Ott. Bartell forced Danning.

Novikoff Hits 390 Foot Double.

The Cubs apparently were getting to Schumacher in their end of the third but they had to settle for one run, their last of the contest. With one down, Cavarretta lined a double to right center and scored when Novikoff drove a 390 foot double off the wall in left center.

Mize was injured in the fifth inning, but was patched up sufficiently to pinch bat in the second game.

The shelling of Lohrman, who previously had lost only twice while winning seven, began with a double to right by Foxx at the start of the second inning of the second game. Nicholson then beat out a single to Young, Foxx going to third. Stringer tried to duck a wide pitch and, when the ball bounced off Lou's bat, it so startled Lohrman that he let it go past him for a single, Foxx scoring. Merullo carried on his happy afternoon with a single to left, Nicholson scoring and Stringer reaching third, whence he scored on Chico Hernandez' fly to Marshall.

A Double Jolt for Lohrman.

Lohrman said good-by in the third. Cavarretta smashed a triple off the right field wall, then Novikoff knocked the ball over the new screen atop the left field wall, scoring behind Cavarretta. Harry Feldman replaced Lohrman. Foxx and Nicholson were called out on strikes, both after three and two counts. Stringer flied out.

The Cubs knocked out Feldman with three hits and three runs in the fifth. Novikoff opened with a single to center and Foxx walked. Novikoff scored and Foxx stopped at third on Nicholson's double to right, whereupon Stringer sent a long fly to Marshall, Foxx scoring and Nicholson reaching third. Nicholson scored on Merullo's sixth of the afternoon. Bill McGee replaced Feldman and Hernandez flied to Marshall. The victors' scoring was over for the day.

House of David Beats Winklers Twice, 12-4, 5-1

The House of David All-Star baseball team defeated the Winkler Motors, 12 to 4 and 5 to 1, in the third and fourth games of their series yesterday in Rockola stadium. The first two games were won by the Motors.

REDS WIN TWO BATTLES FROM PHILS, 2-0, 2-1

Vander Meer Fans 13 in Opener; Yields 3 Hits.

Cincinnati, O., July 12 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phils had to be content with a single run in two games with Cincinnati today as Johnny Vander Meer blanked them 2 to 0 on three hits in the opener and Elmer Riddle won 2 to 1 in the second game. Vander Meer's smoke ball fanned 13 Phils. He issued four walks.

Hans Lobert, Phils manager, was ousted in the sixth inning of the second game for protesting a decision by Umpire Bill Stewart. Scores:

CARDINALS WIN PAIR.

St. Louis, Mo., July 12 (AP).—Catcher Walker Cooper rode the crest of a wave of timely Cardinal hitting today as St. Louis cut a full game off Brooklyn's league leading margin with a double victory over the Boston Braves.

The Cardinals won the opener, 5 to 1, on Harry Gumbert's two hit pitching and pounded out a 9 to 3 triumph in the second as Ernie White and Howard Krist teamed up to hold the Braves to seven hits.

Cooper slashed a home run, three doubles, and a single in seven trips to the plate. Scores:

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

HOUSE MINORITY REPORT FLAILS STEEP TAX HIKE

Called Unbearable Business Burden.

Washington, D. C., July 12 (AP).—A minority of the house ways and means committee asserted today that proposed corporation taxes in the new 6 billion 250 million dollar revenue bill were too severe, one member calling them "a grievous burden for all and a back breaking burden for many." Rep. A. W. Robertson [D., Va.], made that appraisal and was supported in this view by Representatives W. E. Disney [D., Okla.], and R. M. Duncan [D., Mo.].

Before approving the bill yesterday, a majority of the committee voted to increase from 31 to 45 per cent the combined normal and surtaxes on corporation income.

Robertson said he had supported a 40 per cent rate and a postwar refund of part of the excess profits taxes because if taxes are made unbearably high and "corporations can't satisfactorily function in the postwar era, the alternative is government ownership and operation."

Calls 45% Rate "Murder."

Disney said "the 45 per cent rate is murder." He and Duncan contended, too, that a last minute vote to reduce the excess profits tax rate from 94 to 87½ per cent left tax free too large a proportion of the swollen profits of many corporations.

The 94 per cent rate, once tentatively approved but then discarded, carried a provision for postwar return of 14 per cent to the taxpayers.

As drafting clerks worked over the week-end to get the bill ready for floor consideration by Thursday, members predicted there would be several formal minority reports in addition to the lengthy description of the legislation being prepared for the majority. One member, who asked to remain anonymous, indicated he would oppose omission of mandatory joint income tax returns by husbands and wives.

Leaders planned to ask that the legislation be considered under a "closed rule"—a procedure barring any amendments except those recommended by the committee.

Fight in Prospect.

A fight was in prospect on the question of adopting such a rule which some members called a "gag." Rep. John E. Rankin [D., Miss.], for one, said he would oppose it. He desired, he said, to offer amendments limiting inheritances to a maximum of 1 million dollars, "at least until this war is won and paid for," and raising income tax rates to the point where no one would have more than $25,000 income after payment of taxes.

Duncan, who disclosed that he had voted against the bill in committee, said he thought rates on individual incomes of $4,000 to $5,000 were too high, altho above that level "the rates are not too high and that includes myself." Congressmen receive $10,000 annually.

The bill lowers exemptions of single persons from $750 to $600 and of heads of families from $1,500 to $1,200. [The reductions do not apply to persons in the armed forces.] It increases the normal tax rate from 4 to 6 per cent and the graduated surtax from 6 per cent on the first $2,000 of net income to 13 per cent.

U. S. to Sign Pact Today for All Bolivian Rubber

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 12 (AP).—A contract for the sale of the entire Bolivian rubber production, expected to amount to 3,000 tons in 1943, will be signed tomorrow by Foreign Minister Eduardo Anze and United States Ambassador Pierre de Boal. The United States will pay 45 cents a pound under the contract which will run for several years, and will furnish $2,125,000 for the opening of roads, development of new plantations and hygienic measures in the producing areas. Argentina and Uruguay had been bidding for Bolivia's rubber.

Paul H. Davis Co. to Open Office in Rockford Today

Paul H. Davis & Co., member of the Chicago and New York Stock exchanges, will open an office in Rockford, Ill., today. Carroll H. Starr, who operated the Rockford office of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane until its discontinuance will manage the Davis office.

PROBLEM OF MOVING IS SOLVED; FURNITURE HAS ITS OWN CRATING

Self-crating furniture of the utility type for migratory arms plant workers and others who do a lot of moving is on exhibit at the national furniture and home furnishings show which will start its final week today in the American Furniture Mart. Beds, chests, writing tables, coffee and lamp tables and bookcases are made so that the shipping container is part of the furniture.

Another new item is a shopper's cart, made of wood, to which is attached a weatherproof bag that will hold 60 pounds of foodstuffs. It is designed to help solve the delivery problem and save shoppers' automobile tires.

Utilization of available materials has enabled the toy industry to increase its sales in spite of shortages of metals, according to Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart. He said that toy sales during the first week of the semiannual home furnishings show at the mart were 2 per cent larger than in the first week of the January market and 18 per cent larger than a year ago.

Knudsen Finds Key to Victory in War Plants

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 12 (AP).—America's genius for production—far beyond the tremendous rate already achieved—will inevitably crush the Axis under a staggering outpouring of war weapons, Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen told 200 war manufacturers today after a Sunday tour of plants operating at full tilt.

Lieut. Gen. Knudsen.

"We are slow to get mad and have taken a little bouncing around because of it, but we are going to have a surprise for Hitler and the others," the chief of army war production asserted.

Certain of Victory.

"It is going to be a long, hard struggle and we have hardly scratched the surface, but beyond any question, we are going to win, no matter how long it takes. Little by little we are getting everyone in the country into the total war effort."

Headlining the major phases of the production effort as materials, labor, design and tooling, Knudsen asserted there was "no real cause for worry" over a material shortage.

Pays Tribute to Women.

"We have more steel than the Axis, more copper, more aluminum—plenty of everything we need except rubber, and we are going to have rubber, too, in good time," he said.

Knudsen paid tribute to the women of the country for the "all-important" role they are playing in the production effort, asserting they had helped prevent a labor shortage that was imminent a few months ago.

Knudsen will complete an eight-day tour of Michigan war plants in Muskegon tomorrow.

MANITOWOC SHIP DIVIDEND PLAN LACKS SUPPORT

A proposal of the Manitowoc Shipbuilding company to pay off back dividends totaling $510,000 on first and second preferred stock on the basis of 20 per cent cash and 80 per cent in common stock, will not materialize, at least for the present, Charles C. West, president, notified stockholders yesterday.

When the plan was suggested last May, West said it would be carried out "if a substantial number of stockholders favored it."

His second letter states that of 5,868 shares of first preferred stock outstanding, 2,716 were voted in favor of the plan, 971 were opposed, and 2,181 were not voted. Of 2,313 shares of second preferred 1,544 were voted for plan, 235 opposed it, and 534 shares were not voted. Common shares totaling 97,987 showed 54,460 in favor with 41,527 not yet listed.

"Opposition to the plan is represented by comparatively few shares," May said, "but the number that has not been voted is large, particularly in the common stock class. As the vote now stands the directors do not feel justified in taking further steps to put the plan in operation."

Expect Decision This Week on 'Little Steel' Wage Plea

Washington, D. C., July 12 (AP).—The War Labor board, deliberating the wage and union security issues in the "Little Steel" case, has deferred its next meeting until Tuesday and probably will not reach a decision until later in the week, board sources said today. The board has been considering CIO demands for a $1 a day wage increase since final arguments were heard July 2. The companies making up "Little Steel" are Bethlehem, Republic, Inland, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Increased Sugar Assured to Prevent Food Wastage

Washington, D. C., July 12 (AP).—The OPA today authorized its state directors to grant increased sugar supplies to food manufacturers whenever necessary to avoid wastage of fresh fruit and vegetables. The concession was hedged, however, with instructions to the state officials to make sure the sugar content of any such product could not be reduced.

Advises Fewer Shifts in Plant WorkingHours

Changing workers from one shift to another every other week reduces efficiency in production and interferes with normal living and personal comfort, Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman, University of Chicago physiology professor, asserted yesterday after a study of the sleep problem.

Many war plants rotate the day and night shifts on alternate weeks. Dr. Kleitman, an authority on sleep requirements, said shifts should not be changed oftener than every few months. He said the average person requires several weeks to become adjusted to a change in schedule.

Efficiency Up Gradually.

"When a person adjusts himself to a new routine, with other than customary hours of sleep, work, meals, and leisure, he gradually acquires a daily body temperature curve with the highest efficiency and least sleepiness during the new activity hours and just the opposite during the new sleeping hours," Dr. Kleitman said.

"Establishment of a new 24 hour sleep, work, meals, leisure cycle requires several weeks, and it cannot be achieved under the system which prevails in some establishments of weekly or bi-weekly shift rotation, because the individual is not given a chance to adapt himself to a new routine.

Raises Accident Rate.

"Essentially, he remains on the customary cycle of daytime and night time sleep. This makes him dislike work at odd hours. It causes him to be sleepy when he should be wide awake and wakeful when he should be sleeping. It leads to a decrease in production and an increased tendency to accidents."

Dr. Kleitman suggested that "since rotation of shifts is often adopted as a measure of fairness to all workers, the principle can be preserved by having all workers change shifts once in several months." He suggested this schedule of shifts: Noon to 8 p. m. [He termed this especially desirable for young persons who like night recreation]; 8 p. m. to 4 a. m., and 4 a. m. to noon.

SAFETY EXPERTS TO MEET IN WAR PLANT CAMPAIGN

A conference of 60 safety engineers assisting the federal man power conservation effort on a $1 a year basis will be held in the Palmer House Wednesday, according to T. O. Meisner, Illinois chairman of the national committee to conserve man power in war industries. Gov. Green, as honorary chairman of the committee, joined in the call for the conference.

Meisner said pressure for speed in production, inexperienced workers, and a shortage of safety directors, are factors that are raising the accident rate in Illinois war plants.

Classes in safety training will be started in September in Alton, Aurora, Bloomington, Carbondale, Chicago Heights, Decatur, East St. Louis, Effingham, Elgin, Granite City, Joliet, La Salle, Streator, Moline, Rock Island, Mattoon, Mount Vernon, Peoria, Rockford, and Springfield.

Uniontown Coal Miners Agree to End Strike Today

Uniontown, Pa., July 12 (AP).—Settlement of a week long strike of 1,000 coal miners at the Crucible Fuel company mine was reported tonight by the CIO United Mine Workers. Union officials said the men had agreed to return to work tomorrow pending negotiation of a wage contract.

MANY STANDARDIZED, NO-BRAND PRODUCTS IN SIGHT: HENDERSON

Washington, D. C., July 12 (AP).—"Victory" models of household appliances and other articles—manufactured in standardized form and bearing no brand names—may make their appearance on the markets before the war is much older, Price Administrator Leon Henderson has told congress.

Publication of his testimony before a senate appropriations subcommittee disclosed he had asserted that diversion of nonmilitary production into plants that could not get war contracts was going forward as rapidly as possible.

"What that may mean," he testified, "is that victory models will be made by one manufacturer and distributed by other organizations in the field. It will undoubtedly mean simplification and standardization of many items.

Henderson said he was uncertain as to how soon the standardized products would appear on the market, adding "fortunately" the country had its biggest inventories of consumer goods in history when the war began.

ALLOCATIONS PUT STEEL RATINGS IN A MINOR POSITION

The extent to which War Production board allocations and directives have superseded priority ratings "is indicated by the statement of an eastern steelmaker that 83 per cent of its bookings are covered by direct order and only 17 per cent is available for A-1-A or lower ratings," the magazine Steel reported yesterday. "Chicago district mills estimate that 90 per cent of their orders are on directives," the publication said in its weekly review of the industry.

"For several weeks producers have been unable to promise definite deliveries on major products with A-1-A rating and at present this priority has practically no standing."

Steel estimated that national ingot production remained unchanged last week at 97½ per cent of capacity, furnace repairs and limited scrap supply preventing an increase.

Steel producers reported the problem of getting scrap iron and steel, vital to efficient production of tanks, guns, and ships, was increasingly serious. Reports in trade quarters indicated the supply is slim in many key areas.

U. S. LABORATORY TO EXTEND WAR MINERAL SEARCH

Washington, D. C., July 12 (AP).—Dr. A. R. Sayers, mines bureau director, announced today a $500,000 electro development laboratory would be established in the Pacific northwest to study the recovery and processing of minerals by using electrical energy from Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams. Construction is to start as soon as the site is selected.

"Improved methods of recovering magnesium and aluminum from the plentiful natural resources of that area, together with research in the processing of tungsten, chromium, manganese, vanadium, and other strategic and critical materials are the bureau's chief objectives, he said.

UNION CENTRAL LIFE.

Can you furnish a report on Union Central Life Insurance company?—B. E.

Answer: This company was organized in Ohio in 1867. A mutualization plan was adopted last year under which company ownership will pass to the 225,000 policyholders upon retirement of the 125,000 shares of stock outstanding at $25 per share.

A policyholders' mutualization meeting last October was recessed to April so that policyholders could receive a report on the company examination then in progress. At the April meeting it was stated that about 55,000 ballots and proxies had been received, mostly favoring the plan. The meeting was then recessed until Nov. 6. The mutualization can be accomplished, it was said, without using any of the company's participating surplus.

Admitted assets at the end of 1941 were $436,002,971, compared with $413,679,712 a year earlier. Insurance written last year totaled $71,661,490, bringing insurance in force to $1,137,919,897. Insurance written in 1940 amounted to $70,469,496, which brought insurance in force to $1,130,028,693. Total income in 1941 was $72,135,577, against total disbursements of $49,364,968. The yield last year on all assets was 3.2 per cent.

Of total assets, 46 per cent are invested in bonds, 30 per cent in mortgages, and the balance in real estate and policy loans. The company writes participating life insurance on the annual dividend plan.

PAR VALUE CHANGED.

Has a change been made in the par value of Alles & Fisher common stock, and if so, when was the change made?—V. S.

Answer: Par value of Alles & Fisher, Inc., common stock was changed from no par to $1 a share on June 26.

CREDIT CALL.

What is a credit call agreement?—L. C.

Answer: A credit call agreement generally gives the borrower the right to secure loans up to a certain aggregate amount within a specified period at set interest rates. Usually a commitment fee on the unused portion of the total credit is charged the borrower. A company undertaking a long term expansion program might enter into such an agreement so as to be assured of funds as needed.

BANKS ACQUIRE LARGE SHARE OF TREASURY ISSUE

Experts Concerned Over Rising Trend.

New York, July 12 [Wide World].—The United States treasury sold 2 billion dollars of bonds last week in the first offering of the fiscal year which began July 1. Wall street watched this issue with more interest, perhaps, than any since the nation entered the war.

There never was any question that the issue would be largely oversubscribed. Allotments to subscribers were 52 per cent of the amount applied for; that is, subscription applications were 3 billion 43 million dollars for the 2 billion issue.

But money market experts, concerned over the fact an increasing amount of the debt created by war is going into banks, observed particularly that banks bought vast amounts of the new issue. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. revealed two big New York banks alone applied for 100 and 125 millions of the issue, among the largest single subscriptions ever made for any security offering.

Medium Term Issue.

The issue bears a 2 per cent coupon and matures from 1949 to 1951, making it a medium-term issue. The longest term treasury bonds outstanding come due in 1960. The issue did not come thru without a helping hand from the federal reserve banks, which bought 180 millions of government securities in the open market.

The reserve system has been buying governments since early April, and in that time has added nearly 700 millions to its portfolio in the most extensive buying campaign of this kind in the 18 years the system has been in existence.

The object, of course, has been to sustain the "excess reserve" position of the commercial banks and thus facilitate their absorption of the huge amounts of new government securities being floated. Even so, excess funds of New York City member banks declined by 55 millions during the week to 295 millions, the smallest total since the end of 1937.

Entails Banking Adjustments.

Thus while the banks are absorbing big new offerings of governments and appear capable of doing so indefinitely, money experts said, the operation is not being accomplished without adjustments thruout the banking system.

Bankers say that absorption of the growing government debt to a large extent by commercial banks poses special problems for the whole credit structure. When a commercial bank buys treasury securities it pays for them not with cash but with a deposit credit on its books. This government deposit, as it is spent, merely becomes private deposits as those who receive it deposit the government's payment checks in their banks.

In this way, the government creates, in a sense, its own currency, for it has money to spend while nothing on balance has been subtracted from the total amount of check money the country possesses.
